"It is impossible to calculate the moral mischief, if I may so express it, that mental lying has produced in society. When a man has so far corrupted and prostituted the chastity of his mind, as to subscribe his professional belief to things he does not believe, he has prepared himself for the commission of every other crime."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur Near Death

WAR-TIME MACARTHUR—A corn cob pipe clenched in his mouth, hat with elaborate gold braid, and a pair of sun glasses, are the way many people remember the General Douglas MacArthur of World War II. The picture was taken on ship en route to the invasion of Luzon Island in the Philippines. (AP Wirephoto)

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur, gripped in a deepening coma, was in ominous straits Saturday but described as resting quietly.

Army doctors said in late afternoon that his vital functions—such as heartbeat, blood pressure and breathing—were becoming increasingly difficult to sustain. Earlier, they said his liver had ceased to function.

Only a miracle could save him, the doctors said.

Ironically, a long-standing smoldering ailment of the liver, which surgeons hoped they had halted by the first of his three major operations, now is the principal threat to the life of MacArthur, 84.

But a veritable constellation of conditions poses odds against the fight for life of the man whose will to live and strength and fiber have inspired his doctors.

The functioning of his liver virtually has stopped, and the functioning of all his other major vital systems, including his heart, is becoming increasingly difficult to sustain.

That was the grave picture given by a grim-faced Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Army's surgeon general. He heads the team of surgeons, doctors, nurses and other personnel which has strived to save the life of the old hero of three wars.

Heaton's rather detailed account of MacArthur's apparently mortal combat was made more poignant by this:

His story of how the hero of the Philippines — in the short-lived convalescence following his first operation — kept his doctors spellbound with his recited memories of war experiences dating back to Flanders of World War I.

"Corregidor, island hopping, subsequent Japanese government situations were given in turn to us in (beautifully composed) English which to me is second to none," said Heaton, obviously moved by the memory of the bedside sessions with MacArthur.

MacArthur even harkened back to experiences with Gen. John J. "Blackjack" Pershing, Heaton said.

Heaton's report on MacArthur's comatose condition marked the first time any of his doctors had met personally with reporters since MacArthur's first operation on March 6.

The surgeon general, accompanied by two other key figures in the case, stressed that their coming to talk to reporters testified to the gravity of MacArthur's condition.

"Will he live?" was the first question asked after Heaton had read a prepared medical bulletin.

Heaton hesitated for a moment, and then: "Well, let's just say that this is an ominous report." But later, in answer to the question: "Is there any possibility of recovery?" Heaton replied, "Miracles always happen."

Yet he clearly looked as though he thinks there is little chance for any such happening.

U. S. Gives Lie Detector Tests to 23,122 Persons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee reported Saturday the federal government gave lie detector — polygraph — tests to at least 23,122 persons last year.

Actually the figure is higher since the Central Intelligence Agency refused to say how many it gave.

The subcommittee said "serious questions have been raised regarding the reliability of the device and the propriety of its use."

The committee found most of the supposedly scientific tests were administered by military men, some of whom had only five days' training and most of whom were required to have only a high school diploma.

Further, the House Committee on Government Operations reported the polygraph was found to be only 72 per cent accurate in judging falsehoods.

All federal courts and many state tribunals refuse to admit results of a polygraph test into evidence.

The preliminary report was prepared for the full committee by the Foreign Operations and Government Information subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif. Rep. William L. Dawson, D-Ill., heads the full committee. Public hearings on the use of the polygraph will begin Tuesday.

Russian Rocket May Be Aimed Again at Venus

JODRELL BANK, England (AP)—A leading British space scientist said today the Soviet Union's Zond 1 space probe may have been aimed at Venus. The launching was announced Thursday.

Sir Bernard Lovell picked up the craft on the big Jodrell Bank radio telescope and said it did not appear to be on a path that would take it to any specific place in outer space. But he added:

"Since this is the period in which probes would be launched to Venus, it might be a natural inference that this was the original intention."

Moscow, in announcing the launch, did not name the ultimate destination of the spacecraft. Four days ago, officials in Washington said the Russians had failed in two recent attempts to send probes to Venus.

Johnson Predicts 'Good Year,' for U. S., Demos

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today he thinks 1964 will be a good year for the American people and, come November, a good year for the Democratic party.

Johnson, at another unannounced news conference — this one held in the cabinet room — also expressed satisfaction with developments in Latin America — particularly in Brazil and Panama.

And he expressed hope that one potential source of East-West friction — over flights of East German territory by American military planes — would be virtually eliminated by new instructions he has issued which are designed to "avoid such instances ... so far as humanly possible."

The chief executive also took a rosy view of the nation's teenagers, in answer to a request for comment on "loosening morals" among the younger generation.

Johnson said that "from my observation there has been an improvement in morals from my day."

The President said he was certain his parents would have been happier had he observed "the same high standards" as his daughters — Lynda Bird, 20, and Luci Baines, 16.

Much of the 32-minute session was devoted to give and take on foreign affairs.

"We look forward to brighter hopes" in Brazil, he said, asserting that this government was pleased that constitutional processes were observed in the overthrow of former President Goulart.

Junior League To Give D&B $10,000 in Books

The Junior League of Colorado Springs, Inc. will give $10,000 over a three year period to the Colorado School for the Deaf and the Blind in Colorado Springs, in addition to volunteer work by its members, to provide a more complete and up-to-date library, league officials have announced.

A fire at the school in 1950 completely destroyed the building in which the books were located. The money the Junior League is giving is for materials not available to the school through federal and state budgets. Books, magazines, shelving, films, records, tapes and many other items will be purchased. A large portion of this contribution is from funds received from a cabaret held by the Junior League at the International Center in June of 1963.

The League's Community Research Committee, headed by Mrs. James Maytag, conducted a thorough and extensive investigation into the needs and services of the community and presented this information to the general membership.

A committee representing the Junior League will work with Armin Turechek, superintendent of the Colorado School for the Deaf and the Blind, and members of his staff to make plans for the purchase of library materials and to set up volunteer projects. Chairman of this

U.S. Official Urges Private Ownership Of Federal Land

By STEPHEN M. AUG

DENVER (AP)—Large areas of western public lands should be placed under private ownership, an assistant secretary of the Interior said Saturday.

John A. Carver Jr. told about 200 participants at a public lands conference that disposal of federal land into private hands was inhibited by present laws.

Carver and Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, were principal speakers at the one-day conference attended by representatives of more than a dozen states.

Aspinall also advocated private development and ownership of much uncommitted federal land. "I for one vigorously challenge those who say that all of the presently uncommitted public lands should remain in federal ownership," he said.

Carver noted that "the public land laws of the United States are archaic and badly need revision."

He called for ultimate approval of a Public Land Law Review Commission to examine the more than 5,000 public land laws and 10,000 rules and regulations governing federal land.

The commission has been proposed by Aspinall. Legislation to set it up passed the Soviets Prepare for Long, Hard Fight Against Challenge of Communist China

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union began marshaling its propaganda resources Saturday for what Premier Khrushchev described in Budapest as "a long and hard struggle" to preserve communist unity against the challenge of the Red Chinese.

Articles reporting wide publicity for the statement of the Soviet party position in the debate with China published Friday were printed Saturday night in Izvestia, the government paper, from Warsaw, Rome and Paris among others.

Published also was a letter from a woman in Bonn assailing Mao Tze-tung and endorsing Khrushchev — in the first trickle of what doubtless will be a flood of letters from Soviet readers.

Diplomatic and other sources here described the Soviet position, as outlined in the 30,000-word statement of principles published in Pravda, the Communist party paper, as essentially defensive.

Every gesture made by the Soviet Communist party during the past year has been either ignored or met by new Chinese attacks. And the Chinese are continuing the pattern.

With little to gain and everything to lose, the Soviet party, long master in the Communist camp, apparently can expect support from all the European Communist parties except Albania. Diplomats here seem largely agreed on that.

So far only Hungary has spoken out, with a long denunciation of the Chinese for challenging Soviet leadership. It was widely spread in the Budapest press while Khrushchev was there on a visit to help commemorate the 19th anniversary of the liberation of the city from the Nazis.

In the long statement of Soviet party doctrine, made by Mikhail Suslov, chief party ideological spokesman, the Soviet party called for a world meeting of Communist parties to try to restore harmony in the Soviet camp. The speech was made Feb. 14 before the Central Committee in Moscow. It was followed by a concrete proposal made by the Soviet party—which has been ignored by the Chinese.

U.S. and Panama Restore Their Diplomatic Ties

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Panama exchanged notes today restoring diplomatic relations — a first step toward settling their differences over the Panama Canal.

Panama's note was in the form of a telegram from Panamanian Foreign Minister Galileo Solis to U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

And it was learned that Rusk replied in a note sent to Henry Taylor, a U.S. consular official in Panama, with instructions to deliver the message immediately to Solis.

The State Department also instructed Taylor to inform Solis that the consular official would be in charge of the U.S. embassy in Panama until a new ambassador is named.

Chiang Suggests Time Ripe To Oust Reds From China

By ROBERT EUNSON

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Americans should face the fact that Red China's "ultimate aim is the defeat of the United States," President Chiang Kai-shek said Saturday.

"Despite encouraging remarks" such as Sen. J. W. Fulbright's statement March 25 that Washington should think about flexibility toward Peking, "to the Chinese Communists the United States is and always will be enemy No. 1," Chiang declared.

In an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, the 76-year-old leader of the Republic of China described relations between Moscow and Peking as having "already reached the point of no return," so long as their present rulers are in power.

Recommending removal of the Communist regime in China, he said "I am certain the Russians will not intervene."

"American tactics in Viet Nam have proved unsuccessful so far," Chiang said, adding however, that removing U.S. military forces from Southeast Asia would be inconceivable.

"A withdrawal from Viet Nam would be considered the first step in an American withdrawal from the Pacific, including Japan," Chiang said.

Cyprus Defies Turkey; New Fighting Erupts on Island

By RAY J. MOLONEY

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — President Makarios of Cyprus announced Saturday night he has abrogated unilaterally the treaty of alliance which gave Turkey the right to maintain 650 troops on this strategic Mediterranean island.

A short time later, reports of new fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots reached the capital from the northwestern section of the island. British U.N. troops in the area came under fire for the second straight day, but there were no indications of British casualties.

However, the reports said one Greek Cypriot was killed and at least six others were wounded in fighting between the villages of Kokkina and Paykammos.

A U.N. spokesman said Greek Cypriot irregulars in homemade armored cars launched a two-pronged assault against the Turk Cypriot village of Mansoura. Mansoura is near Kokkina.

There were few details of the fighting but a U.N. truce team went into the area in an attempt to arrange a cease-fire.

The spokesman said British U.N. troops came under fire from both sides. He said the Greek Cypriots were armed with automatic weapons and used armored bulldozers in the twin assault.

A Cyprus government spokesman said Archbishop Makarios told Premier Ismet Inonu of Turkey in a note that he was abrogating the treaty because Turkish troops on the island re-

Green Mountain Falls Vote To Test Dispute Over Water

By ROBIN TIBBETS
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

The strength of a write-in campaign which, if successful, would put men on the Green Mountain Falls council who are opposed to any plan to purchase the town's water system from the City of Colorado Springs, will be tested in Tuesday's election.

The five write-in candidates — Dale M. Schekel, Edgar A. Armentrout, Clyde H. Long, Jack G. Quinn and James E. Pickett — are backed by an organization which calls itself the Committee for Fair Play to the Taxpayer.

The committee is basing its objections to buying the water system on the belief that the cost of maintaining and improving the system and setting up business offices will be too great for the taxpayer to stand.

The Fair Play group also objects to proposals that the Green Mountain Falls water system might supply additional water by drilling five wells at the headwaters of the system.

Most of the candidates whose names appear on the printed ballot for Tuesday's election are reportedly in favor of buying the water system. They include O. G. Houchin, unopposed for mayor; Aloysius Paturalski, Malcom Conn, Jerry Bellinger, T. J. Longacre, Ronald E. White and Pickett, candidates for councilmen.

In letters mailed out Friday to 700 residents of Green Mountain Falls and Chipita Park, the Fair Play committee expressed the opinion that well over $200,000 would be required to put the water system in acceptable condition.

This figure is, according to the committee, the amount

APARTMENT BUILDING PROJECT—Construction will begin during April on the new LaSalle Gardens apartment project, to cost $250,000, at North Union and LaSalle St., according to Ward Babbitt and Don E. Ackerman, who will take bids from general contractors this week. Plans call for 18 one bedroom and 12 two bedroom apartments. The building will overlook the Patty Jewett Golf Course and the panorama of the Rockies. The building will be brick veneer over concrete block, with poured concrete floors for maximum soundproofing between apartments. Six-foot balconies and off street parking will also be provided in the plans.

Carson Soldier Injured as Jeep Overturns

GRAND JUNCTION (AP) — Jerry Hester, 23, a Ft. Carson soldier participating in maneuvers along the Colorado River, was seriously injured when his jeep overturned near Fruita early today.

The vehicle burned. Hester was rushed to Veterans Hospital here with internal injuries and his condition was reported as critical.

Hester is a member of E Co., 7th Engineers Battalion, at Ft. Carson, which is staging exercises preparatory to major Army maneuvers in the desert along the lower Colorado River next month.

Sellman Art Show Scheduled for Local Bank

Beginning Monday, and continuing through April 24, the Colorado Springs National Bank will present a one-man exhibit of the paintings of Sydell Sellman, local artist.

Mrs. Sellman studied art while attending school in New York City. She took a special course in charcoal drawing there. Then for some years her predominant interest was in the field of writing.

While living in Denver she returned to her first love, attending several art classes there. But she did not take it seriously until, after coming to Colorado Springs, she finally decided to make art an important part of her career, and began to paint, mostly in oils.

Her first one-man show was at the First National Bank here in 1962. She also exhibited with Art Guild shows at the Antlers Hotel and the Outdoor Show at Colorado College. Her work is mainly abstract-expressionist.

Sydell won the blue ribbon and first prize money in her category at the Colorado State Fair in Pueblo last year, having won third prize in 1962, the first year she entered this statewide exhibit.

She has also exhibited for the past two years in the Canon City Blossom Festival art show, and in the "Own-Your-Own" exhibits at Southern Colorado State College in Pueblo.

Sydell is a member of the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center, the Colorado Springs Art Guild, and the Denver Art Museum. She is well known as a business woman here, a letter shop in the Independence Building.

MORE BOYS

NEW YORK (UPI) — More boys than girls are hospitalized each year, according to the Health Insurance Institute, partly because of a substantially higher rate of accidental injuries among boys.

Analysis of U.S. National Health Survey data, the Institute said, showed that at least 63 out of 1,000 children of both sexes under the age of 15, are hospitalized each year. But the rate for boys is nearly 14 per cent higher than the rate for girls.

Public Invited To Hear Crouch Lecture

The public is invited to attend a lecture to be given by Dr. J. H. Crouch on April 14 at 3 p.m. in the Palmer High School auditorium. Dr. Crouch, a professor of English at Colorado University is the founder and director of the annual Colorado Shakespeare Festival.

This year's festival will be held at Colorado University between August 1 and August 15. During the festival, productions of Shakespeare's "As You Like It," "King John," and "Troilus and Cressida" will be presented at the University.

Dr. Crouch received his doctorate from Cornell University and has especially studied the staging of Shakespearean plays. Palmer High School's Drama Club, Masque and Sandal, attended his production of "Measure for Measure" at Colorado University last summer.

This lecture is to be part of Palmer's celebration of Shakespeare's 400th anniversary.

Dr. Crouch plans to dicuss the relationship between Shakespeare and the modern audience. He will concentrate on four of Shakespeare's favorite plays — "Julius Caesar," "Macbeth," "Hamlet," and "Twelfth Night." "Twelfth Night" is being presented by Palmer High School's drama department April 23, 24, and 25.

Women Pilots Resume Flights

NATAL, Brazil (AP)—Joan A. Merriam resumed her round the world flight Friday in a twin-engine plane, headed for Dakar, Senegal.

The 24-year-old flier from Long Beach, Calif., originally was scheduled to leave Thursday and caused some confusion when she canceled the flight at the last moment because of bad weather at sea. She stayed at an air base, which was closed to newsmen because of the military uprising that deposed President Joao Goulart.

Another American woman on a global flight, Geraldine Mock of Columbus, Ohio, left Cairo in her single-engine plane for Dhahran, Saudi Arabia.

BANK IS SUED

DENVER (UPI) — The Citizens Savings and Loan Association of Albuquerque, N.M., said Friday it loaned $155,000 to an Aurora, Colo., bank and now wants it back. The New Mexico firm said the Home Industrial Bank of Aurora borrowed the sum in February. It filed suit in Federal District Court asking for a declaratory judgment for the amount allegedly loaned and a restraining order preventing the bank from using any of the funds.

Although stationed in Denver, the 249th is a part of Ft. Carson. The unit has 102 members.

AFA Choir Will Appear in Washington, D.C.

The 110-voice Air Force Academy Protestant Cadet Choir will make appearances in Washington, D. C. Friday through Sunday.

Under the direction of James Roger Boyd, Academy organist-choirmaster, the choir will present a concert in the concourse of the Pentagon on Friday and will take part in the observance of Air Force Sunday in the National Cathedral.

The Friday program will be presented as part of the Pentagon Protestant Pulpit, an inter-service, inter - denominational observance held regularly for military and civilian personnel employed there.

Among selections the choir will sing are: Bach's "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee", "Create in Me, O God," Brahms; excerpts from Honegger's "King David"; three American spirituals, and excerpts from "Testament of Freedom," Thompson.

Prior to Air Force Sunday service, the choir will present a special concert including "Jubilate Deo" by Richard Dirksen, associate organist and choirmaster of the Cathedral.

Music to be presented during the service includes "Jesu Dulcis Memoria," Vittoria; "Wondrous Love," a Southern folk hymn arranged by Paul Christianson, and "The Last Words of David," by Thompson.

Representatives from all major Air Force commands will take part in the Sunday services.

LUCKY MAN

DENVER (UPI) — A convicted robber learned Friday he would have to serve only his present 50-to-60 year term in the state penitentiary. A district court jury acquitted Alfred Quintana, 27, of a second stickup charge after hearing four-days of testimony. Despite two witnesses who identified Quintana and a fingerprint linking him to a stolen car used in the getaway, the jury ruled Quintana innocent of the Feb. 4, 1963, grocery store holdup. About $300 was taken from the Big Top Grocery.

Man Who Did Not Die Is Sent to Prison

DENVER (AP) —A judge, noting that William R. Plumlee had tried to fool the court into believing he died in an airplane crash, senenced him Friday to the Colorado Reformatory.

The 26-year-old Denver pilot was ordered by Dist. Judge Sherman G. Finesilver to serve an indeterminate sentence "until you grow up."

Plumlee was facing trial on bogus check charges last April when his rented plane was reported missing between Prescott, Ariz., and Las Vegas, Nev. The plane was found near Albuquerque, N.M.

Authorities at Palm Beach, Fla., later arrested Plumlee on a bad check charge.

In court here, Plumlee pleaded guilty to passing a $25 no-funds check at a Denver supermarket. A second case involving a $6,721 no-funds check allegedly given to a Denver stock firm was dismissed.

BUCKET SEATS

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — By 1970, a third of all cars produced will carry bucket seats, predicts the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

As recently as 1970, the company said, only sports models had bucket seats. The following year 10 per cent of all cars had them. The figure jumped to 15 per cent in 1962, 18 per cent last year and Goodyear expects a further rise to 21 per cent in the current model year.

Widefield High Windup

By CINDY HUTTER

Widefield High School was host to two exchange students from Air Academy High School last week. Cheryl Crosland and Bill Mack, seniors, stayed with WHS seniors Alice Stevens and John Enroughty during their stay at Widefield. WHS students Lynn McCord and Gary Baker were the WHS exchange students sent to AAHS.

The Tyrolean Trio, under the direction of Jacob Eberl and from their native Austria, will tour the country presenting music and dancing. The show is designed not only to entertain but also to inform. The trio will appear at WHS on Tuesday. They will come in Tyrolean dress and play their native instruments. . .accordion, knopforgel, guiter, zither and Raffele. They will sing folk songs and dance the "landler" and the "Schuhplatter" dances. Yodeling and a collection of cow and goat bells will add variety to the program.

Three WHS students placed in the top 10 per cent of all schools participating in the 1964 high school mathematics contest in a district comprising schools in Wyoming, Utah and Colorado. The contest is held annually and is sponsored jointly by the Mathematical Association of America and the Society of Actuaries. WHS placed 10th among the 128 participating schools. Bruce Beyers, senior, was high scorer for the exams. William Tolch, senior, placed second, and Robert Tratz, senior, placed third. Bruce was a winner in last year's contest. In the individual standings Bruce placed 35th, William 36th and Robert 20th. The only other school in the top 10 per cent was Wasson High School, which placed 12th.

Miss Pat Lukavitch, WHS senior and Colorado's Junior Miss representative, is back from Mobile, Ala., where she placed among the top 10 in the national contest.

The school lunch menu for this week is as follows.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

Not a Colorado pioneer but an Englishman gets himself into our column this week with his story that I think is worth telling.

I was spending the summer of 1906, the time of the big earthquake in San Francisco, in Long Beach, Calif. Several of us had planned to make a trip through some of several battleships that had been lying in the harbor, or rather off shore, near San Pedro, doing nothing as far as we knew, and folks were making excursion trips out to them by boats to be taken on board as guests and shown about. That evening before the giant disaster, three, or maybe four, I have forgotten which, were lying peacefully on the quiet and beautiful pacific Ocean. They made a beautiful picture in the sunset.

But the next morning they were all gone. They had been ordered up to the scene of the earthquake, and we were a disappointed lot of would-be sightseers. But when the morning Long Beach papers came to us, we learned the reason why. We were told, too, that all along that coast we were to expect high tides, tides far above the normal ones, and maybe Long Beach would be under a lot of water.

We waited feafully, not going to the beach as usual, and even slept for a few nights with our door unlocked and partly open that we might be able to rush out at a moment's notice and make a dash for higher ground. Our house was a short block from the water's edge. But it all proved to be for the residents of that little town only a scare as none of the tides ever rose any higher than normally and we all quieted down. We felt no earth tremors at any time then, though I have ex-since, and none of them to my liking.

The story this week has nothing to do with such troubles but here it is:

I recall well the day I heard this story. While living in Long Beach, which was then only a small town, where the principal thoroughfare, Pine Street, was only a dusty road, I went often for excitement to Los Angeles, making the trip by means of the Pacific Electric car line. This line ran large, comfortable coaches every hour and after the passengers had settled themselves in the Pullman-like and well-cushioned seats, they looked about for someone with whom to visit while making the hour or so run to the metropolis.

This day that I remember so well, my seat mate, who sat next to the window, was a pleasant, comfortable-looking woman of nearly 70 years, I judged. She had a gray suit of tweed a black straw hat shaped somewhat like a coal scuttle and her shoes were the heavy kind that I used to think belonged only to the English women. She began at once to visit with me and told me that she had come to Long Beach to make her home, but that she had been born in England and had lived there the greater porition of her life.

I have regretted many times since that day that I did not learn that lady's name or her address in Long Beach, where I might have learned much more than I did concerning the intimate life of the great writer. They say that reporters are born and not made, but it is evident that the reporter qualities in me had not as yet been born else I would have followed up that lead and had some memoirs of the life of Charles Dickens that were worth something in literary circles.

However, if I did do a bad job of getting all the "Who, What, When and Where" that I should have brought away with me, I did go home that evening and write down, word for word, just all the dear little old lady had said to me, and it was all on this little bit of yellow paper that I found the other day.

When I was a youngster and enjoying David Copperfield, I hated to have the simple little Dora die, but was consoled by the fact that Agnes took over, even if she did not have my name. Had I been on hand to proof-read Mr. Dicken's story, I would have changed those two names so that there could be no reproach on mine, as I felt there was the way the story had been written. As it is, I have lived many years trying to outlive the "Dumb Dora" that seems to crop up every now and then.

Here is a copy of the little story I learned so long ago.

"My father was a keeper of a art of the grounds surrounding the home of Mr. Dickens" she told me. "I lived with my parents in a lodge near one of the gates and I have always remembered him as a good, kind man with a deep and abiding faith in the goodness of his Maker.

"He often said to me, as he passed me in his daily walks about the grounds. "God has given us a beautiful day, little one,' or 'God gave us a much-needed rain last evening, little girl.'

"He taught me to see God's handiwork in the flowers and in the beautiful clouds. He was fond of saying, 'God is very good to us.'

"I had no other children with whom to play and was often lonely. One day as I was lying face downward on the grass, swinging my bare feet back and forth, a little dog pounded down upon me, licking at my neck and ears. I rolled over in an ecstasy of delight. What joy! Here was a playfellow, some real live thing that I could love. The little dog seemed as pleased to romp with me as I was to fondle him, and we had a delightful day. My mother suggested that possibly the little puppy had strayed away from the kennels up at the house, but I was sure he came from nowhere and belonged to me.

"A day or two later I was playing outside the lodge without my little pet when I met Mr. Dickens.

"Good morning, little one,' he said. 'Have you found a stray puppy?'

" 'No, sir,' I replied, thinking only to keep my darling doggie.

"Mr. Dickens went on and I hurried into the house, but not to tell my mother, for I knew well that if I told her, I should speedily have to carry my pet up to the house. 'They have plenty of dogs there,' I argued with my conscience, 'and I have only this one. They will not miss it and I need it so badly. I'll say nothing to mother about it.'

"In a few days Mr. Dickens came again. 'Did you not find a little dog?'" he asked again. 'We have lost one and little motherdog is crying bitterly for her little one.'

"Here was a new aspect. I had not thought of that. The poor little mother dog's sorrow made me understand that there were other feelings besides my own to be considered. So I said, 'I didn't find a little dog, but a little dog found me.' So it was carried away and I lost my playfellow, but Mr. Dickens came often to the grounds by my home, bringing the dog with him and allowing the little dog and me to enjoy many a happy hour together.

War Veteran Payments Show Drop in State

Less than half of Colorado's 24,000 World War veterans were on the Veterans Administration compensation or pension rolls at the end of the fiscal year, Denver VA officials said today.

During the year, 2,240 living World War I veterans drew $3,474,700 in compensation payments, and 9,317 were paid $8,843,883 in pension payments.

Compensation is paid to veterans for service-connected disability and to eligible survivors or deceased veterans whose death was a result of service-connected disease or disability.

Pension is payable to totally and permanently non-service-connected veterans or to their eligible survivors.

Approximately $3,150,000 in compensation and pension was paid to eligible survivors of the 4,238 deceased World War I veterans during the year.

The average age of Colorado's World War I veterans is barely under 70.

Pravda Denounces Anti-Semites

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party has denounced an anti-Semitic booklet published by the Ukrainian Academy of Sciences, the Communist party paper Pravda reported today.

Pravda quoted the ideological committee of the Communist party's Central Committee as saying the booklet had helped the enemies of the Soviet Union and harmed "our ideological education work" in promoting atheism.

The booklet, "Judaism With Disguise," has been widely denounced abroad. European and American Communists have joined the outcry.

Carson to Host Markmanship Matches Soon

On Friday, Ft. Carson will host the ARADCOM markmanship matches which continue through April 26.

Marine Reservists from Pueblo, will be at Ft Carson Saturday and Sunday, to fire their six-gun battery.

Fire Fighter Awarded Suggestion Check

Robert W. Watson, deputy post engineer, presented a suggestion award certificate and a check for $15 to Hobert G. Wells, supervisory fire fighter in recognition of a suggestion submitted and adopted to submit one work order weekly for the repair of all radios in all engineer sections, rather than a separate work order for each.

This new plan has been in effect since October and has proven very satisfactory, it was pointed out.

Wells, who has been with fire fighting units for almost 19 years resides at 118½ Lafayette ve. in Manitou Springs. ayette Ave. in Manitou Springs.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: How to Clean Eyeglasses.

NEEDED: Soap, running water, and a freshly laundered cloth.

DO THIS: Wet the glasses, then rub white soap on the lenses with the fingers. Rinse the soap off carefully, hold to a light, and wipe them with the cloth.

WHY: If the lenses are rubbed before washing, oil on them will spread and leave the lenses coated or streaked with it. Also, gritty dirt can scratch the glass if it is not washed off before they are rubbed. This can be shown by putting some sand on a scrap of window glass and rubbing it.

Never lay the glasses down so that the glass touches a table top or other hard surface. Gritty dirt is certain to scratch them if this habit is allowed.

A collection of the "Science For You" experiments is in book form and sold in better bookstores. It is called Science Circus.

Democrats Hear Clarence Decker Talk at Luncheon

The Democratic Forum heard a review of the last legislative session by State Representative Clarence Decker at a luncheon meeting at the Moors Saturday. Decker came down from Denver for the occasion. "What the state legislature succeeded in doing at the last session," Decker said, "was to make a mess out of the state's finances.

"The Republicans promised to cut taxes without reducing services, but the state mental health program has been very greatly impaired. We have lost key personnel and cut out vital parts of the program. Our needed capital construction is falling far behind growth of the state.

"Families of patients who are mentally ill or retarded are being asked to carry the burden of the services. Tuition at state colleges and universities has been increased.

"All this has come about," Decker said, "because Love made campaign statements on state finances without any knowledge of the problems involved and without any willingness to learn or debate.

"Now that the needs have overtaken us," said Decker, "the Republican legislature has saddled the state with a system of user fees and has in effect shifted the burden of taxation from those most able to pay to those least able to pay.

"They even used revision of the income tax forms as a pretext to raise the tax of the smaller taxpayer, as by cutting out the deduction for cost of travel to and from work and cutting out some medical deductions. This last item alone is supposed to bring in some five million dollars in revenue.

"When the Republicans took over the state was solvent; the capital construction fund was a going concern and there was ten million dollars in the ten million dollar revolving fund.

"When the last legislature convened the capital construction fund had been used for operating expenses, the revolving fund was gone and the state was actually several million dollars in the red.

"Gov. Love likes to talk about what he calls 'demagogery' when these things are pointed out, but his irresponsible operation of state finances, promising one thing and doing another, is the worst kind of demagogery.

"Democrats can be elected to the state legislature this year from all over the state, including El Paso County," Decker said, "because the Republican failure has been so great that the people are demanding a change.

"Democrats should bring forward good and attractive candidates, and each candidate and his supporters must go from door to door in his district to work it," Decker suggested.

He said he detected a note of optimism among Democrats throughout the state.

Among those present were state chairman Bob Maytag, and Frank Evans of Pueblo, announced candidate for Congress from the Third Congressional District.

U.S. Official Urges Private Ownership Of Federal Land

House 339-29 and is now before the Senate. The commission would consist of 19 members—six each from the House and Senate Interior committees, six non - government persons appointed by the President and a full-time chairman elected by the first 18.

Carver said that "only those who have property rights hanging in the balance of administrative decision, and those government officials who reach that decision, really understand how wasteful and inefficient some of our procedures are, what a great cost there is in delay, appeals and reviews.

"Much of this activity is necessitated by the attempt to make an archaic law apply, to adjust an old law to a new situation, to make accommodations between incompatible demands for land use."

Carver added that "regulations built on regulations specify with particularity the copies of a form and thus become a more important requirement for getting rights or privileges than genuine plans for resource development."

Green Mountain Falls Vote to Test Water Issue

which Colorado Springs city officials said would be required to bring the system up to standards. The figure does not include the cost of buying trucks and equipment to maintain the system, hiring the necessary manpower, and setting up business offices to handle accounts.

With regard to the reported plan to drill additional wells, Clyde Long, one of the write-in candidates, told the Gazette Telegraph Saturday that all the people owning water rights along the creek in Ute Pass and areas further down will have to be satisfied that they have their full share of water before Green Mountain Falls can take any.

According to public records, Long said there are three River Rights on Crystal Creek and one on Catamount Creek, dated 1888 to 1936. He said that 68 other River Rights must be fulfilled before the town can draw upon its own water rights.

Long said Reynolds Aluminum Co. has bought a great deal of land south of Green Mountain Falls which were sold to the firm by Louis Pinello and that the water rights went along with the land.

The write-in candidate said he had been told that the Reynolds company would be willing to test its water rights to see if they are valid, for its own benefit.

Long maintained that Green Mountain Falls must be sure of its own water rights before going into a project like buying a water system, "since cost does not mean a thing if you don't have the water." He said he was mainly interested in getting the facts before the public.

Long said the matter of water rights could be checked out with Rufus Marshall of Fountain, district water commissioner.

The Green Mountain Falls water system has been operated by Colorado Springs for several years. The city has offered to sell the entire system to the Ute Pass town for $20,000, and to supply the system with 600 acre feet of water per year at $60 per acre foot, assuming that the expense of delivering water does not increase.

In the letter to Green Mountain Falls and Chipita Park residents, the Committee for Fair Play was critical of the condition of the water system which Colorado Springs has offered to sell. In various places the system is referred to as "run-down," and "decrepit." The letter asks the rhetorical question, "Perhaps the City of Colorado Springs should pay us a very large sum to take this decrepit water system off their hands?"

The committee charges in its letter that water use figures given by proponents of the water system plan are erroneous. By the use of pointed questions the committee expresses a doubt that the average family will be able to get by each month on a water bill of between $3.50 and $4, on the basis of $2.50 per month minimum charge and 25 cents per 1,000 gallons in excess of 3,000 gallons.

The letter writers indicate, through the use of water use figures from Colorado Springs, Fountain and Security, that the average family will use from 18,000 to 20,000 gallons per month.

"The monthly water bill is just the beginning of your cost," the letter states. "Do you know that the average cost of installing a frost proof water meter in Colorado Springs is approximately $150 per meter?"

In a later paragraph, the committee points out that if a new water system is organized and a loan is obtained to pay for it, "your property will automatically be liable, whether you voted for it or not."

The committee is equally critical of a rumored plan to establish a water district composed of the Ute Pass area and communities to the west if Green Mountain Falls buys the water system. "What would be the bond for a project like this? A million or more dollars for a starter? Where are the firm water rights?" the committee asks.

The conclusion of the letter is a plea for residents of Green Mountain Falls and Chipita Park to vote in Tuesday's election, preferably for the write-in candidates.

Tutt Named Education Commission

Russell T. Tutt of Colorado Springs has been named a member of the 14-man commission for Higher Education Facilities established Friday by executive order of Gov. John A. Love.

The body will allocate Colorado's share of federal funds to colleges and universities.

Its duties will be similar to those that would have been given to the Co-ordinating Council for High Education, which Love sought to have the State Legislature establish.

The Senate referred the proposal to its Education Committee, in effect killing the plan.

Flying Hearse Swoops in for Mortician Meet

A service relatively unique in funeral arrangements was displayed during the recent Colorado-Wyoming Funeral Directors and Embalmers Assn. convention at the Broadmoor - a private rental service for flying a casket.

The single engine plane, a converted Cessna model 180, returned to Denver Friday following take-off from Lake Avenue west of Colorado 115. It had been on display during the two-day conference at the International Center and had landed on Cheyenne Mountain Boulevard Wednesday, taxiing to the center with a police escort.

Woman Hurt In Three Car Crash

A three-car collision at Hancock and Pikes Peak Avenues Friday afternoon caused a bump on the head to a passenger and car damages of $800, police reported.

Christine T. Carey, 517 E. Pikes Peak, passenger in a car driven by Harry Samuel Carey, 56, same address, refused treatment at the scene.

The Carey car was going east on Pikes Peak Avenue through the intersection when it was struck by a car turning left into Pikes Peak, driven by Florence Eugenie Walholm, 61, 17 Marland Rd. The Walholm car continued south, striking a car driven by Morey Frederick Page, 55, 1545 Iowa St., stopped for traffic, police said.

Cpl. C. J. Cates ticketed Walholm for driving under the influence and reckless driving.

Chiang Suggests Time Ripe To Oust Reds From China

has hoped for years to return to the mainland with his government, discussed international affairs for one hour, getting up once to point out on a global map what might happen if the United States changed its stance in Asia. He predicted Laos, Cambodia, Thailand and even the Philippines would topple in front of a Communist onslaught.

There were sparks as he commented on the statement by Sen. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee, that Americans should "jar open our minds to certain realities about China, of which the foremost is that there are not really two Chinas but one, and that it is ruled by the Communists."

"Such remarks will only encourage the Communists to hate and insult your country more," Chiang said.

"I feel Sen. Fulbright is not fully informed of the conditions existing on the mainland of China today. The Communist Chinese regime is built on nothing but brute force. Bayonets keep the people under control. The regime totally lacks popular support. It will never last. It is here today but may be gone tomorrow.

"I am ready to give the Chinese Communists credit for being very expert propagandists. They have created the illusion that they are strong and firm and impregnably entrenched. The facts are to the contrary."

D&B School Began Here In 1874

The Colorado School for the Deaf, to which was subsequently added a department for the blind, was organized in the territorial days of the Silver State, during the spring of 1874.

The founder of the School, Jonathan R. Kennedy, came to Colorado from Kansas in 1873, and located with his family in Denver. His interest in the deaf was natural, for besides having been for a long term of years steward of the Kansas School for the Deaf at Olathe, Kans., he had three children of his own who were deaf.

Kennedy interested members of the 10th Legislature in the founding of the school along with the Honorable E. M. McCook, governor of the territory in the Spring of 1874. The board held a meeting on March 3, 1874. Colorado Springs had been fixed as the site for the new school and at the first meeting of the Colorado Springs Land Company 10 acres of land was donated just east of the City, provided the buildings for the school should be erected there.

Meanwhile and panding erection of suitable buildings on the site that had been acquired, a modest frame house on Cucharras Street was secured and here on April 8, 1874, the school was formally opened. The little school during the first week of its existence numbered seven pupils, though in the course of the year six more were added. The frame building was occupied for nearly two years at a monthly rental of $50, but recognizing the total unfitness for the purposes of the School the necessity of taking steps to premanently secure the land donated by the Colorado Springs Company, a suitable building not to cost more than $5,000.00 was authorized.

The School was removed to its new quarters with appropriate ceremonies and refoicing early in 1876 and was thus able to hail the Centennial of the eRepublic and the admission of Colorado to the Union.

The General Assembly passed a law in 1877 admitting the blind to the School. The General Assembly however failed to make provision for additional instructors and building space for the blind and therefore the Board did not feel justified in receiving applicants. In 1883, however, the resources of the School had increased to such an extent that it was decided to make this venture. From these humble beginnings, the school has continued to grow. The school has a maximum population of 216 deaf children, and this year has 86 blind children enrolled, more than it has ever had in its history.

The present evaluation of buildings and property is over $4,000,000. There have been a number of administrative and statutory changes in the administration of the School. Today the School is administered by a board of trustees, who are appointed by the Governor. The present trustees are: Leo R. Gottlieb, Trinidad, Colorado, president; True C. Adams, secretary-treasurer; Jack Jenkins of Pueblo, John Bush and Robbin Tibbets.

Special techniques are used in the instruction of these children with defective hearing or vision, based on best professional experience and continuing experiment. The board educational objectives of the School are to help the student to make a satisfactory social adjustment, to become economically self-sustaining, and to become a good citizen.

To this end the school provides a curriculum approximately as nearly as possible that provided in the common schools; courses in vocational training and a program of health and citizenship building activities. The age of onset of deafness or blindness is a determining factor in the education progress of the child.

Schools for the Deaf and the Blind have varying types of deaf and blind children and the educational needs of each child must be met by the use of specific techniques adapted to each type.

All children during the first few years in the Department for the Deaf are taught orally or acoustically. Concurrently with these methods, special effort must constantly be made to promote languate development.

Children who fail to respond satisfactorily to the above methods may be transferred to manual classes where the emphasis is usually language development through writing and finger spelling.

Language retardation and the peculiar difficulties presented by this situation require that the course of study be adjusted to meet the needs of the particular type of deaf child.

Vocational training takes into account the specific handicap of the child and his possibility for economic adjustmant.

The Course of study for the children in the Department for the Blind is similar to that given in the public and high schools. Instruction is also given in vocal and instrumental music, industrial and household occupations, and physical training.

committee is Mrs. William Hoddy. Other members on the committee are: Mrs. K. G. Freyschlag, Mrs. Richard Love, Mrs. Milo Yalich, Mrs. F. Jordan Bayless, Mrs. James Ross, Mrs. Peter King, Jr., Miss Gail Hopper, Mrs. William O. Fielder, Mrs. Paul Steahlin and Mrs. Charles E. Ross.

The purpose of the Junior League is to foster interest among its members in the social, economic, educational, cultural and civic conditions of the community, and to make efficient their volunteer service. This purpose hasn't changed in 63 years, since the founding of the first Junior League in New York City in 1901. Today, there are 206 Junior Leagues in the United States, Canada and Mexico, with a membership of 85,000, officials said.

This year, the Junior League of Colorado Springs, Inc. celebrates its 40th Anniversary. Organized in 1924 by Mrs. Charles H. Collins, its first community project was the Nutrition Camp School.

Through the years, the Junior League has developed and supported new volunteer services and community projects to meet changing community needs. Once these services are established, permanent agencies assume the responsibility for their continuing sponsorship.

Since 1924, the League has given to the community from its Community Trust Fund $264,906.00. This money was generously contributed by the community in support of money raising activities.

Junior League members gave approximately 4,300 hours of volunteer service to league and community supported projects this past year. Each of the 71 active members is free to select her own regular volunteer service, such as the hospital cart at Memorial, Children's Theatre, the Public Library, Town Hall, or Art Lectures in the schools. Many members render individual volunteer service on the boards of directors of local organizations.

The letter to Ankara called the refusal a "flagrant violation of the treaty" and said that Greek Cypriots considered the treaty ended because of it.

The move was considered certain to cause a sharp reaction from Turkey and the Turkish Cypriot community on this island.

Earlier Saturday, Turkey moved 280 fresh troops to the island to rotate part of its 650 - man garrison.

Long Time Resident Dies Here Wednesday

Miss Edith M. House, 88, a resident of Colorado Springs for about 64 years, died Wednesday at a local hospital. She lived at 924 W. Kiowa St.

Miss House was born in Kansas City, Mo., and attended schools there. She was a member of the Christian Science Church.

In the early 1930's, Miss House lived in a cabin above Seven Falls and walked the area around the watershed checking on picnickers for the Myron Stratton Home estate.

Survivors include Saxon House of Mission, Kan., a nephew, and other nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 3 p.m. at the Swan Drawing Room with Leslie O. Sylvester officiating. Cremation will follow.

Businessmen Seek Buyers for Canon City Brick Co.

Canon City businessmen are seeking a buyer for one of the town's pioneer industries, H. K. Porter Refractories Co., which closed its doors last July 1. The firm manufactures brick products.

Ray N. Powers, Canon City laundryman, who is spearheading efforts to keep the brick plant in operation, said that the plant can be purchased for $90,000, including property and equipment, exclusive of inventory.

The plant has, in the past, supplied brick for many of the present buildings in the Canon City area, including the junior high school, railroad depot, and numerous homes.

Businessmen of the area have corresponded with officials of the company at the headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa., inquiring into the possibilities of local ownership, and have learned that the plant may be purchased.

During the early years of its existence, the plant was known as the Diamond Firebrick Company. Clays used by the firm are from the Fremont County area.

Flint clay comes from the Wilson Creek mine, located at the end of North Ninth Street; plastic type clay comes from the same area. All building brick clay comes from the Canon City area and ganister rock comes from the Temple Canyon district. The latter is an ingredient in silica, which is used for blast furnaces.

Laclede-Christy purchased the plant in 1950 from Diamond Firebrick and operated it two years. The H. K. Porter Company bought the plant and began operations in 1953. Remodeling and the installation of the equipment was completed in January, 1958.

During the time the plant was owned by Porter, it employed as many as 43 persons.

Powers and other Canon City businessmen report that there is still a market for bricks of various types. Powers said the brick plant could serve a radius of 300 miles from Canon City.

MILKING MANNERS

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Rules for getting the most milk out of cows with the least effort, listed by the Agricultural Research Department of Pennsylvania State University, are:

Don't excite the cows, set a routine and stick to it, stimulate the udder, follow milking machine manufacturer's instructions, milk out as quickly as possible, don't milk more cows than you can handle fast, and machine strip.

Ross Blames Imbalances As Current Poverty Cause

The following is the text of a speech made by Hugh J. Ross, candidate for Democratic nomination for Congress, 3rd Congressional District of Colorado at a rally and dance meeting sponsored by the Hugh Ross for Congress Club, at the VFW hall in Pueblo Saturday night.

"It is most important we have a new national economic policy which will hit directly at the causes of the serious imbalances causing distress and poverty on many levels.

"All of us are affected by these imbalances. The problem of over-abundance can be just as hard to handle as problems of malnutrition. Because of the imbalance of food production and consumption, international attitudes are thereby created, and nationally we have resulting distress and poverty in many economic areas.

"There are 30 million Americans in families with incomes of less than $2,000- a year.

"Millions are poor because of inadequate education. About 2 million high school graduates in June of 1963 went looking for jobs and substantial numbers of them discovered they were not equipped with marketable skills, and by 1966 there will be 3.8 million graduates from high school whose employment opportunities will be even more restricted.

"Long term unemployment in the midst of the steadily increasing over-all unemployment, the increased productivity of the worker plus the fact that the kinds of job opportunities being created today are radically different. Moreover, besides the young problem, the old, the unskilled, the immobile poor and the disadvantaged minorities are not finding job opportunities.

"The simple tasks traditionally performed by them are now taken over by machines.

"The encroachment of automation is such that labor is in a life and death struggle for existence. Labor must act to find solutions to the problems and provide some economic solutions which will benefit not only labor but the consumer as well. labor must conduct its strategy with an eye to endear themselves to people who purchase the commodities produced by labor.

"What are some of the things causing these imbalances? We know that we have gone down the road of private initiative for a privileged few almost to the point of ruin and we must build the road or rebuild the road of private initiative for all. The healthy slice in the personal tax rates of the rich, the generous provisions for the corporations they own, the more generous treatment in their depreciation allowances and many other advantages add up to rich packages for those special privileged few.

"I am not against corporate structures or against profits or against private initiative.

"I am against the special privileges created for the few because they are paid for by the common weal of the productive labor force, because they cause the unemployment, because the common people are immersed in economic slavery and less and less able to meet the demands of ever increasing costs of living, because they are deprived of their fair share of their labor, because, under the guise of free enterprise men are being made feudal slaves in a man-made aristocracy created by laws passed by means of powerful lobbies controlled by these economic royalists, because, in this great and most wealthy nation, labor and the common man have been deprived of social programs already long past due.

"Where is the American Creed of Fair Play? Fair play which rules out special privileges to a few. If we are to have free and open competition without privileges or controls, or subsides or tariffs or special tax treatment or other benefits such must be had for all, not a few.

"Labor today is in serious trouble, and agriculture is in serious trouble. We hear a lot about the Colorado beef industry.

"In the area of meat processing, the nation's grocery chain stores are using their vast economic power to arbitrarily establish and enforce prices causing a disappearance of even the semblance of a free market. They buy and process cattle under the market, abandoning the stockyard markets, disregard their obligations to the consumer charging all that the trade will bear. They do not do this under true free market competition but by special privilege through lobbyists working on their behalf and by price fixing and unfair competition.

"Responsible men, a year ago, were warning livestock men and others of the threat of price-fixing chain stores. Yet, what did Colorado's two GOP Senators and GOP Congressmen from our own livestock producing area do to protect the cattlemen and the housewife? Absolutely nothing. As a matter of fact — despite President Johnson's call for a bipartisan investigation — they won't publicly admit today that there's anything wrong. Are our Republican friends in Congress representing the people or the chain stores and other big corporations?

"In Washington, D.C. last week — when Senator McGee (D) of Wyoming was conducting an investigation into livestock buying practices — the food chains were charging the same price or a higher price than they were two years ago. Yet the chains were paying from $60.00 to $70.00 less per carcass than they were two years ago and the producer was getting from $70 to $80 less than two years ago. And the chain store cited here was featuring Colorado beef.

"The Colorado Department of Agriculture reported just a few days ago that the Colorado livestock men lost $57 million last year and still the housewife is paying about the same for beef.

"Since 1947 the price of choice beef at retail has risen 26 per cent, but the return to the feeder has been reduced 14 per cent.

"There wouldn't be a need for a higher Republican tariff if the chain stores would stop importing beef — or if the Colorado Department of Health started enforcing the meat labeling law, so that the housewife consumer would have the choice of buying Colorado beef when she saw the label that it was Colorado beef, instead of some imports.

"The Republicans say we need a higher tariff or stricter limits on beef imports. Well, the answer is — who is importing the beef? It is not the housewife or the steelworker — in direct competition with Colorado grown beef — it's the chain that imports it.

"What we can do in Colorado is to get the meat labeling law working, with teeth in it. The Republican conrtolled legislature had a chance, but proved to be the influential friends of the chain stores and other national canners who use such huge quantities of imported beef as shown by the success which their lobbyists have had with them in the Colorado legislature.

"Enforcing the meat labeling law would not only be of significant relief to the cattlemen of Colorado, to the meat packers of Colorado, to the housewife of Colorado, but also to the workers in this industry. Union butchering is butchered to death in the U.S. today; for example, there are 70,000 fewer butchers in the U.S. today than there were five years ago."

Robert Wierman To Direct Shady Brook Ranch

Robert G. (Bob) Wierman, program secretary of the local YMCA, has been named to direct the YMCA Camp Shady Brook Ranch this summer. He will replace Richard Robinson who has directed the camp for the past three seasons and is now doing graduate work at the University of South Dakota.

Wierman came on the local "Y" staff in October of 1962 and has been working with the youth program for boys and girls and with the YMCA Four-front Program, which includes Indian Guides, Gra-Y, Junior-Hi-Y and Hi-Y.

He also was responsible for the YMCA Catamount Ranch. In January of this year the YMCA employed Keith Bullen as Associate Program Secretary to take over some of the duties which makes it possible for Wierman to devote full time during the summer to directing Camp Shady Brook Ranch.

The camp, which is located near Deckers, Colorado, will open for the season on June 14th. Registrations for camp for boys and girls are being accepted now at both the main YMCA building and the YMCA Youth Center.

Wierman had considerable experience in both camping and youth work before coming to the local "Y." He also did graduate work at the YMCA George Williams College in Chicago. His last position before coming here was Youth Program Director for the Ravenswood Branch of the Chicago YMCA.

NASA Awards $130,000 to CU Physicists

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has awarded a $130,000 contract to five University of Colorado physicists for solar ultraviolet radiation studies.

This brings to $370,000 the amount of support the scientists have received from NASA for ultraviolet radiation studies since 1961.

All are members of the University's Laboratory for Atmospheric and Space Physics. They are William A. Rense and Fred C. Wilshusen, codirectors, and research associates Manfred H. Rees, Elmo Bruner and Robert Parker.

The contract, which will support the team's atmospheric and space studies during the next year, enables the men to continue work started 14 years ago on the Boulder campus.

They are trying to find out if it is practical to use satellites to study the ultraviolet spectrum of the Sun.

"We believe this project could contribute greatly to understanding the physics of the outer layers of the Sun and the Earth's upper atmosphere," Rense said.

The project will involve a sounding rocket flight from White Sands Missile Range, N.M., toward the end of the year, according to Rense.

Purpose is to gather information on the emission of ultraviolet light from solar atomic hydrgen, "which is of considerable interest to solar physicists in their attempts to understand what is occurring in the atmosphere of the Sun," he said.

The rocket will carry a model for a device to be used in a later satellite flight.

Rense said, "Contracts like this represent continued recognition on the part of NASA of problems encountered by university groups participating in the nation's space effort.

"Our contract will increase the value of the space program for training advanced students and at the same time will permit CU scientists to contribute to the value of future space experiments."

PROBE CONTINUED

DENVER (UPI) — A grand jury probe into alleged police brutality in the death of a 19-year-old youth will resume Monday. Dist. Atty. Bert Keating, who already has called 18 witnesses in two days of hearings, declined to say how long the investigation would continue. The investigation was called after Alfred E. Salazar died March 10, two days after he was struck over the head by a police officer who said he was trying to break up a fight.

WE WELCOME SPRINGTIME

A breath of springtime floats through the air after winter's cold blast. Spring, the season that is written up more than any other season and one that is always full of anticipation. Poems, songs, compositions and articles have been written and sung about spring and its beauty which we never tire of. At this time of year, we think of the flower garden we will plant, along with trees, shrubbery and all planting. Greenhouses and nurseries are busy these days and crowded with people buying everything to plant. Also we think of new things. New hats, new clothes, new things in our homes and a new coat of paint inside and outside of our houses. Somehow we put winter out of our minds and look forward to the new seasons that are to come. You see people in their yards raking and spading, making preparation for the months to follow. Now the greens are called forth in yards that looked dull and drab. Buds begin to swell and open a little showing some red or white. The pussy willows along mountain streams are showing and we have dared to look for anemones.

The pasture fields are showing green while the meadowlarks are flying about on fen posts, pouring forth those sweet aworld takes on a newness as if just finished by the creator. The atmosphere is fresh, while white fleecy clouds sail across the deep blue. The force of spring seems to raise the spirits of everybody. Heaven and earth tries to raise the spirits of all to a higher level. Spring is strong, quickening the soil in order to bring forth new life, bringing wild flowers and freshness to streams, canons and shrubbery. Springtime steals upon the twilight hour and on thru the gathering darkness.

Morning breaks fair into a lovely day, and suddenly spring comes forth in a new glory which is welcomed by all. The blue birds rejoice as they fly across the meadows and the mourning doves are giving their soft notes of springtime, and the flickers have commenced to drum the tin roofs to attract lady friends. The trumpet winds have sounded a retreat across the mountains. Changeful April becomes defeated when up comes the wildflowers wondering what it is all about. The earth is becoming warm with bright sun-rays, while the bees come forth humming and a butterfly dares to fly across the garden. Spring is laden with many glories which makes people seek the outdoors. We enter into this new season and everybody feels the change as there is something dufferent about the air and sunshine that is dreamy. We look about us and notice how mighty things grow from small beginnings. The heart of nature warms beneath the wrecks of storms, lingering and doubtful at first but soon the slopes are fringed with green and tiny blossoms.

Insurance Firm Asks $286,680 In Fraud Suit

DENVER (UPI)—The Guaranty National Insurance Co. of Denver has filed a $286,680 civil suit against the controlling stockholders of a firm it merged with last year, claiming a stock exchange fraud.

Guaranty merged last April with Liberty National Insurance Co., Coeur d' Alene, Idaho. The complaint filed in U. S. District Court here alleges Liberty's assets and liabilities were not truthfully stated prior to the stock exchange.

The suit claims Liberty misled Guaranty's auditor, Joseph Froggatt and Co., Inc., New York City. Loss reserves were stated as $636,109 when they should have been $886,109; an asset of $4,700 should have been listed as a $22,680 deficit and another asset was overstated by $9,300, the suit claimed.

Guaranty operates in eight states including Colorado.

Moonlighters Near 4 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI)—About 3.9 million Americans hold two or more jobs. There are 4 million American unemployed. But don't jump to conclusions.

A special Labor Department report Wednesday on "moonlighting" said only "a very small proportion" of the nation's unemployed could or would fill those extra jobs now held by people supplementing their incomes.

APARTMENT COMPLEX—These four buildings will house 400 airmen within the next few weeks. They are located in Bill Smartt's newest development on land which includes the former Babcock Ranch east of the city. A swimming pool and outdoor recreational area will be built in the center of the complex and four similar apartment buildings will be built across the street in the near future. The Air Force will lease the buildings for three years and then Smartt will open them for public rental.

Smartt Announces Merger; Firms Worth $7.5 Million

By RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

It's easy to make $7.5 million.

All you need is an empty billfold, energy equal to the force of a hydrogen bomb, initiative enough for 10 men, an imagination that would make a science fiction writer seem like a dullard, the instinct of a bird dog, the brass of a gambler and the type of do-or-die desire that could only be generated by a dozen Knute Rockne halftime pep talks all delivered at once.

Roll all these elements into one and you have Bill Smartt, a Texas farm boy who has grown into the area's largest builder and developer.

Seventeen years ago, Smartt landed in Colorado Springs broke and looking for a job.

This past week, he merged seven corporations he controlled into one — their value is the $7.5 million.

How he did it would make even Horatio Alger stand up and take his hat off to the bespectacled man in the 10-gallon Stetson and cowboy boots.

"I was here at the right time and saw what was coming," Smartt said. "I was crazy enough to build on speculation and it paid off."

Not only build on speculation but buy on speculation as evidenced in Smartt's biggest profit making deal to date. In 1957 Smartt bought 120 acres of land at public auction for $300,000 — land that other people had rejected at earlier auctions.

Three years later he sold 30 acres of it for $1 million. Last year he sold another eight acres for $320,000. The Chidlaw building stands on the 30 acres and Montgomery Wards stands on the eight acres today.

"Bill's got the right name," a friend remarked, "that's Smartt."

"I guess I've been lucky enough to hit it right at the right time," Smartt observed recently puffing the pipe that is seldom out of his mouth or reach.

In 1947, Smartt came to Colorado Springs. He was 28 years old and just out of the Air Force. He had no job, but he had everything else.

He began as a house painter and roofer and while he was running this business he went to Colorado College and graduated four years later at the age of 32 with a business degree.

By the time he had the sheepskin, Smartt was already in business in a big way and on his way to building a huge financial empire.

In 1950, he bought seven lots and built houses on them. They sold almost as fast as Smartt moved. The next year he began the Austin Realty Co. and up went 11 more houses. In 1953, he went big-time and built 181 homes which sold for $10,350 each and Smartt was on his way.

Since that time, he has built more than 2,000 homes in the area; a large number of business offices and other buildings and developed thousands of acres of land.

In the process, Smartt was developing corporations almost as fast as he was developing land.

Far West Homes Inc., Bill Smartt & Son Inc., Smartt Homes Inc., Smartt's Town and Country Inc., Custom Contracting Co. and Rustic Mills Inc. have now been merged with Smartt Construction Co.

Still operating as separate corporations are Smartt Development, Smartt Realty, Smartt Shel Insurance and Sportsmen's Paradise.

Stockholders of the seven companies voted for the merger at a recent meeting. They were offered common shares in the new corporation on the basis of one share of stock for each one dollar in book value of their stock as shown on the books of the company in which they owned stock as of March 31, 1964. The corporation is capitalized at $1.5 million.

Smartt's newest baby is a 2,000 acre tract near Peterson Field which has recently been annexed to Colorado Springs.

It has room for more than 5,000 homes and the promise of being one of the fastest growing industrial and community sites in the region.

Ampex Corp. will break ground for a $1 million plant on a 37-acre site next Friday. Walter Drake and Son has already occupied its new building, Spear Engineering will construct a new plant there, a new Dental Research building is on the planning boards and there is the prospect of at least two other firms, one a major industry, moving in the near future.

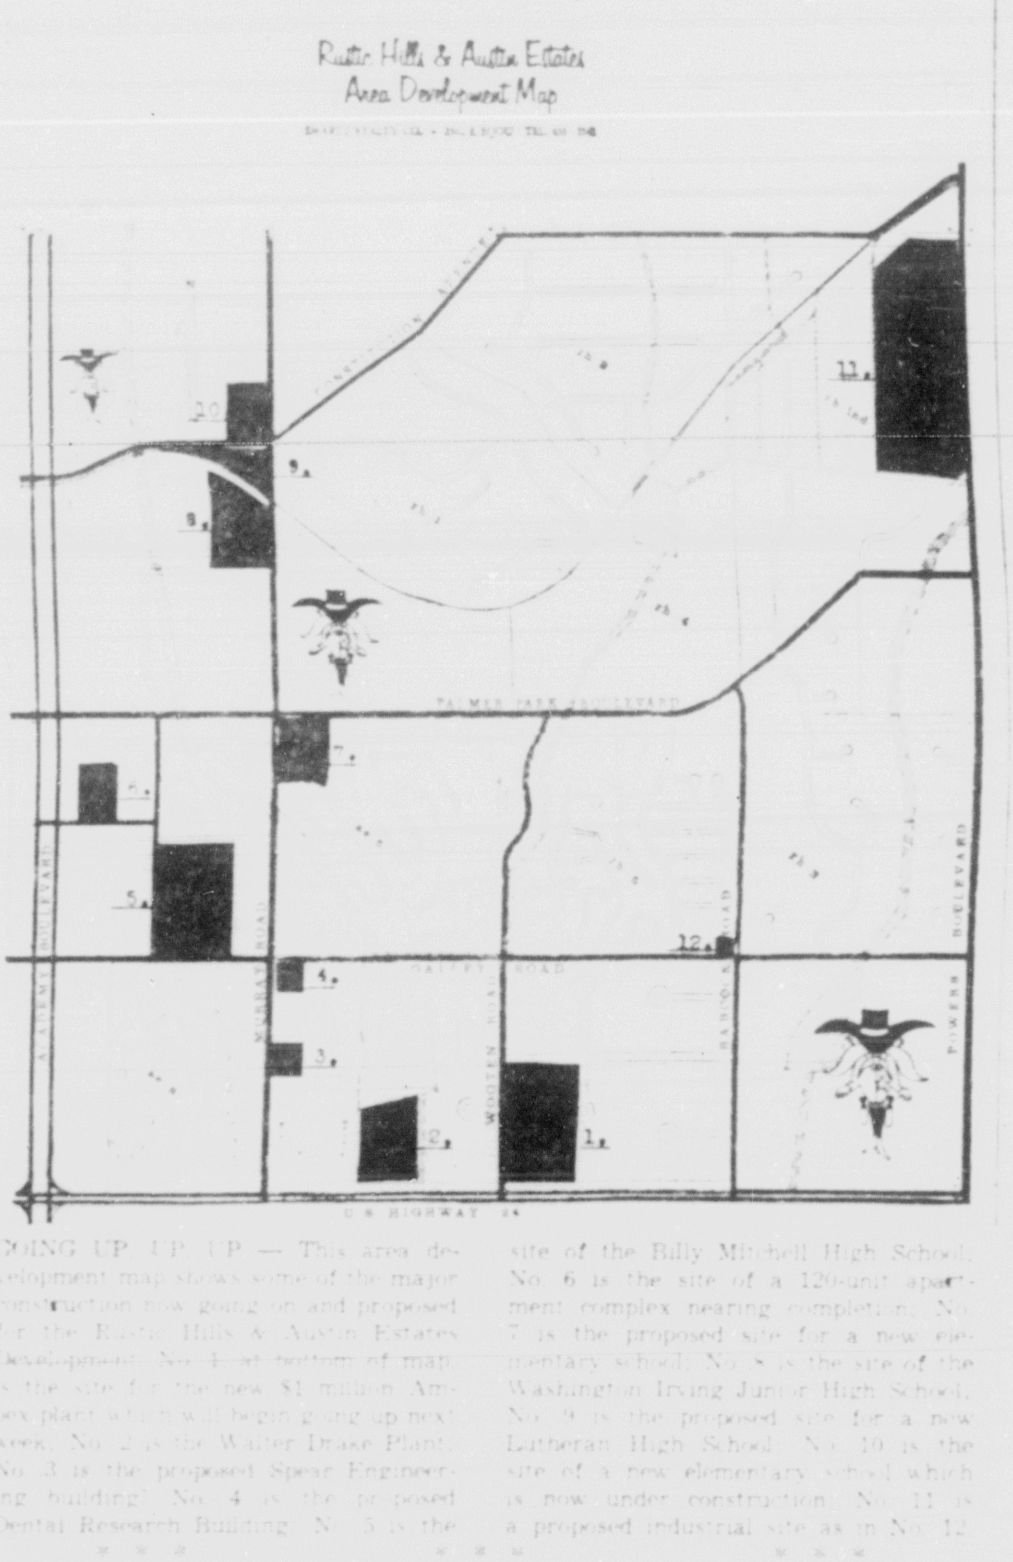
Three schools are now being constructed: the Billy Mitchell High School, Washington Irving Junior High School and a new elementary school.

Proposed are another elementary school and a Lutheran High School.

Five churches — Methodist, two Baptist, a Lutheran and a Congregational — have acquired property and will build new places of worship in the area.

More than 100 homes have already been constructed or are being constructed in the area.

A deluxe apartment complex of four buildings containing 120 one and two bedroom units is nearing completion. These will be leased to the Air Force for three years and then opened up to the public. Construction is expected to begin this summer on a swimming pool and outdoor recreational area in the center of the complex and Smartt is planning to construct another four apartment buildings directly across the street.



GOING UP, UP, UP — This area development map shows some of the major construction now going on and proposed for the Rustic Hills & Austin Estates Development. No. 1, at bottom of map, is the site for the new $1 million Ampex plant which will begin going up next week; No. 2 is the Walter Drake Plant; No. 3 is the proposed Spear Engineering building; No. 4 is the proposed Dental Research Building; No. 5 is the site of the Billy Mitchell High School; No. 6 is the site of a 120-unit apartment complex nearing completion; No. 7 is the proposed site for a new elementary school; No. 8 is the site of the Washington Irving Junior High School; No. 9 is the proposed site for a new Lutheran High School; No. 10 is the site of a new elementary school which is now under construction; No. 11 is a proposed industrial site as in No. 12.

Utilities are already installed for the homes in the area, street paving is underway with Palmer Park Boulevard and Galley Road from Academy Boulevard east to Powers Road scheduled for completion this year. Also scheduled for paving this year are Murray Boulevard, Wooten and Babcock Road from Robte 24 north to Palmer Park Boulevard.

Part of the reason for Smartt's successes is evidenced in the interest he takes in all phases of his business. His memory for detail is uncanny. He can tell you the exact stage of any phase of his building or development operation.

He makes frequent visits to the construction sites, stopping often to exchange gossip with the workmen. With him, usually, is Howard Emerich who was appointed as vice president and administrative assistant of Smartt Construction Co. this past January.

Emerich, who acted in a similar capacity for the Alexander Film Company before joining Smartt and who was president of Rock Wool Insulating Co. of Pueblo and Colorado Insulating Co. of Denver for two years, is a fine complement to Smartt.

The two work well together and with both of them behind the Smartt ball, it should keep rolling well for years to come.

Both men find time from their business duties to take an active part in community affairs — especially Smartt who among his long list of affiliations once was president of the Chamber of Commerce here.

Smartt will remain as president and chairman of the board of the corporation with Emerich as vice president and director; Dorothy Bowser is secretary and director and Mrs. M. E. Smartt is treasurer and director.

Other directors are Hugh Ingels, H. H. McKnight, Attorney Eugene Perkins and Orville Potts.

EDUCATION COMPLEX — This shows a portion of the buildings which will make up the Washington Irving Junior High School in the Northeast section of the city. The Junior high school is one of three schools currently under construction by District 11 in that section.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — Special to Gazette Telegraph — Pentagon has announced that reports from the field on the survey regarding discrimination in local communities toward Negroes in uniform, revealed the fact that 90 per cent of the military posts surveyed showed some form of local discrimination.

In the original tentative survey return of last November, 62 installations reported such good community relationship that they were omitted from the second survey. These included 27 air bases, 21 Naval bases, and 14 Army posts.

The current report indicated that housing is clearly the most unyielding of the various forms of racial bias facing the Negro in uniform. Of the 305 bases included in the current survey, only 31 were given a clean bill of health on this point.

Ft. Bliss enjoyed the most acceptable community relations with its nearby city of El Paso, Texas.

The Army's only Reserve Lieutenant General on active duty, Robert W. Colglazier, will replace Lt. Gen. Carl H. Jark when the latter retires as Commanding General of the 4th Army, Fort Sam Houston, this summer. Jark is a 1929 graduate of the Military Academy. In addition to Gen. Colglazier there is one other Reserve General on unlimited active duty. He is Maj. Gen. Phil Lindeman.

Lt. Gen. Frank S. Besson, Jr. commanding general of the Army Materiel Command, is moving up to his fourth star. Major General Lawrence J. Lincoln, now in Okinawa, is coming to Washington for his 3d star and assignment as Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics of the Army.

Vice Admiral Thomas H. Moorer has been named as the new CinC of the Pacific Fleet with rank of full Admiral. Vice Adm. Roy L. Johnson will command the 7th Fleet. Rear Adm. Bernard A. Clarey will be Deputy Commander in Chief of the Pacific Fleet with promotion to his third star. Rear Adm. William E. Ellis to command the 6th Fleet and promotion to his third star. Vice Adm. William E. Gentner Jr. will command U. S. Taiwan Defense Command. Vice Adm. Charles L. Melson is to replace retiring Vice Adm. Bernard L. Austin as the President of the Naval War College.

Qualified veterans of the Korean War have until January 31, 1965, to take advantage of the educational program under the Korean GI bill.

Defense officials are to make a determined drive among active duty personnel for maximum absentee voting in 1964. Some Washington political sources are fearful that not all such votes will go to the present Administration because so many lost pay in the 1963 pay raise. If the 1964 proposal for pay should give it to those with less than 2 years of duty and to the Reserve and National Guard it coul swell the votes favorable to the Administration.

The 1964 Freedoms Foundation Letter Awards Program for members of the Armed Forces, will focus on "My Vote: Freedom's Privilege." The top winner for each service will be invited to Washington to attend the Presidential inauguration on January 20, 1965. The top award is $1,000 with 100 additional cash awards — totaling $7,500. The competition opens April 1 and continues through November 1, 1964. All on active duty are eligible to enter. Letters are limited to 500 words and should be addressed to Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa. The deadline is November 1, 1964.

The next joint service maneuver exercise will be "Delaware" with airlifts from the U. S. to Iran in April. More than 6,800 Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine personnel will take part. Army Gen. Paul D. Adams, will have overall command.

Maj. Gen. Leighton Davis of the Air Force has received his third star and will command National Range Division at Patrick AFB, Florida. This is a newly designated position.

Rear Adm. Allen M. Shinn will be chief of the Bureau of Naval Weapons. Vice Rear Adm. Kleber S. Masterson is up for reassignment.

Units of the Army and Air National Guard will join forces in an airlift operation this summer under simulated emergency mobilization conditions. Plans call for almost 12,000 National Guardsmen to take part in units ranging from Company to Brigade size. Units in Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico will be airlifted to the United States in the same aircraft bringing stateside forces to the overseas training area.

President Johnson is now on record as saying further adjustments will be needed in military compensation rates to keep military pay abreast of changes in pay scales in the private economy. This position is expected to assist efforts to pass the 1964 pay raise bill for the military.

A federal court has held that the Government's share of a Civil Service annuity is not a gift and is therefore taxable as income.

The second annual Conseil Internationale Sports du Militaire (International Military Sports Council) Modern Penthathlon Championships will be held May 16-20 at Ft. Sam Houston. Team trials to select a four-man U. S. Team will be held May 4-8 at the fort.

Army announces that "recruiting" has been added to the list of administrative functions for which officers commanding Reserve organizations, having administrative functions connected therewith, receive administrative function pay.

Immediately on completion of Desert Strike, Maj. Gen. Charles H. Chase, Deputy Commander of Joint Task Force Mojave in the exercises, will leave for overseas. He has been assigned from MacDill AFB to U. S. Army Element, Allied Forced Central Europe.

A bill has been introduced in the Senate to give the 650,000 retired Federal employes and survivors a 5 per cent increase in retired annuity. The last 5 per cent increase was in 1962.

Army Regulations 600.25 dated September 25, 1963, says that military firing squads and bugler for the funeral of a veteran other than a retiree may be furnished by a local military commander if it will not interfer with the normal required military duties of the command. In addition, this can be done only when the firing squad and bugler can not be provided by a veteran's or patriotic organization. These recognized organizations will be furnished rifle M 1898 (Krag) and cartridge blanks upon request.

Due to increased military duties of assigned personnel it is not always possible for the military to render the last honors to deceased veterans. Apparently, this is the answer that the Army will give to the protests from veterans living in Leavenworth, Kan.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Defense Department, have agreed to form an inventory pool of 20 instrumentation ships for NASA and Defense space programs. The Navy will handle their design, construction, and modification. The Military Sea Transportation Service will run them. The pool consists of ten ships now run by the Air Force, seven by the Military Sea Transportation Service, and three new ships.

Virgil Mason To Return to Broadmoor

One of the all time favorites of the dining and dancing crowd will be back at the Broadmoor Tavern beginning Monday. Virgil Mason and his orchestra are returning to play for luncheon, dinner, and dancing after 9:30, daily except Sunday.

VIRGIL MASON

Mason, is being returned by popular demand. Last year his engagement here was extended twice.

Following his engagement in the Tavern last fall, mason chose to become a permanent resident of Colorado Springs and has just concluded a season as Manager of Winter House restaurant and lounge at Ski Broadmoor.

Musically, Mason specializes on vibraharp and drums and is accompanied by Buddy Roome, Jan Gmiter, and Pete Scheid who play saxaphone, clarinet, string bass, piano, guitar and celeste. A variety of vocal arrangements are also featured.

Mason attended Cornell University and after college joined the Frankie Carle band. He also played with the Myer Davis and Gene Pringle society orchestras before forming his own band. Mason's arrangements have won the coveted "Small Band of the Year Award" from Variety Magazine.

During one of the orchestra's previous engagements here the Gazette Telegraph reported, "The dance floor at The Broadmoor these days is completely crowded with happy dancers; the reason — the extremely danceable rhythms of Virgil Mason and his orchestra."

MAY VISIT U.S.

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard may meet President Johnson in Washington this summer, a government spokesman announced Wednesday.

Erhard has accepted an invitation to deliver an address at Harvard University during the first half of June. Erhard went to Texas late in December for his first conference with Johnson since succeeding Konrad Adenauer last October.

Negro Couple Give Up In Face of Opposition

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — A young Negro Air Force lieutenant and his wife have given up their plans to live in a new duplex because the white residents of the Lakeside Acres subdivision didn't want them as neighbors.

Lt. Thomas Wilson, assigned to the Air Force radar unit at the Olathe Naval Air Station, and Mrs. Wilson moved some of their belongings into the duplex Thursday. They moved out Friday after learning the neighborhood's attitude.

Wilson said he was disappointed.

"We are financially able to live in a nice place," he said. "If all we wanted was a roof over our heads, we could have found that."

The couple had searhced two weeks for a home, and the only places available were substandard, he explained.

Five Olathe ministers tried unsuccessfully a t a meeting Thursday night to change the neighbors' views.

William Dibben, a resident of the area, said homeowners fear the presence of a Negro family would lower property values.

Marooned Is Fun For Bus Passengers

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP)—Being marooned atop Sherman Hill in a blizzard turned out to be fun for 100 passengers in three buses.

Coeds from the University of Wyoming shared their packed lunches with the others. A creamery truck driver, also stranded, passed out free milk.

Instead of only three or four hours Friday, bus driver Don Tipsword said, "we could have sat up there for a couple of days."

New Classes For Adults to Start in April

Additional evening classes for adults in Driver Training and Lapidary work will begin during the second week in April, according to John L. Cameron, director of adult education for the Colorado Springs Public Schools.

Driver training includes laboratory instruction in driving an automobile, making use of specially designed trainers which closely duplicate the actual driving conditions behind the wheel of a "live car". The course is 24 hours in length with class meetings being held from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. two nights weekly for a period of 6 weeks.

Students have their choice of a class which meets on Monday and Wednesday or one which meets on Tuesday and Thursday. Cost of the course is $7.50.

Classes will begin on April 13th and 14th and interested persons disiring to enroll for this course should come to 406 N. Weber prior to the starting date to register.

Lapidary is a hobby type of course covering the cutting and polishing of rocks for use as jewelry pieces. Includes instruction in sources of material and how to recognize types. Majority of time is spent in actual work on cutting and polishing machines.

Classes meet two nights per week from 7:00-10:00 for a total of 39 hours. Cost of the course is $19.00 plus materials. Interested persons should call 633-7797 at their earliest convenience to reserve a space in a class and receive registration instructions.

For additional information on any of the above courses, phone 633-7797 or come in person to 406 N. Weber St.

Gamer Named Co-Director Of Summer Crossroads

Carlton Gamer, assistant professor of music at Colorado College, is the new co-director for the Summer Crossroads program under which 50 foreign college students will be guests of local families during the week of June 7-13.

Prof. Gamer, who holds a BA degree from Northwestern University and an MA from Boston University, will head the organization of seminars and discussions and will codirect with Mrs. Robert H. Smith. He succeeds Dr. Douglas Freed in the post.

The program, originated here in 1957, gives students the opportunity to live with American families after they have studied in this country for at least a year. Their fields of study range from space aeronautics and political science to philosophy and American literature.

Prof. Gamer, who lived in Japan for a year to familiarize himself with Oriental culture, has said of the Summer Crossroads program: "This cultural exchange is needed in our world today to erase misunderstanding and to lessen tensions. It gives students the opportunity to express themselves as a member of the family and to summarize experiences and compare notes with other foreign students."

The students, both undergraduates and graduates, will return to their countries after spending their final week in Colorado Springs.

The following persons are also participating in the program as committee chairmen:

Mrs. Charles Heitman, International Pot Luck Dinner; Mrs. James Carris, Briefing of Host Families; Mr. and Mrs. William Boddington, Social Committees; Mrs. Mentor Christensen, Public Relations; Mrs. Robert C. Price, Hospitality Committee.

Others on the Hospitality Committee are: Mrs. Milton Wiggins, Mrs. Harold Grueskin, Mrs. George Darby, Mrs. Fred Sondermann, Mrs. Jack Alexander, Mrs. Merle Watts, Mrs. William Tod Campbell, Mrs. Fred Sorensen and Mrs. Norton Bain.

Mrs. Glenn Brooks is Secretary for Seminar Resumes.

Open House Will Mark World Health Day

World Health Day will be celebrated one day early by the El Paso County Tuberculosis Association when open house will be held at the headquarters, 809 North Cascade Ave., Monday, according to Miss Mary Frances Loughlin, executive director.

Since the World Health Organization has selected the theme "No Truce for TB" the Tuberculosis Association is offering tuberculin skin test, without charge to the general public on Monday. In order to accommodate working people the tests will be given between 7:15 a.m. to 9:15 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Along with the free tuberculin skin tests a breathing test which will provide valuable information about the lungs will also be available. Return visits for examination of the skin reactions will be made at the same time on Friday.

In the World today 50 per cent of the population is infected with tuberculosis. The fight against TB in Asia, Africa and South America has only just begun and because of the frequency of the international travel those few countries which are gradually eliminating the problem within their frontier cannot hope to be saved as long as TB is rampant elsewhere.

The actual cause for worry is that as TB becomes less frequent the natural resistance of the population may be expected gradually to diminish.

TRIESTE OVERHAULED

BOSTON (UPI)—The Navy announced Friday that the overhauled bathyscaph Trieste will arrive here from the West Coast later this month to conduct oceanographic research in the Atlantic area where the submarine Thresher sank nearly one year ago with a loss of 129 men.

Canon City Attorney to Be Judge Candidate

Bryan Whitehead, Canon City attorney, has announced he will be a candidate for the position of county judge on the Democratic ticket this fall subject to the approval of the Democratic Central committee.

Whitehead's announcement was made by Gerald Benson, Fremont county Democratic Central committee chairman.

A resident of Fremont county since 1956, Whitehead is a native of Denver and a life-long state resident. He attended the Denver public schools and was graduated from East Denver high school and cum laude from the Westminster Law school ... now the University of Denver law school ... with a B.L. degree.

Admitted to the bar in Colorado in 1925, Whitehead was late admitted to the federal bar in 1927 and has been engaged actively in the practice of law since.

In announcing his bid for the post, Whitehead noted that he is licensed to practice law before the Federal Land board and other government agencies.

Whitehead has served as city attorney for the city of Edgewater in Jefferson county and was one of the original enforcement attorneys for the Office of Price Administration during World War II. He was also an attorney for one of the draft boards in the Denver area.

A life-time member of the Democratic party, Whitehead is married and lives with his wife in a home in Lincoln Park purchased by the couple in 1956. He currently is a practicing attorney in Canon City.

Election day will dawn April 7 in the Fremont county communities of Coal Creek and Rockvale, historic mining towns located four miles southwest of Florence.

At Coal Creek the election is expected to be more or less routine with a ticket headed by Mayor Philip Piccone running unopposed.

At Rockvale, however, three residents of that community will be seeking one of the six trustee offices for a two-year term. The contenders for the office are Albert Bulmack, William Slack and Edward Ziolkowski.

The incumbents, who are seeking re-election, are headed by Mayor Dan DeAngelo and include Ralph Carestia, Joseph Lucerna, Dominic Massaro, Lawrence Sartoris, and Millard Smith.

Those seeking office at Coal Creek include John Berardi, Reno Coresti, Joe De Biaso, Pete (Scootchie) Hay, Donnie Hays, and Joe Mascitelli.

Berardi, De Biaso, and Coresti are incumbents along with Mayor Piccone. The other candidates for the Coal Creek board of trustees are running for the first time on this ticket.

According to Viola Hay, Coal Creek town clerk, officials for the 1964 biennial election are judges — Nettie Evans, Annie Cowperthwaite, and Anne De Biaso, while clerks are Marguerite Mascitelli and Verna Thomas.

Mike Maltese, Rockvale town clerk, has listed his officals as follows:

Judges—Virginia Ziolkowski, Alsie Watkins, and Cornell Bulmack. Clerks are Frances Slack and Mae Ziolkowski.

Springs Drivers Awarded Patrol Commendations

Four Colorado Springs motorists have won commendations by the State Highway Patrol for safe driving and will compete for the April Highway Safety Award to be presented by the Denver Post and the Denver U.S. National Bank. They are: Virginia B. Britton, 2515 Alexander Highway; Peter D. Nugent, 1103 Cheyenne Rd.; June M. Morgan, 121 E. Arvada Ave., and Betty Lee McCandless, 2521 E. Boulder St.

Colorado State Patrolman Albert L. Smith, of Colorado Springs, issued a commendation to Naoma E. Pope, of Cripple Creek, and Patrolman Kenneth M. Smith, of Colorado Springs, issued a commendation to Richard L. Walters, of Fountain. Both recipients will compete for the April award.

Gen. Strong Will Speak to Nebraska Scouts

The Air Force Academy Commandant of Cadets, Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong Jr., will be featured speaker at the 10th annual Recognition Dinner of the Cornhusker Council of Boy Scouts in Lincoln, Neb., April 21.

More than 1,000 Scout leaders, their wives and husbands, Eagle Scouts, their parents and friends, will hear the speech.

Honored at the dinner will be 260 Cubmasters, Scoutmasters, and advisors from 65 communities in southeast Nebraska.

Gen. Strong will be introduced by Brig. Gen. Lewis E. Lyle, commander of the 818th Strategic Aerospace Division at Lincoln AFB.

CHEVELLE by Chevrolet
It's got young ideas about size, style and power

It's fun to drive a car with young ideas. Even more enjoyable when it's a Chevelle, built by Chevrolet. Because then you're driving a car with youthful styling and frisky performance plus the features that make Chevrolets so practical to own.

Chevelle's sociable size makes it especially appealing. It's shorter than big cars, so it's easy to handle and park. But that's hard to tell from the inside, because there's so much comfortable room for people and so much luggage space.

Apart from its bold, exciting lines and luxurious interior, Chevelle will climb a hill or pass on the highway with a wide margin of safety. A choice of engines makes sure of that.

Now's a wonderful time to get the most fun from a new Chevelle and a great trade for your old car. Because springtime is Trade 'N' Travel Time at your Chevrolet dealer's. You can choose from eleven elegant Chevelles, including convertibles, wagons, sedans and Super Sport models.

Trade 'N' Travel Time is a great time to test drive one of these beautiful Chevelles. And if it gives you young ideas about how best to enjoy a vacation this year, don't be surprised. That's just another good reason for seeing your Chevrolet dealer now.

Greek Government Survives New Vote

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Premier George Papandreou's government easily survived its first vote of confidence in the Greek Parliament today.

With all other parties either abstaining or out of the parliamentary chamber, Papandreous Cabinet won endorsement of its program, 168-0. The balloting came after a five-day debate, including emphasis on the Cyprus issue.

New World Danger Seen In Split of Red Camp

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Stanley Johnson was an Associated Press correspondent in Moscow fox six years, until 1962. He has reported on the Soviet-Chinese quarrel since it became acute in 1959-60. In this analysis he discusses the implications for the United States of the newest development in the dispute.)

By STANLEY JOHNSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The Kremlin virtually read the Chinese out of the world Communist movement today, forecasting an era which brings new opportunities and new dangers for the United States and its friends.

How to exploit what appears to be an unbridgeable chasm between Moscow and Peking was a major concern of the White House and State Department long before the Soviet Communist party issued its showdown challenge. Now it has become a vital concern.

To most diplomats, it long has seemed inevitable that a definitive break with China would mean the Soviet Union would have to work to improve relations with the West.

Not only does such a break mean the return to the relatively small "socialist camp" of the late 1940's, it also means the Soviet Union must guard the world's longest border against an openly hostile China.

In addition to the United States, firmly opposing Communist expansion to the West, there is now also Communist China, firmly opposing Soviet policy in the East.

Premier Khrushchev must be thanking his lucky stars he resisted all pressures to help China build an atomic bomb.

With its limited resources, faltering agriculture, and pledges to fight imperialism with improved living standards for its people the Soviet Union will find such a situation an almost unbearable strain unless there is relaxation somewhere.

It could come in Berlin, Cuba or any point where Moscow and the West are in conflict.

The other side of the coin is just as important, however. The Soviets, and Khrushchev in particular, cannot afford to follow a policy which might appear to prove the Chinese charge that Khrushchev is "the greatest capitulationist of all time" and a stooge of the United States.

The late President John F. Kennedy understood this well, and there is no reason to think President Johnson does not.

Khrushchev put an optimistic face on things to the last. Even in the call for a world Communist showdown meeting, his spokesman said the Soviet Union was still willing to work for reconciliation.

The possibility remains that pressure from other Communist parties during the proposed meeting might bring the Chinese black sheep back into the Communist fold. It seems much more probable, however, that they will continue to scorn any shepherding from Moscow.

In this case, another almost inevitable result would be a sharpening in their struggle for influence in southern Asia, Africa and Latin America.

A good place to watch for this is Zanzibar, where the Soviet Union and China are already eyeball to eyeball and it's a question of who'll wink first.

Expanded Shipbuilding Proposed by Italians

GENOA, Italy (AP)—An international congress of shipyard workers wants shipbuilders to expand into other industries to save employes from job loss.

A three-day annual meeting which closed in this big port city Friday night urged first that the world's shipbuilders try to expand production and job opportunities in their own field.

Where that is not possible, said the congress, there should be "diversification of shipyard production to other branches of industrial production."

Climax Expansion Seen As Colorado Advance

DENVER (AP) — The recent announcement by American Metal Climax Inc., of a $25 million expansion program in Colorado was hailed by Gov. John A. Love as a "significant" industrial advance.

Love reviewed plans Friday with Robert Henderson, vice president of western operations of Climax Molybdenum Co., the division in which the project on the Urad property near Berthoud Pass is planned.

Complete plans call for a company expansion of $40 million in the next four years, Love said. "Since 1939," he added, "the company has had a record of stability virtually unexcelled. We welcome this kind of employment opportunity for additional Coloradans who will benefit from this significant expansion."

The Climax firm operates the free world's largest production of molybdenum, used for harding steel, high in the Rockies near Leadville.

Palmer to Offer Revised Course In Accounting

Palmer High School will offer a revised course in accounting for academically talented juniors and seniors, beginning next September.

According to Murray L. Pirtle, chairman of the Business Department, Palmer will be the only school in Colorado and one of a very few schools in the nation to offer this kind of course.

Students electing the accounting course must have a good achievement record in other courses, but previous work in bookkeeping is not necessary. The first semester of accounting will cover the mechanics of bookkeeping, but at an accelerated pace, Pirtle said.

The textbook for the course is the same one used in beginning accounting courses in over 900 colleges, according to Pirtle. In general, the emphasis will be on accounting concepts and financial decision-making rather than bookkeeping mechanics, he added.

The course content includes study of the basic structure of accounting including the accounting cycle for service and merchandising businesses, various accounting controls and concepts, payroll and taxes, partnerships, corporations, and the preparation, analysis, and interpretation of financial reports.

Thomas B. Shoaf will teach accounting. He holds a bachelor of science degree in business administration from West Virginia University and a master or arts degree from Colorado State College. Before joining the Palmer faculty five years ago, he was employed by Price, Waterhouse and Company, a national accounting firm.

He said the course should be beneficial for either college bound students planning to study business administration, accounting, economics, or banking and finance or for students planning to enter business when they graduate from high school.

The EXCHANGE was only 19 years old when the Mt. Manitou Incline cable car made its first tourist trip back in 1907!

In 1907 the Mt. Manitou Incline was constructed to carry pipeline supplies from Manitou to the top of Mt. Manitou's first rise. It was later converted into a tourist cable car and since that time has carried millions of passengers to a point from where they have an incomparable view of the city and surrounding countryside. The world's longest scenic cable railway is also the safest—there has never been an injury to any passenger. Mt. Manitou Incline is annually enjoyed by visitors and local residents alike.

The Exchange National Bank was only 19 years old when Mt. Manitou Incline was built and at that time a handful of customers used bank services. Today, with assets exceeding $40 million and more than 25,000 customers, The Exchange offers a variety of banking services. Visit The Exchange National Bank today and you will readily understand why it is known as "The Bank of Personal Service." Solve all your banking needs and enjoy the friendly atmosphere at The Exchange, your "full-service" bank serving The Pikes Peak Region since 1888.

Carson Slates Religious Day Training

Discussion groups, moral instruction and guest preachers are part of a Religious Training Day being planned for Ft. Carson on April 24, according to Chaplain (Col.) Harold F. Donovan.

Ft. Carson and 5th Division chaplains met recently to select committees and to outline activities for the day. Plans are to suspend all regular training and to use all equipment, supplies and facilities for instruction in the field of religion.

"Attendance at religious activities will be on a purely voluntary basis," stated Chaplain Donovan. "However, we want to encourage men to use the opportunity to examine the central place of God in their lives," he continued.

"The activities are planned to challenge the spiritual life of the believing soldier."

HANDICAPPER OF THE MONTH — Miss Margaret Chafee, 1210 N. Custer Ave., has been named "Handicapper of the Month" by the Stalwart and Pals group of handicapped adults. Comprised of 40 persons, the organization nominates one member for the award at monthly meetings. Miss Chafee, a cerebral palsy victim since birth, participates in bowling, swimming and dancing and is active in work at the First Methodist Church. She is a past president of the "Roustabout Group" of the Cerebral Palsy organization of Colorado Springs, and has worked as a bandage volunteer at Penrose Hospital. Handicapped persons from all phases of community life make up the membership of the nearly three year-old organization.

Foreign Groups To Join Hands at Denver Festival

Students from Nepal, Pakistan and India, whose countries are often warring against each other, will join hands in presenting a highly colorful and ritualistic Moslem wedding ceremony in a University of Denver festival, sponsored by students from abroad.

The nuptial rite will be one of many features of the "Around the World" festival from 2-4 p.m. Sunday, April 12, in the DU Student Union, 2050 E. Evans Ave.

Exhibits of cultural and artistic objects from approximately 25 foreign countries will be on display before and after the program, featuring an imaginary trip around the world at 2:30 p.m. Some of the perfromances on the program will include an Arabian song and dance, a Philippine dance duo, folk dances from Japan and Greece, and German and Norwegian folk songs.

The students, who will be dressed in native costumes, sponsor an international festival annually in appreciation to local persons who have extended hospitality to them. The public is invited to attend the free activities.

A total of 214 non-U.S. students from 54 countries attended the University of Denver. Nick Georgas, a senior from Sparta, Greece, is chairman of the event and master of ceremonies.

Peter Tu, a graduate student from Hong Kong, will give a welcoming address and Gudrun Fahrenkrog, a special student from Berlin, will conduct the imaginary global tour.

Carson Chaplain Named First in Speech Contest

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Andrew L. Johnson, Ft. Carson, runnerup in last years competition, won first place in the Toastmasters area speech contest held recently in the Palmer House.

Chaplain Johnson delivered a prepared seven-minute address entitled, "Tribute to Greatness." It was a eulogy to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Jim Phillips, Toastmaster governor, reported that Chaplain Johnson won "hands down."

He was in competition with representatives of six other Toastmaster International clubs in Area 6, District 26: Leadville, Air Academy, Ent Air Force Base, Farmers Insurance, Colorado Springs and Salida.

He will compete later this month in the bi-area contest which includes Canon City, Alamosa, Trinidad and two clubs at Pueblo.

Federal Drouth Aid Refused by Bureau

DENVER (AP) — Federal aid for drouth-stricken farmers in five southeastern Colorado counties has been refused.

Gov. John A. Love said Friday he deplored the government's rejection of the request "but I deplore even more that the request has been there two months and we just received an answer."

He said the farmers were entitled to at least a reasonably prompt decision.

Farmers in Baca, Kiowa, Bent, Prowers and Cheyenne counties had asked for federal money to help them break soil to combat wind erosion.

State Agriculture Commissioner Paul W. Swisher said heavy demands on federal emergency funds because of the Ohio floods and the Alaska earthquake may have accounted for the refusal.

Mrs. Ted Williams Files for Separation

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Ted Williams, wife of the retired Boston Red Sox baseball star, has filed suit in Miami, Fla., for separate maintenance, seeking "at least $2,000 a month." The suit charged Williams with extreme cruelty. They were married Sept. 10, 1961.

Ship Kitty Hawk will display small boat craft and safety equipment during the Scout-O-Rama exhibition this month. LCDR Scawthorn and Yeoman Sarchet are assigned to the Naval Forces Staff at NORAD.

Mennonites Come to Aid Of Flood-Stricken Town

WEST POINT, Ky. (AP)—An unusual kind of missionary work helped scrub away the mud and emotional strain left by a spring flood in this Ohio River town of 2,000 population.

Twenty-five Mennonites combined their muscle and kindness with tools supplied by the Red Cross to clean 22 houses and a church after three-fourths of the town had been forced to flee the worst flood in 20 years in America's midland.

"They just took over whatever dirty job got in their way and made things right," commented Police Judge Gladys Stackhouse.

Twelve of 15 Mennonites from Elkhart, Ind., are still at work daily trying to help the aged and helpless rebuild their homes.

The men belong to the Mennonite Disaster Service, a public help group founded 12 years ago. Their services are free and the disaster work is considered part of the religious sect's missionary program.

Mrs. Henry Madden pointed to the high-water mark in her living room and said: "I prayed for help, and these Mennonites came. People worried about me, but I knew I could pray, and my help came."

Her husband is 83 and just recovering from surgery.

"God sent them," commented Miss Lillie Lewis.

The men cleaned her home when the March flood receded. Now they are repairing its interior.

The Mennonites sent volunteer crews to Falmouth, Ky. and Cincinnati and nurses to Manchester, Ohio, during the flood.

At West Point they expect to contribute about 1,600 hours toward rebuilding the town.

West Point is about 30 miles southwest of Louisville and was perhaps Kentucky's hardest-hit town during the flood. It is at the juncture of the Salt and Ohio Rivers and is home for many of the workers at nearby Ft. Knox.

The Mennonites talk very little and leave the explanations to their leader, Levi Bontreger.

Asked about the sect's altruism, he produced a pamphlet which read in part: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart . . . and thy neighbor as thyself."

DESERT STUDY

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Thirty-one years of study of 119,370 square miles of desert in four U.S. states and Mexico is represented in "Vegetation and Flora of the Sonoran Desert," 1,740-page, two volume work recently published by Stanford University Press.

The author-surveyors are Stanford Prof. Ira L. Wiggins and the late Dr. Forrest Shreve of the Carnegie Institution's Desert Laboratory.

GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Ignorance

There's a great deal of difference between being ignorant and being stupid. All of us are ignorant in many areas. Faced with that fact, it doesn't help matters by being too stupid to recognize it.

Instant Education

With our ever-advancing technology we are probably going to have to begin asking ourselves some pretty basic questions.

For instance, we are now informed that the college of the future will rely heavily on television, teaching machines, testing machines, digital computers, IBM data processing and little cell-like cubicles where students, equipped with space helmets and head-sets, can obtain information they require by pushing buttons, listening to tape recordings or straining their eyes at TV screens.

There is no doubt in our minds that this kind of procedure will be adopted by many colleges. It is estimated that by using these mass-production methods, a single professor could lecture (via TV) to as many as 10,000 students at one time, and then sit in himself while a second batch of 10,000 are herded into TV viewing rooms where his video-tape recording can be replayed.

The ability to reach vast numbers of people through mechanical and electronic processes is challenging and conceivably without limit.

Instant education seems to be in the offing.

But we are prone to caution. We are wondering if this enormous spurt in visual and audio aids to help the teacher and student alike, really IS education.

To our mind, the finest aid to education ever devised was put together a good many centuries ago and people still have not gotten around to using it extensively. The device is called a "book." In a "book," an enormous number of diversified facts can be put together and made available over an indefinite time. All that one has to do to get at the facts is to read what has been written in the "book."

So, if access to data is to be equated with education, then we will contend that for several centuries, most notably our own, the human species has had access to the most astonishing collection of data ever assembled. And this WITHOUT schools or teachers or anything more exciting than a library card or the price of a second-hand tome in some book store.

As we look at all the glorious promises of the new electronic age of education, we are tempted to conclude that from one end to the other, the various devices are nothing more than extremely clever ways of avoiding reading. Instead of putting facts down into books, we can tabulate them on magnetic tape. Instead of drawing charts and diagrams on blackboards, we can put them on color film.

We have nothing against magnetic tape or motion pictures. But we have nothing against books, either, and to our mind all three devices, while excellent in themselves, can't quite do the job of educating.

Let us grant that each of the devices hailed as a boon for the new age in education has certain advantages over each other device. But when that is said and done, is there any place left for that most ancient of teaching devices, the human teacher? We will contend that there is.

And there is one advantage the human teacher has over even the most rapidly moving and data-packed electronic brain. The human teacher is, after all, human. And the contact between the teacher and the student, particularly when classes are kept small, discussion is encouraged, and response is spontaneous, is, we feel, a part of the educational picture that shouldn't be entirely relegated to the past.

Perhaps, in one sense, the enormous push toward the automated student stems from an appalling dearth of good teachers. We'll go along with the general observation that you might as well put most teachers on tape because you can at least turn them off when your boredom reaches red-alert proportions. But that is only true when you have a teacher whose interest in teaching is secondary and whose knowledge and skill in the area being explored is something less than masterful.

But we have seen small groups of students "come alive" under the stimulation of a truly exciting idea, under the skillful probing and suggestion of a teacher who knows his subject and understands his students. And there is as yet no mechanical or electronic device that can duplicate the spontaneity of this TWO-WAY exchange.

We will suggest that education is more than the mere accumulation of data. If that is all that is necessary, let's close the schools, buy each student a good encyclopedia, and forget the whole business.

Obviously, the purpose of an education is to train the mind, not as a storehouse for facts — computers and data-gathering devices can do that — but as a mechanism that can THINK.

Naturally, some facts are essential to any thinking process, and various devices, including books, can be used for storing facts.

But the educated man or woman knows how to put facts together in ways that no mechanical brain can ever accomplish until some human brain has put the data into it. And the two-way exchange between teacher and student and among students will continue to serve the true purpose of education for a long time to come.

Perhaps what we ought to consider, alongside the vast mountains of dollars necessary to install expensive intellectual robots, are some new devices to thoroughly prepare some human teachers.

To our mind, the enormous break-throughs being made by science make the human instructor even more important than the tape recording. After all, the information being used in advanced education now changes so rapidly that a tape recording turns out to be a record of error after a relatively short time.

Teachers can up-grade themselves as they go along. A tape recording or a motion picture are dated and obsolete almost as rapidly as a daily newspaper.

We are not suggesting the abandonment of teaching AIDS. We are suggesting that there may be a limit to teacher SUBSTITUTES.

In the end, it is not better teaching devices that should be the criterion.

Rather, it is the thoroughly equipped and inspired student who emerges with the ability to weigh values and to reason accurately. It is the human side of education that requires emphasis today, not the automatic side.

Instant education may not be quite as effective as education in depth.

COUNCILMAN CALLS CITY LOT RIDICULOUS

Richmond, Virginia, Councilman Elwood Ford recently described the city's Second Street parking lot a ridiculous and uneconomic venture. Mr. Ford told the local parking association that private interests did not find the parking lot plan feasible and refused to invest in the project. If the parking lot were not feasible at normal off-street parking rates, Ford said, it is "especially ridiculous" at the city's rate of ten cents an hour.

Advocates of the parking lot project predicted that it would help downtown Richmond. But any benefits have been so slight that they're not noticeable, said Mr. Ford. The city had tried to interest private developers in the project but failed to do so. Consequently, having purchased the land, the city went ahead and opened a metered lot.

A Tragic Mistake

By THURMAN SENSING

As the mass agitation groups in the nation step up their campaign to ram the Civil Rights act through the U.S. Senate, their drive will have the full support of the bureaucracy of the National Council of Churches. In short, the NCC will be a full time partner of the Congress of Racial Equality, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee and other groups that are seeking to impose a new pattern of regimentation on Americans and strip them of constitutional rights.

The General Assembly of the NCC, meeting in Philadelphia early last December, passed a resolution calling upon Congress "to take every step necessary to ensure the earliest possible passage of the Civil Rights Act." Robert W. Spike, executive director of the Commission on Race of the NCC, wrote a letter to the Executives of State Councils of Churches outlining the NCC's lobbying activities in behalf of this force bill. When the bill reaches the Senate, he said, "A massive letter writing campaign will be necessary. Remind everyone that their letters, telephone calls, and visits have made the progress of the bill possible."

Point 4 of Mr. Spike's letter states: "We plan round-the-clock church services in Washington at the time the bill comes to the Senate and during any filibuster which develops." He then asked, "Will you send us a list of clergymen whom you know would be willing to serve as a kind of preaching mission in our church services in Washington at the time of the filibuster."

The NCC — which claims to speak for 40,000,000 Protestants but which very definitely does not — isn't the only church organization backing the bill that is accurately characterized as a "civil wrongs" bill. For instance, the Council of the National Conference of the Methodist Youth Fellowship at a meeting in Nashville, Tenn., adopted a statement saying: "Specifically, we support the passage of all provisions of the present Civil Rights bill."

It is fantastic that the NCC, the Methodist Youth Conference, or any other church group would lend support to this legislation. To find religious organizations supporting a bill that would impose totalitarian measures on the United States is as incredible as it is tragic. It can only be concluded they do so either through ignorance or because they want to destroy our constitutional republican form of government. It is probably mostly the former, because it is not to be believed that many people really know what the Civil Rights Act would do. Among many others, it would deny:

The right of freedom of speech and freedom of the press concerning "discrimination or segregation of any kind"; the right of homeowners to rent, lease or sell their homes as free individuals; the right of banks, savings and loan associations, etc. to make loans and extend credits in accordance with their best judgment; the right of employers "to hire or discharge any individual"; the right of labor unions to choose their members; the right of farmers to freely choose their tenants and employees; the right of a businessman to control his own business; and so on ad nauseum.

The sum and substance of the measure being supported by the NCC is that it provides for a regimented way of life in the United States. Though described by its proponents as a "rights" bill, the legislation would only be concerned with the taking away of rights. It would constitute a legal blackjack aimed at the heads of citizens who do not believe that their personal lives should be ordered by the executive power in the federal government.

It is hard to understand how any citizen who believes in personal liberty and the historic American freedoms can support either the Civil Rights Act or the NCC, which is lobbying for it. Even if the bill were a good one, which it is not, an interdenominational agency is in a scandalous position when it acts as a power bloc trying to bring pressure on Congress.

Irate Writers of Letters

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

As I've mentioned once or twice before, you just can't win 'em all but since I'm not involved in a popularity contest, the fact that some anonymous writers of letters become irate is of little importance. The contents of a letter from an obviously irate writer who prefers to be anonymous, however, may provide a clue which will help us to understand human behavior which seems to be irrational. A female, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, wrote:

"You have no humility. You criticize our great leaders who are always humble. You do not recognize the brotherhood of man and your duty to your brothers. You are arrogant, cynical and show disdain for your brothers and I want to tell you it's impossible for you to get any place in this world unless you are a humble man."

In referring to our great leaders, the letter writers remind me of the two politicians who were involved in a heated argument. The first great leader, beginning to run out of words, said: "Bill, there's no way around it, you are a worthless, no account skunk." Bill hardly hesitated before he said, "Jim, I am so humble I am just a little, worthless, no account skunk while you are a BIG, worthless, no account skunk."

And before long one of those great leaders will brag about what his administration has done in 100 days, pretending to humility while he brags, after which other great leaders will agree or vehemently disagree while eating humble pie. For most of the balance of this year, other politicians will humbly orate about their ability, real or imagined, to understand the "great and complex problems of our time" as they guarantee to represent all of their constituents for the benefit of all of their constituents.

I wonder. Am I living in a country populated by humble-bums? Is the pretense of humility a national pastime? They are what they will be — I have no brothers!

There's a nice thing about letters from irate letter writers. They let me know they read what I write and disapprove, honestly. They want all the socialist goodies and intend to fight for what they want — like the man who wrote: "I intend to get anything I can. I'll work every angle the government creates for me and if others don't like it they can quit doing business with government and they can quit pretending. At least I know where you stand. I wouldn't try to steal from you personally. I'll let the government do it for me."

Tomorrow, an election will be held in this school district and several people have attempted to coax us to sanction the election for one reason or another. Those who want YES votes are unable to understand why we refuse to vote and would feel better if we voted NO. Those who want us to vote NO can't understand why we refuse to sanction the system. They find it too difficult to understand our position and from time to time I receive a few letters on this subject. As a matter of unfortunate fact, I know of a few people who speak for what they call libertarian causes who find it completely impossible to understand why we will not vote even to vote NO, and they are inclined to become irate when they write letters, too.

Maybe a lack of humility prevents me from voting to join or oppose whatever happens to be the majority. Without being humble, I can hardly take it upon myself to impose my will, via the ballot box, on the minority. I suppose it also takes a carload of humility to tell others how to vote and a certain amount of arrogance to refuse to tell others how to vote. And I realize this will get me no place but comfortable with my own conscience, and I am too lacking in humility to be concerned with any conscience but my own!

In the meantime, I'm going to watch out the kitchen window because I enjoy seeing the huge jackrabbits play in the dry wash which runs under MY MOTEL.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

From Chicago Tribune

Mrs. Esther Peterson, special assistant to the President for consumer affairs, told a House subcommittee the other day she is getting complaints about rising coffee prices from housewives throughout the country and expresses the opinion they may react by drinking less coffee or changing to substitute beverages. She conceded coffee prices are too high. Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, Missouri Democrat and chairman of the consumer affairs subcommittee, also expressed concern. She said that coffee which cost 65 cents a pound in supermarkets last summer now is in the 78 to 82-cent range.

The subcommittee also heard testimony along the line dispensed recently by the Brazilian Coffee Institute. John F. McKiernan, president of the National Coffee Association, said the fundamental reason for the price raise was severe weather damage to the Brazilian crop. Jerome Jacobson, deputy assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, said that although prices have gone up too rapidly and too high, the quota system under the international coffee agreement cannot be blamed because "quotas don't put coffee berries on the trees."

Quotas may not put berries on trees, but they certainly keep coffee from coming into this country from the huge surplus that exists in world supplies. The coffee surplus is so big, in fact, that it is sufficient for normal needs in all the consuming countries for 18 months. Yet prices have been rising since the coffee agreement was drawn up more than a year ago.

That agreement, embracing countries, is nothing more than an international price-fixing mechanism operating by means of an export quota to create artificial shortages. Chief beneficiaries are the Latin American coffee-producing countries, which won support for the scheme from our own state department as another way of giving them foreign aid along with the Alliance for Progress.

Rep. Clarence Brown, Ohio Republican, tagged it properly when he told the House last November the scheme "puts the United States into a sort of cartel that will hold up the cost of coffee at the expense of the American housewife." Rep. Joseph M. McDade, Republican of Pennsylvania, has charged the agreement would cost Americans 350 million dollars in higher prices.

The Senate finance committee, by a vote of 8 to 7 the other day, approved a bill to provide some enabling legislation in connection with the agreement. It is said that if Congress fails to enact this bill the coffee agreement might become inoperative or expire. This prospect certainly would not be viewed as a calamity by American housewives who have discovered what the agreement means to their food bills.

It is impossible to overlook the hypocrisy of an administration which has made a great show of "consumer protection" and is busy decrying coffee prices which have risen precisely because it signed the United States into a cartel to nick the American consumer.

U.N. GOINGS-ON

To the Editor:

The March 30 issue of Barron's carries a front-page story of the goings-on at the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. This is a meeting of world bureaucracy being held in Geneva. According to Barron's, this is in reality a "hate the West" conference. The welcoming address, given by that great "fighter for freedom," Secretary General U Thant, was replete with denouncements of the "blind economic forces" that are keeping poorer lands in "bondage and poverty." "This frustrating phenomenon," said U Thant sternly, "emphasizes the need to control market forces which have until now been permitted to counter government policies." (I wonder what he meant by "until now"?)

Many have charged the United Nations with being an instrument of the communist mentality to bring about one-world socialism. Surely a man with U Thant's thought pattern couldn't be in favor of socialism!

Another of the main speakers at this meeting of world socialism, involving 1500 delegates from 123 countries, was one Dr. Raul Prebisch, an Argentine socialist. He proposed a global share-the-wealth scheme whereby affluent societies would tax themselves to provide their less fortunate neighbors with a guaranteed income. (I wonder where he has been for the past 20 years. He apparently doesn't realize that Washington beat him to it.)

Barron's closes the article with the following paragraph: "That socialism is bankrupt — not only in Burma but also in Cuba, China and the Soviet Union itself — by now is well known. The beggar's opera in Geneva plainly indicates that the United Nations would plunge the whole world into the hands of receivers. For nearly twenty years the U.S. has given the U.N. a blank check. The time has come to stop payment."

Hooray for Barron's. Perhaps one of these days the American businessman will grow tired of financing his own burial and stand up and demand that his involuntary servitude be ended.

COMPARISON

To the Editor:

The comparative efficiency of Private Enterprise vs. Government gimmicks was neatly illustrated last week when news of the Alaskan disaster became known. The President of the United States hastily summoned his coordinator and the two Alaskan senators, directed them to fly north, take a look-see and report back. When the president of the Red Cross heard the report, he had already been alerted by reporters and officials on the scene, and had started many loads of all kinds of supplies to each of the stricken areas.

Instead of asking Congress to saddle another billion or so on the taxpayers, the president of the U.S. and of the Red Cross might better have instructed the Red Cross to undertake the entire burden, as they were prepared to do, and individuals and corporations might be solicited for supplies, money and men, for donations to the Red Cross are always deductible, while tax money is not. We are all always happier, richer and more efficient when we do what we want to do rather than to do the same thing under duress by an overpowering government.

THE WORD FREEDOM

To the Editor:

"What fools these mortals be."

Mr. Dorman Savage and myself have been, in your in-alienable position, a detriment to freedom as you see it. Yet, as you state, we are traveling identical paths but fail to agree on the distance traveled.

You continue to use your ability with the English language to confuse, by your literal use of the word freedom. Fortunately, your readers consume your editorials with great knowledge of history.

One must remember the wise prophet who said: "And in much of your talking, thinking is half murdered." This same reasoning applies to editorials with opinions primary and facts twisted to fit a particular bias.

The only fundamental difference in our assemblance of knowledge is the actual definition of freedom and freedom as applied to our lives in the United States. Freedom is defined as absence of restraint or repression. This is exactly what the "one worlders," "socialists," "communists" and "atheists" have done to liberty (freedom) in the United States. Freedom to lie, cheat, rape and murder to satisfy their own immorality. Or, "the end justifies the means."

Liberty, as fought for and won in the Revolutionary War, is "with previous restraint." Previous restraint is a moral or religious concept of freedom. The United States was founded by individuals seeking "religious freedom," which is liberty.

Liberty must have restraints or guide lines, since we both agree that man is not perfect but some are more so than others. Freedom has no restraints which will result in havoc because satisfaction of materialistic wants will triumph over moral righteousness in the majority. I am for LIBERTY, you are for FREEDOM. The direction is the same in both cases. Let's combine our efforts to save our constitutional republic and then take care of the minor internal disturbances at home. "Liberty is not in any form of government. It is in the heart of freeman; he carries it with him every where." (Jean Jacques Rousseau).

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 471: "How do you regard the basic situation of the vast current Alaskan human need from the standpoint of assistance through agencies such as the Red Cross and in relation to state and federal rehabilitation?"

—THEODORE FISHER

Answer: The Alaskan earthquake calls to mind the single other catastrophe of like nature occurring in the United States within relatively recent years, the San Francisco earthquake of 1906. The question of Mr. Fisher reveals the difference in philosophy that exists in 1964 as compared to the one in 1906.

When the great quake and fire leveled much of what is now the downtown area of San Francisco, government had not assumed the role of universal cornucopia for men in difficulties.

What happened? Within a week, gifts and contributions from around the world provided more money than was needed to get San Francisco under way again. No one was compelled to contribute. But the persons best able to contribute did so because they wanted to do so.

The response created a glow in the hearts of millions, making them feel that it was good to be alive; that it was good to live in a world where there is such basic goodness, where people, without being coerced, are concerned and helpful to those in dire straits.

Now what is the situation in Alaska? A week has passed and who has offered to put up any money to help out? Instead, most of us are biding our time, wondering just what the government will do and how much the government will force out of our possession.

Further, we are wondering how much the real problem will be "padded" by government extravagance and political mendacity. The great joy we might have experienced, had this whole area not been usurped by the state, is wholly missing.

We are wary and suspicious. We have a great fellow feeling for our Alaskan brothers, but we wonder how their problem is now going to be added to our other problems and against our wills.

When all the citizens of any nation are systematically robbed by their government, there comes a time when these same citizens harden their hearts and no longer wish to help others. Knowing that they will be taxed in support of Alaskans, slays any remaining human compassion we might have. We don't know how much we will be taxed, nor over how long a period. Therefore, why volunteer?

When we relied on the Red Cross, on voluntary assistance, on the gentleness and kindness of human beings, we had no reason to assume such a cold and calculating mood.

There is no reason to suppose that, lacking government involvement, the people in Alaska would suffer. On the contrary, there is every reason to suppose that the assistance to be forthcoming would be overwhelmingly generous, were it not for the existing practices and philosophy.

The American Way

'Civil Rights' by Force

By TOM ANDERSON

The "Civil Rights" bill takes away more rights than it confers. The government which has told you what you can't plant is now telling you whom you must hire. If you are not free to manage your farm or business, you don't really own it. And that is the long-time goal of the collectivists — to take it completely away from you. For instance, Negro Ralph Bunche, one of our United Nations representatives, is dedicated to the elimination of the property-owning class.

MEANS FORCE

What is the "Civil Rights" bill, and what does it mean to you? It means that if you're a Protestant who hires only Protestants, or a Jew who hires only Jews, or a Catholic who hires only Catholics, you would be prosecuted by the federal government. It means you would be forced to hire an equal percentage of Swedes as you do Italians or be punished for discrimination against national origin. If you defied the government when it told you that you had to hire a "qualified" Negro as your secretary, or foreman, or salesman, or instructor in a dancing school, or lifeguard at a swimming pool, you would be tried on criminal contempt charges, at your own expense. Under the "Civil Rights" bill, the attorney general of the United States could bring legal actions in your name whether you desired to go to court or not, and the Civil Rights Commission could summon you on 24 hours' notice from any part of the United States to any place it might designate to defend yourself against charges of which you were ignorant until you got the subpoena. It means integration would be forced by army bayonets, martial law and federal goons.

Mob rule is anarchy. Government rule without the consent of the governed is autocracy. We should stand for neither. The idea that Supreme Court justices, federal troops or elimination of federal aid can force the majority of people of supposedly sovereign states to do something they're determined not to do is abhorrent.

NOT ENFORCEABLE

During the Prohibition monstrosity, millions of Americans voted dry and drank wet. The 18th Amendment failed because it couldn't be enforced. It could not be enforced because a majority of the people didn't really want it enforced. The people voted it in, and the people voted it out — a majority of the people in three-fourths of the states. The great majority of the people, including many who piously plead from beneath their halos that all men are created equal, don't practice integration and have no intention to. They just preach it, for others. Many white integration eager-beavers either live in a state where there are few Negroes or are able to buy their own segregation in private schools and clubs and in their cloistered lives. In Connecticut, Negroes are 3 per cent of the population; in Mississippi, they are 45 per cent. The problem is in almost direct proportion to the percentages.

This is just the beginning — unless we find legal ways to stop it. After the pressure groups, do-gooders, Communists and unscrupulous politicians integrate all schools and businesses, public and private, next assaults will be on private clubs, fraternities, 4-H clubs, FFA and Boy Scouts. That leaves the home.

Allen-Scott Report

New Probe of Thresher Disaster

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Navy is reopening its search for the nuclear submarine U.S.S. Thresher lost just a year ago in the worst underseas disaster in this nation's history.

The new underwater hunt is being organized to begin as soon as the Trieste, the Navy's deep-diving searchcraft, is brought from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean this summer.

The Trieste is being equipped with a new and more powerful engine and improved cameras. It will probe the ocean's bottom 220 miles east of Cape Cod where the Thresher disappeared with 129 aboard on April 10, 1963.

This ocean graveyard was carefully marked during the first unsuccessful search for the Thresher, which was abandoned by the Navy last year because of the limited operating capabilities of the Trieste.

With its new and more powerful engine, the Trieste will be able to more than triple the time it can stay beneath the surface at depths ranging up to 8,400 feet.

The Trieste's increased speed, estimated at five knots as compared to one and one-half knots with the old engine, will permit a wide search of the ocean floor during each diving operation.

While opposition to reopening the Thresher search is being voiced within the Navy by some influential officers on economy grounds, a group of dedicated submarine and nuclear specialists, headed by Admiral Hyman Rickover, are pushing the new operation.

These experts are determined to find the cause of this terrible disaster by bringing up for examination all the Thresher debris that can be found.

UNANSWERED

A Court of Inquiry report made public in June 1963 by then-Navy Secretary Fred Korth found that "a piping system failure had occurred in one of the Thresher's salt water systems," causing the sub to sink below its "collapse" depth.

While the Rickover group is not directly challenging this finding, they want to learn if the piping system breakdown was due to failure to develop a more powerful hull for these high-speed, deep-diving nuclear craft.

In developing the Thresher-type nuclear submarine, Admiral Rickover succeeded in getting the Navy to strengthen the compartments enclosing the nuclear reactor but not other parts of the sub's hull. This crucial battle is still being fought inside the Navy.

If the Trieste can locate the "remains" of the Thresher, Admiral Rickover and his group believe the damaged parts of the hull will support their case for strengthening the hulls of all nuclear submarines.

"Rickover pictures the problem as comparable to fitting a Model T car with a modern fuel injection engine," explains one member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee after discussing the loss of the Thresher with the Navy's chief nuclear scientist. "He said the Navy had a high-performance submarine in the Thresher, but one whose metal-sheeted hull was not radically different from conventionally - powered submarines that operate at less than half the speed and depth."

SUPPRESSED

It is authoritatively understood that Rickover was unable to get the Navy's Bureau of Ships to undertake the research and development necessary to improve the hulls before the Thresher disaster, despite numerous direct appeals to high Navy officials.

Rickover was handicapped in these efforts because his field in the nuclear submarine program is limited to the development of propulsion reactors.

These characteristically blunt views of Admiral Rickover and other shocking findings about the construction work on the Thresher were presented in executive session to the Joint Atomic Committee.

The testimony is locked in the committee's safe. The Navy is flatly refusing to permit its publication on security grounds. According to one committee member, "It will take another nuclear submarine sinking to blast the information out into the open."

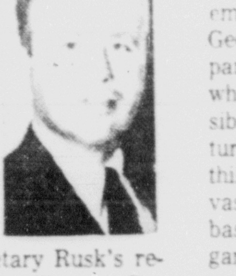
POTOMAC SPRAY

Foreign diplomats who previously received only warning notices for violating Washington traffic laws will now be given tickets and be subject to fines. According to Senator Karl Mundt, R-S.D., the Washington Police Department will thus become "the first U.S. agency actually making an effort to get back some of our foreign aid money . . . Chances for approval of a program to sharply curtail meat imports dropped when Agriculture Secretary Freeman, appearing before the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he opposes the legislation which would place quotas on imports of beef, veal and mutton. Hearings on the measure are being held before the Senate Finance Committee, but with the full weight of the Johnson administration in opposition, the odds are against its passage.

To The Point

Healthy Criticism

By RUSSELL KIRK



The Johnson administration's foreign policy, and Secretary of State Rusk, are being belabored from all sides. Senators Morse and Gruening have said in no uncertain terms that Mr Rusk's services can be dispensed with. The immediate cause of their wrath was Secretary Rusk's recent speech to the Western Political Science Association, meeting in Salt Lake City: Mr. Rusk declared that people who advocate "gutting" the foreign-aid program, and "abandoning the field" to America's adversaries, play into the hands of the Communists. His language was strong.

Now Senators Morse and Gruening, Democratic liberals have been as critical of the foreign-aid program as have conservative Republicans like Senators Goldwater and Tower — though not always for the same reason. And both Morse and Gruening think that American forces should be withdrawn from South Viet Nam. The two of them declared that Mr. Rusk's words implied that those who oppose State Department policies are only a little windward of treason.

Certainly senators in either party have reason to complain of the supercilious tone of many State Department pronouncements and personnel. This columnist has had similar experiences with various branches of the State Department — though other offices of that department, and some of its leading lights, are civil and reasonably candid.

Although the State Department is at least one-third overstaffed, and encumbered with deadwood in the form of incompetent administrators whom it is virtually impossible to remove from office (these sad truths are affirmed by such eminent diplomats as Mr George Kennan), still the department is particularly touchy when anyone mentions the possibility of reducing its expenditures or its personnel. When this commentator discussed the vast overstaffing of most embassies, for instance, the propaganda-apparatus of the State Department set to work to try to discredit his criticisms, by evasion, innuendo, or outright false denial. When, similarly, I wrote of some instances of silliness in the United States Information Agency and allied programs, I encountered intemperate and arrogant — and apparently frightened — reactions from high - ranking administrators who ought to be responsible, but seem to be more interested in preventing anybody from upsetting the applecart.

So I feel more than a little sympathy with Senators Morse and Gruening. The foreign-aid budget recently proposed by President Johnson — some 3.4 billion dollars — can and should be reduced; much of such money still goes down the drain. It is not unpatriotic to say so.

As for South Viet Nam, the senator from Oregon and the senator from Alaska (whose views now seem to be shared by the Democratic Senate leader, Mr. Mansfield) are right enough, in a way. Either the State Department and the military must devise a new plan for resisting the Communist guerillas in southeast Asia, or we should make the best of a bad bargain, follow the example of General de Gaulle in trying to compromise with our adversaries in that part of the world, and withdraw our troops. As this columnist and other writers have pointed out recently, merely pouring in military and economic aid to continue the present unsuccessful scheme of resistance must lead to defeat.

So unless Secretary Rusk and his staff mend their policies and their utterances, they are going to have less and less cooperation from the leading senators of either party.

that the original intent of our independence was "freedom" with restraint, the words of Mr. George Hay, 1799, and Mr. Thomas Paine, 1776, are appropriate.

(1) "It is obvious in itself, and it is admitted by all men, that freedom of speech means the power uncontrolled by law, of speaking either truth or falsehood at the discretion of the individual; provided no other individual be injured." It is obvious, also, that freedom of speech contains a restraint!

"Happily for mankind, the word 'freedom' begins now to be applied to religion also. In the United States it is applied in its fullest force, and religious freedom is completely understood to mean the power uncontrolled by law of processing and publishing any opinions on religious topics, which any individual may choose to process or publish, and of supporting those opinions by any statements he may think proper to make. The fool may not only say in his heart, there is no God, but he may announce if he pleases his atheism to the world. He may endeavor to corrupt mankind, not only by opinions that are erroneous, but by facts which are false. Still however he will be safe, because he lives in a country where religious freedom is established."

(2) "Some writers have so confounded society with government, as to leave little or no distinction between them; whereas, they are not only different, but have different origins. Society is produced by our wants, and government by our wickedness; the former promotes our happiness positively by uniting our affections, the latter negatively by restraining our vices. The one encourages intercourse, the other creates distinctions. The first is a patron, the last a punisher."

Again let me state my purpose — not to continue the folly of debate between liberty and freedom (but would cherish your opinions) but to encourage a policy that will completely and admittedly work with conservative liberty, so dear to Americans (most without realizing it). Your superior ability and courageous actions, both personally and financially are to be highly complimented and your support is solicited.

LeMOYNE BROWNING
201 W. Main
Florence, Colo.

Editor's note: A study of the origin of the word "liberty" as with the word "freedom" discloses that there is no disparity of meaning between the two. Both indicate a state or condition wherein no restraint is imposed by one upon another. However, LeMoyne Browning, we are certain, does not wish to be guilty of erecting a straw man so that he can destroy it. We have consistently taken the position that all human energy operates under control. The specifics of freedom or liberty relate to the exercise of the individual's control (not lack of control) over his own energy as opposed to some other individual's control imposed from outside. Thus, a true state of liberty is one in which the individual controls himself. Freedom, as we have repeatedly asserted, is self-control, no more, no less. Organized government intervenes in the processes of individual self-control and hence is contrary to natural law and to freedom.

We are happy to see Mr. Browning quoting George Hay and Thomas Paine. We are favorably impressed by his quotations and have long subscribed to the sentiments therein contained.

NOT BY EDUCATION

To the Editor:

Your argument is beside the point in trying to put yourself in the right. You twisted Mr. Savage's statement clear out of its text. He did not say he was willing to commit murder, he was quoting God's infallible truth that man cannot save himself. Let's try to commit ourselves to God's word, disregarding every other, and try to remember that's what we will be judged by. He teaches that we and everything else will pass on, but not one jot of His word will pass away. I would fight for anyone's right to believe what they choose. If war could be justified, that would be the only justifiable one. Your philosophy seems to be that of so-called Christian Science that one can save themselves by education. We should be broad-minded enough to quote spiritual truth without impugn or adulteration. Spiritual things are spiritually discerned. We are told to ask God for the understanding of His word for human reason will lead us astray. We have the example in the Bible of Jacob's imploring the Lord and he would not give up until God had blessed him with some of His wisdom and He still does the same when people are sincere and are open to truth. We are taught that those who do not seek God for wisdom and understanding of His word and put themselves under the blood of Christ which is the only effective defense they will find at the end of their probation, their knowledge doesn't amount to anything and they'll have all eternity to regret.

It behooves the human race to quit their retaliation to God's truth and start redeeming the time for this is an evil age. The way of salvation is so clear a wayfarer though a fool need not err. If people could save themselves by education, God would not have sent His Son into the world as a substitute to be crucified for the sins of the human race. People received the knowledge of sin by the written law of commandments. They learned they could not keep the law. They were thoroughly educated to that fact. So God sent the effective workable remedy for everyone who accepts, it is stamped on their heart and soul.

Our foreparents Adam and Eve knew no sin until they listened to the reasoning of Satan and disobeyed God. Satan told them they would become wise and he told the truth in that they got the knowledge of sin. That knowledge brought the curse of sin and guilt upon the whole human race, the scripture says. And that includes you, Mr. Editor. And those who continue to believe they can save themselves will be damned.

Scripture teaches the human race is still possessed with demon spirits . . . some with selfishness, conceit, some with gossip, some with the demon of hatred, some with jealousy, envy, and some with the combination of all these . . . some with the demon to murder. The scripture says if we hate anyone, we are a murderer and those who refuse to humble and submit themselves to God's remedy will be damned and God knows the proud afar off. From Genesis through Malacia, God teaches that people could not save themselves and they became thoroughly educated to that fact. The scripture teaches that the thoughts of the natural mind of the unyielded man to Christ is only evil continually and it does not seek after God. That those who seek Him will find Him. Straight is the way and few there be that seek that way. There is nothing good about man; only what he obtains through faith in and submission of Christ's sacrifice will count anything.

The majority of the religious sects called churches have, as you say about government, been busy workers for numbers, convictions to their way of thinking. That's why we are told to let no one lead us astray but be diligent in searching the scriptures, put on the armor of God, get His law of love written in our hearts and we have nothing to fear. Then one can go into the midst of carnal weapons and have God's protection.

He slayed people by the thousands to protect His people and was justified in doing so and He can still do the same. Man's system of anything is a failure without God's counsel and guidance, for He said our thoughts are not His thoughts and our ways are not His ways. That's why He said we have to become as little children so He can teach us.

The history of man is that recorded in the Holy Bible that He is as prone to sin as water runs downstream and needs to be regenerated by the power of the Holy Spirit of God through faith in Christ Jesus, His Son. Through and by the sin of one man we all fell, and by faith in the righteous man, Christ, God's perfect sacrifice, we can be redeemed. Please read the statement of a learned, an educated man, in Ephesians 2:1-9. It is either Christ or a lake of fire. (11 Thess. 1:7-10).

JOHN KIMBROUGH
1521 W. Costilla

Editor's note: We do not think Mr. Kimbrough has correctly quoted what we said to Mr. Savage.

Mr. Savage's illustration provided for the possibility that ye editor would murder Mr. Savage or that Mr. Savage would murder ye editor, or that neither of us would murder the other.

Ye editor decided that he would not murder Mr. Savage. He admitted that he could not prevent Mr. Savage from murdering him if that was what Mr. Savage wanted to do.

And ye editor went on to say: "We believe that Mr. Savage, though he puts himself in the worst possible light, is really a fine man and well intentioned. We do not think that he plans to murder anyone nor to kill or torture or otherwise inflict his will upon others by force."

BLOCK CIRCLING

To the Editor:

Obviously, the reason people choose to circle the block perhaps several times, in the downtown area is due to the inadequacy of parking space. In the particular instance that I made reference to in my first letter, regarding my merry-go-round of several trips, I was faced with such a situation. My passenger had left me to make an important purchase and I expected to pick him up at the nearest corner from the place of business as soon as the purchase was made. This can be a situation of uncertainty when unexpected delays enter the picture. Surely, my time means more to me than that of exploring the effectiveness of a new traffic regulation.

I believe your conclusion regarding the extra store of patience required for my kind of driving was a straw in your defense for the posture you have assumed relative to fines for traffic violators. It was possible for me to circle the block in less than half the time it would normally take by using the single-turn lane in use prior to the change, due to the fact that at this particular location most of the drivers use this inside lane so that they CAN make the right hand turn. A great deal of the time the other (now the optional lane) was used roughly only about 50 per cent of its capacity. This is the thing an engineer tries to remedy — a way of using both lanes, in this instance, to the best advantage. The people who wish to travel across these intersections must learn to use the lawful lane to do so.

From your views regarding the effectiveness of the new regulation it becomes apparent to me that you have been unable to make a reasonable analysis, yet you question the ability of a man who has been educated in this field.

WILLIAM POTTER
2915 Concord St.

Editor's note: Mr. Potter's explanation only partly relieves the situation. If he circled the block five times to pick up a passenger, then his purpose was to let time pass while the passenger completed a purchase. That being the case, he should have pulled into the slower moving right-hand lane and stayed in it. He then would have possibly reduced the number of times he had to go around the block.

As it was, according to his own account, he deliberately kept his car in the center lane, as much as possible, and observed carefully the reactions of motorists at intersections as he turned right from the center, which is now permitted. This way he circled the block five full turns.

Besides, since he was going to have to pick up a passenger sooner or later, he would normally expect to do so from the right-hand lane. Once he spots his passenger, he must then work his way into the right-hand lane, possibly slowing up both lines while he drifts into position.

Let us look even more closely. We don't believe there is a single block in the downtown district where a car circling it COULD make a right-hand turn from the center lane at all four corners. Most of the signs are on Tejon or on crossing streets at Tejon.

This means that traffic expert Potter went around the block five times, weaving in and out of lanes, first in the center lane, so he could turn right at those places where center right turns were permitted, then back into the right lane for corners where they were not permitted.

Somehow, we don't see how such a procedure is really helpful to other motorists or to traffic officers. We still favor patience on the part of police officers.

FALSE ECONOMY

To the Editor:

When President Johnson ordered the lights out of the White House, that was economizing?

Of course, the fact that the darkened grounds required more guards to provide equal security brought prosperity to a few people seeking guard work.

Some would explain that this is how you can economize and reduce poverty at the same time. The fact that guard pay increases exceeded savings on electricity should concern no one but a taxpayer.

Goldwater for 'Veep'?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

There is an odd switch in the under-the-surface politicking of the Republicans: "moderates" who were pummelling Barry Goldwater just yesterday are now touting him — for vice president. Some of them say the ticket will be Nixon-Goldwater; others that it will be Scranton-Goldwater.

On the face of it, this sort of punditing makes sense, for it is obvious that Goldwater will go to San Francisco with a hefty number of delegates who, in case they can't put their man over, will have to be pacified in order to hold the GOP together in November. But a little investigation among Goldwater supporters raises some questions about the soundness of the plan. Many of them would consider settling for second place an unbearable defeat.

The trouble with the "balanced ticket" type of thinking, they say, is that 1964 is not an ordinary year. Certainly the Goldwater supporters cannot be counted on to act as a group in an ordinary way. In practically every state the Goldwaterites are divided into two major factions that have reached a purely temporary truce. Some of them are Republicans who happen to be for Barry. Others are conservatives who couldn't care less about the Republican party if it should go for a liberal candidate. The psychology of 1964 takes one back to 1912, when large numbers of Republicans were for Teddy Roosevelt first and for the party only on condition that it dump William Howard Taft in favor of Bull Moose-ism.

SYMBOL

This is not to say that Barry Goldwater, who is himself a Republican first and last, would follow T.R.'s example and take off into any third party wilderness. Indeed, as a good party man, he might conceivably be prevailed upon to run for the vice presidency provided he were satisfied with the platform and with the Republican choice for President. But Goldwater, though he is enormously popular as a man, wields most of his power because he is a symbol. The moment he ceases to identify himself with what he symbolizes, his support would tend to wither at the edges. The question is whether he could still remain a symbol as a "Veep."

In most presidential years political parties can afford to make their appeals as catch-alls, with a little of this for the liberals, a little of that for the conservatives, and something else again in various proportions for the regions. In such years personal popularity will be decisive. Nobody knew what Eisenhower thought about a lot of things in 1952 — but he was popular, so no matter. The same was true of Kennedy in 1960.

The drive from the grass-roots in 1964 as it affects Goldwater, however, is for a polarization of the parties. This is something that is outside the ken of the old-fashioned political pro. The pro prefers the type of voter that can be counted on to be in his pocket no matter what candidate he may have to settle for in the end. He may be for Goldwater, or he may be for Rockefeller or for Lodge, but if he has to make a last-minute trade or accommodation, he likes to think he can carry his followers with him.

THE AMATEURS

This year, however, the Republican pros can count on nothing. In my home state of Connecticut the Republican party stalwarts are currently caught up in a squabble for control between the Searle Pinney men and the Eddie May men. But the Goldwater clubs in the state have no interest in the fight unless it can be shown that it has some bearing on their own interests, which is to spread Goldwater's philosophy. In New York the conservative party long ago served notice that it would not support a Republican liberal. In Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Colorado, where favorite sons have varying claims to delegate control, there are fervent believers in the Goldwater philosophy who would run a mile before voting to put Governor Rhodes or Governor Scranton or Senator Allott in the White House.

The pros may have their way this year at the conventions. But in November the amateurs will settle the issue. They will do it by voting or by not voting, as the choice seems indicated.

Here's to Spring

By RUFUS L. PORTER

I love all seasons as they come and go.
I love to watch them pass across the range.
I have no dread of winter, even so,
When Spring arrives I'm ready for the change.

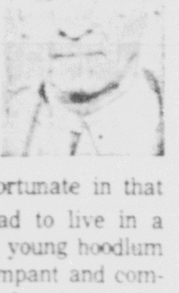
For verse and spring are partners, so it seems,
And verse does weary some through winter days.
Spring fetches me again a web of dreams
On which to weave a sonnet in her praise.

Then here's to spring that brings us all new hope,
New faith, new strength, new love, new everything.
New courage, too, so we may better cope
With all the work that's ushered in by spring.

For gardens never bloom without some toil—
Get out the spade and go prepare the soil.

You may wonder why I did not use the above sonnet in my article about gardening recently, but it was only born last night.

THE MUCH MALIGNED TEEN-AGERS



I have no bone to pick with teen-agers. I believe the term "teen-agers" is a smear word in the same class as "senior citizens." And I believe most teen-agers resent being referred to as such. Why shouldn't they be when it is generally said with sneer?

I have been fortunate in that I have never had to live in a large city where young hoodlum gangs do run rampant and commit all sorts of crimes, for money or for kicks. But I am pretty skeptical about some of the stories we hear about their transgressions. I believe the law sometimes blames the young gangsters for crimes that are being committed by the older ones.

Teen-agers are old enough to be treated on a man to man basis and they SHOULD resent being patronized, talked down to or otherwise made to feel inferior. If we accept them at their face value, we will nearly always find that value good as gold. And gold is in short supply nowadays.

A few years ago I worked a gang of high school boys all summer and we had a wonderful time. At the start, I was admonished not to hire one boy or another. "They're trouble makers," I was told. But I hired them and they were some of my best workers. Those kids are grown up now and all are the kind of young fellows you're happy to know. Some have finished college, and one or two will finish soon.

We were all equals on the job and all had easy access to the cash register, and not a dime was missing all summer. I believe this is a better record than one could expect with the same number of adult employees.

During the past two seasons, 1962-1963, I have worked where many teen-agers from many places are employed, and few adults. And my warm regard for the young folks has not suffered from the association. I find them intelligent, sensible, polite and well behaved. And don't tell me it is because they come from the "better families." The very few rowdy or hoodlum young bucks I've known came from some of the best families in town.

Anyhow, because a few of them get out of line, let's not lump them all together under the same non-flattering appellation of "teen-agers" as if they were something that crawled out from under the rocks. They are human, even as you and I, and a very high majority of them are more than capable of filling our shoes when the time comes. And they'd better be, considering the mess we've made for them.

I don't remember what young punks were called when I was that age, but it wasn't teen-agers — oh yes, it was young punks.

Lanterns Will Shine Again In Boston

Most of us in our youth learned all or parts of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's famous poem, "Paul Revere's Ride." I can hear it now, declaimed in squeaky voices across the country during this coming week.

"Listen my children and you shall hear of the midnight ride of Paul Revere, on the 18th of April, in seventy-five, hardly a man is now alive who remembers that famous day and year."

As many others did, I had a frightful time trying to remember how many lanterns were to be hung if the British were coming from the land, or how many if by sea. But, on a recent trip to Boston while visiting Old North Church where the lanterns were hung on that fateful night that signalled the beginning of the Revolutionary War, I saw the two lanterns, and again heard Longfellow's poem . . .

"One if by land, and two if by sea; And I on the opposite shore will be, Ready to ride and spread the alarm Through every Middlesex village and farm."

Paul Revere, along with many other patriots was enraged by the Stamp Act of 1765, and Revere was among the more outspoken against the Crown. As a member of the Sons of Liberty he took part in the Boston Tea Party, and his father's shop was a meeting place of insurrection. As the struggle between the Crown and the Colony became increasingly bitter, Paul Revere stood among those who defied every order given by the British.

On the night of April 18, 1775 the British planned to attack Boston Patriots with guns waited at many places, including Concord and Lexington. Paul Revere, William Dawes and Samuel Prescott were chosen as the messengers to alert citizens and military groups. All three waited for the signal of one or two lanterns to be hung in the steeple of the Old North Church.

Inside the church, Robert Newman sat alone in the dark waiting for the signal to carry one or two lanterns to the steeple. A moment of destiny was ticking closer. Suddenly, he heard two taps on the window pane of the church. The signal. Two lanterns. The British were coming by sea. Newman climbed to the steeple, lighted his two lanterns, came down, crawled through a window and returned to his home.

Revere, Dawes and Prescott saw the two flickering lights, mounted their horses and sped toward their destinations. Paul Revere did not reach Concord, his destination. He was captured by the British, escaped and continued to fight throughout the war.

How did Paul Revere win historic fame, when two other men were also involved in the midnight ride? By a chance of fate. Revere became a famous silversmith, and waxed wealthy. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, knew the name well, and in his Tales of A Wayside Inn, wrote a poem about the event and used Paul Revere as his hero. Most school children learned, or read the poem, thereby perpetuating Revere's name. And well his name should be known for his contributions to the free states and a nation in North America.

Each year, on the night of April 18, Bostonians gather in Old North Church for the Annual Patriotic Observance of the midnight ride of Paul Revere.

This year, for the 189th ceremony, members of the Lexington Minutemen in colorful Colonial tri-corner hats and uniforms; members of Boston's Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, oldest military group in America; members of the National Lancers; and men from the staff of the U.S.S. Constitution will gather at Old North Church. Music of the 18th century will echo in the church and an address will be given by the Honorable Ephraim Martin, Postmaster of Boston.

Sharp on the stroke of nine, a boy who is a descendant of Paul Revere or of Robert Newman (this name is not known until the last moment), will rise from where he sits silently in a pew. He will stride down the aisle, receive two lanterns and carry them up into the steeple.

This will signal the lantern parade through the narrow streets of the area, winding at Paul Revere Mall where a child will read Longfellow's poem, and another will read the Proclamation of the Governor of Massachusetts.

On April 19 another parade will begin at the Paul Revere statue, located to the rear of Old North Church. The processions will wend through the North End of Boston and, at a gun salute, "Paul Revere" on a horse will cut out of the parade and make the famous horseback ride to Concord.

In contrast to the tense night in 1775, this year's celebration will be loud and cheerful. Guns will crackle, cannons will boom — in recognition of men who helped give us the freedom we have today.

Job Seekers Are Not Wanted in Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans who expect to find work in Alaska helping repair the earthquake damage should stay home unless they have definite promise of a job, Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said Friday.

He said that "the task of rebuilding the state's coastal communities will undoubtedly require many workers. But I have been advised that Alaska had heavy unemployment in all skills prior to the disaster and that local residents will be employed first."

THEN AND NOW — The Salvation Army Corps wagon of the early 1900's at top, served the same purpose as today's modern Salvation Army truck bottom, manned by Monty Carlson, who is a graduate of the Center in Colorado Springs. Each has served its own era in picking up contributions of usable discards of clothing, furniture, and appliances. Over the past 65 years of The Salvation Army Men's Social Work Program, the equipment has been modernized and the concept has changed with the times, but the underlying spirit has remained unchanged; the belief that "A man may be down, but he's never out." The Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center program seeks to restore usefulness and dignity to shattered lives. Support for the program comes, as it did 65 years ago, solely from contributions of usable discards.

Salvation Army Marks 65th Anniversary This Year

This year marks the 65th year of service to men through The Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center program.

Four pushcarts and 20 men, comprising The Salvation Army first "Salvage Corps," 65 years ago, went out on the streets of New York City to "solicit the waste of the City." The year was 1897. This was the first step toward forming what is now a nationwide program of help for men in need.

The operation was organized by Commander Booth-Tucker, who recognized the possibilities of a salvage industry which could provide shelter, food, and work for homeless men incapable of working in competitive industry.

The men collected, sorted, and repaired discards of all kinds. Money from the sale of the salvaged articles was used to support the men's social work.

The first home, which has modern descendants in 128 cities of the United States, was located in New York City's Hogan's Alley, in a district "known to abound with notorious characters."

As described in a Salvation Army brief, "The Social Department of the East, 1911," the home was a "ramshackle building, near Brooklyn Bridge — a rude affair. The partitions were frame work covered with heavy wrapping paper; the beds consisted of home-made double deckers. It was a sight! There was no semblance of regulation or harmony displayed in these equipments. The stovepipe was tied together with wire and ran at all angles."

Subsequent growth of the Men's Social Centers is vague, as dates and incidents are not readily available. Salvation Army workers rarely had time to record progress of their work. Information comes from various briefs and "dispos," or Disposition of Forces Journals. But recorded or not the work continued, the salvage industry expanded. New Homes were opened.

Horses finally replaced the pushcarts in 1900. A "dispo" of that year shows, however, that they were dearly bought when it states, "Second hand harnesses and wagons were purchased, while the horses were sixth hand. It was considered a breach of regulations to pay more than $25 for a horse, $35 was the extreme limit. Wagons — well we paid as high as $25 for them."

During this period there was a concerted effort to extend the number of Homes and Salvage Corps. In 1900 there were 48 hotels and shelters and by 1901 there were 70. Support continued to come from salvage of store waste.

Most of the men helped in the program were suffering from compulsive drinking or social problems. They were given lodging, clothes and spiritual guidance, but there was little attempt at permanent rehabilitation as practiced in today's modern Centers.

Through knowledge and experience gained working with the men, a therapeutic program began to form and emerged as the program practised today, first adopted in 1949 under the name of the Men's Social Service Centers.

The Colorado Springs Center was started in 1955 by Major (now Brigadier) Matt Schoffield, as a sub-unit of the Denver Center. It was located in a small private home on East Vermijo St.

Under the leadership of Maj. Heber Sainsbury, the local Center negotiated for a larger building. Arrangements were completed at the end of 1961 to purchase the old Kennebec Apartment building at Colorado and Cucharras.

The new Center was dedicated on May 20, 1962, under the management of Maj. Charles W. Griffin. It serves men from Colorado Springs and all of Southern Colorado. Its main purpose is the permanent rehabilitation of men with drinking and psychological problems.

"The work is gratifying and the results are encouraging," Griffin stated. "Our program owes a lot to the workers who started the first home in Hogan's Alley and all those in between. From pushcarts to modern trucks took 65 years. With the help of our communities, we can realize great gains in the coming 65 years. We hope someday we will be able to rehabilitate every man who comes to us in need."

Arrangements for at-your-door pickup of discards can be made by calling 633-4697.

County Taxpayers To Folk Up $58 Million

Residents of El Paso County will benefit from the recent reduction in tax rates — but not on this April 15th.

Just at a time when the record-breaking tax cut is showing up in their weekly paychecks, they must sit down and calculate their returns on the basis of last year's rates.

Their contribution to the Federal coffers, therefore, will still be heavy. Washington is counting on its being greater than last year's, when personal tax returns from the local area came to approximately $56,644,000, including what was collected via withholding.

The finding is based on the report of the Internal Revenue Service for the State of Colorado as a whole, together with unofficial figures on earnings and income groupings locally.

They show that El Paso County residents contributed 7.95 per cent of the total collected in the state, which was $712,500,000.

Because incomes rose in most sections of the country during the past year, the presumption is that the current returns will be proportionately higher.

In El Paso County, on the strength of incomplete reports showing the change in personal income in 1963, the local contribution this year should be about $58,377,000, an increase of $1,733,000.

The Administration counts on a great expansion of the economy in the forthcoming months. It believes that the stimulus provided by the huge tax cut will carry the country to new high ground in terms of production, employment and income.

This confidence is indicated in the budget figures for fiscal 1965. They assume that the individual tax returns in the coming year will not only restore the amount lost by the cut but will produce $1 billion in additional revenue.

It would mean that individual incomes, nationally, would have to rise from the 1963 figure of $463 billion to a new high of $492 billion.

Total income in El Paso County will have to increase by 6.3 per cent this year if local taxpayers are to meet their share of this rise.

Modern Ear Surgery Offers Deaf New Hope

By the Colorado Medical Society

Statistically, about 10 per cent of the Colorado population suffers from some measurable degree of hearing loss.

Deafness is a sizeable problem. Fortunately, many persons who are deaf or hard-of-hearing can be aided, and recent developments in ear surgery make it possible to help, often dramatically, nearly one in every five persons by direct treatment.

Modern ear surgery is undertaken with the aid of an operating room binocular microscope which magnifies 6, 10 or 16 times and permits the surgeon to make direct readjustments in the delicate mechanics by which sound in the air is converted into sound perceptions in the brain.

Sound vibrations in the air are captured by the outer ear and conveyed through the ear canal to the drum, a circular membrane just under the size of a dime.

Vibrations of the drum set in motion a chain of small bones known as ossicles, and these carry sound through the middle ear to the inner ear and thence to the auditory nerve.

The ossicles are the malleus (hammer) and incus (anvil), each about the size of a kitchen match head, and the stapes (stirrup), which is only some two pinheads in size. These three small bones are linked together to bridge from the inner side of the eardrum to the so-called "oval window" which opens on the inner ear.

This miniature and intricate mechanism performs a rather marvelous conversion every time we hear a sound. It converts air-sound of relatively large amplitude (volume) and low pressure into sound of small amplitude but relatively higher auditory mechanical pressure. This pressure then is conveyed inward to stimulate the auditory nerve, and we hear.

In general, damage to the eardrum and the delicate bridge of bones now can be repaired, thanks to the recent advances in ear surgery.

The most common type of progressive hearing loss is caused by otosclerosis, a condition in which the ossicles, particularly the stapes, grow rigid and fixed and thus do not convey sound efficiently.

In most cases of otosclerosis, the stapes becomes fixed in position by a small abnormal growth of bone. Quite often this condition is familiar.

It may start as early as 10 years or as late as 60, but usually it is a condition of adulthood, and it yields varying degrees of deafness which gradually grow worse as the hardening process progresses in the ossicle chain.

Symptoms of otosclerosis are unique. Its victims hear better in the midst of noise than in a quiet room and the sound of chewing seems to them abnormally loud. They hear better in noise because they do not hear the background sound which is distracting to the normal person. The chewing of such foods as celery or potato chips masks the hearing of these people, and they find they have to stop chewing in order to hear.

The modern ear surgeon with his operating room microscope and fine instruments now can remedy this situation in many cases by removing part or all of the fixed stapes ossicle and replacing it with a fine wire or a small plastic tube to pick up and pass along the mechanical vibrations of sound.

Perforated (punctured, or torn) eardrum is a second condition contributory to deafness which can now be corrected by surgery. Perforation usually results from middle ear infections which have not been properly cared for. Repair of this condition has become more and more successful within the last two years.

The surgeon creates a new, whole eardrum by grafting tissue into position. The tissue is obtained from the ear canal of the outer ear or from a half-inch section of vein removed from the arm, slit open lengthwise and spread out flat. Or various combinations of the two tissues can be used, depending upon the size of the opening in the drum. The graft tissue is packed into place with gelatin foam which is absorbed by the body 4 to 6 weeks later after the graft has grown into position. The rate of "take" of these eardrum grafts now is about 80 to 90 per cent.

Chornic middle ear infection also can produce erosion in the bone of the three ossicles, thus weakening the chain or creating gaps in it. Cause of the infection first must be determined and eliminated, but the ear surgeon then can surgicaly rearrange the ossicle chain to reconstruct the sound-carrying bridge. The bones are held in proper, religned position with a packing of gelatin foam.

Old Doc Experience advises:

1. Not all deafness is subject to correction by surgery, but any deaf person deserves a full and careful investigation o fhis problem before it is decided nothing can be done to help him.

2. Some persons who have total hearing loss supposedly of a nerve loss nature, and thus not now subject to surgical correction, may discover that their condition is partially nerve loss and partially conduction loss. Correction of the latter may restore a measure of hearing in varying degrees.

3. Ear operations now can be undertaken a second or more times if the original condition returns with the passing of time. The statistical chances of hearing improvement by modern techniques are today quite good.

4. Never neglect an ear infection or earache.

Oliver Niess Named Security Council Member

Maj. Gen. Oliver K. Niess, MC, USAF Tet., of Colorado Springs, has been appointed a member of the Council on National Security of the American Medical Association. Maj. Gen. Neiss was formerly Surgeon General of the Air Force.

Maj. Gen. Neiss' appointment was announced by Dr. Percy E. Hopkins, chairman of the AMA's Board of Trustees.

The Council on National Security of the AMA provides advice and assistance to the medical profession on matters involving the medical and health aspects of the national security, particularly pertaining to the utilization, mobilization and coordination of medical and health resources.

The Council maintains liason relative to military medical affairs with the Department of Defense, the Surgeons General of the Armed Forces and U.S. Public Health Service in formulating and coordinating programs, plans and procedures designed to improve medical care for the members of the armed forces through the efficient utilization of medical and allied health personnel.

Florence Set For Annual Fix-Up Campaign

The big city-wide Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign, which is conducted annually in Florence by the chamber of commerce and the city of Florence, will be held this year April 24 to May 2, it was announced this week by Darrell Lindsey, president of the chamber.

General chairman for the campaign this year will be Bob Deppe, manager of the Plateau Natural Gas company and member of the chamber's board of directors. Deppe is also chairman of the Florence Lions club clean-up campaign which is part of the city-wide effort.

This year's Clean-up campaign will again find the city represented by its inspector Carl Meyers, while the county will be represented by Alex Beltramo, commissioner of the second district.

All civic groups and fraternal organizations are again urged to take part in the campaign by picking a project of a community clean-up or paint-up nature.

Last year during the campaign, the senior Girl Scouts volunteered to work at St. Joseph hospital in a clean-up project, while members of the Knights of Columbus painted the two hospital auxiliary buildings.

The Lions club and the Business & Professional Women's club joined forces to paint city park equipment and Florence volunteer firemen painted the city's 62 fire hydrants.

City crews, under the direction of City Manager Frank Carochi, hauled trash, cleared city property of debris, and assisted local groups where necessary with both men and equipment.

Florence high school students worked on clean-up projects during both weekends of the campaign. Pay for this work was set by the committee at 75 cents per hour as a standard wage for property owners seeking student labor.

A state-wide effort to continue with the annual clean-up program in Colorado will again be spearheaded by the newspapers of Colorado with the blessings of Gov. John Love, who helped to inaugurate the program on a state-wide basis last year.

Last year over 500 local persons took part in the Clean-up drive in Florence and Chairman Deppe is hoping to have an even bigger turnout this year.

World Health Day Set For Tuesday

Tuesday will be World Health Day under the auspices of the World Health Organization, an agency of the United Nations, it was announced today by Joel A. H. Webb, president of the El Paso County Tuberculosis Association.

Webb said the theme of the 1964 World Health Day will be "No Truce for Tuberculosis" and that in cooperation with WHO, the El Paso County Tuberculosis Association will stage a number of events spotlighting the world-wide tuberculosis problem as well as the existing situation in this area.

Special emphasis will be placed on the role played by TB associations in their respective communities.

"Tuberculosis has been responsible for enormous suffering down through the ages," Webb said. "It has been an economic burden by reducing working capacity and bringing on premature death. Globally, there are between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 deaths annually."

Dr. James E. Perkins, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, expressed it succinctly when he said: "As tuberculosis knows no geographic or racial boundaries, it is everyone's problem and will continue to be until the disease is eliminated . . . the battle is far from won and until it is, there can be no truce with tuberculosis."

The World Health Organization, with 120 members states, helps strengthen national health services, trains more and better health workers, fights major diseases, protects maternal and child health, improves sanitation and water supply.

It also provides numerous other services. WHO's headquarters are in Geneva with six regional organizations: Africa at Brazzaville, Congo; the Americas at Washington, D.C.; South-East Asia at New Delhi, India; Europe at Copenhagen, Denmark; Eastern Mediterranean at Alexandria, U.A.R.; and Western Pacific at Manila, Philippines.

Army Officers Writings Appear In Magazine

In addition to being experts on aerospace defense, two U.S. Army officers stationed at North American Air Defense Command headquarters here have recently been able to write of their theories on other subjects in "Army" magazine.

"Army," the unofficial voice of the Association of the U.S. Army, is probably the most widely read Army periodical in that branch of the military services.

Col. Donald McB. Curtis, deputy chief of staff for logistics, North American Air Defense Command, authored a critical story on the Army's personnel rating system. The military rating systems are similar to those utilized widely in industry where the supervisor goes on record regarding his opinions on the performance of his subordinates.

Efficiency reports, which mean success or failure to the career military man, and the current system of selection for promotion are "designed to perpetuate error in many cases," according to the Col. Curtis story.

Proceeding on the premise THAT "like will select like," Col. Curtis draws the conclusion that a system guided by this creed could only lead to an increasing perpetuation of decreasing quality.

In the January issue of the same magazine, another story appeared which takes to task the job concept of an information officer in the minds of many of today's military commanders.

Written by Col. Gordon A. Moon II, information officer for the Army Air Defense Command component of NORAD, the critical article is titled "You Can't Hide Behind the IO."

Moon uses the Girard incident, which took place in Japan during the mid-1950s, as a case in point. The U.S. Army received an exceptionally bad press for their handling of an incident when a young soldier shot and killed a Japanese woman scavenging for salvageable metal on a U.S. firing range. Here Col. Moon explains how it should not be done.

In the Girard case the Army commander withheld legitimate news from members of the news media for a time, in spite of the advice he received from his information officer. There was no military security classification involved. It was suppressed news which was unfavorable toward the military service involved.

In a number of other instances, Moon makes the point that many military commanders today can and do hide behind their IOs and attempt to shield themselves from the nation's news headlines. They do not want to talk to the men who write the stories.

He states further that within the bounds of security when an event takes place, whether it be good or bad for the military service involved, it should be released to the nation's media as quickly as possible.

Anna Ratzlaff Dies In Local Hospital

Mrs. Anna Ratzlaff, 84, of 2230 Frontier Dr., Security, died Friday at a local hospital. She had been a resident of the area for four years.

Mrs. Ratzlaff was born in Jansen, Neb., and had lived at Fairbury, Neb., before coming to the Pikes Peak Region.

Survivors include one son, Harvey Ratzlaff of Cascade; two sisters, Mrs. S. M. Chressman and Mrs. Katherine Wegle, both of Fairbury, Neb.; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at Fairbury. Burial will be in Jansen, Neb. Local arrangements have been made by Our Chapel of Memories.

Young Demos Denounce Republican Proposal

DENVER (UPI) —The Denver Young Democrats have charged a proposal by Republican leaders to split up Denver while redistricting Colorado is an attempt to gain another Republican seat in Congress.

"This brazen attempt to pick up another Congressional seat by devious means is such a classic example of partisan political gerrymandering that we would recommend it for the text books were we not so ashamed that such a thing could happen in Colorado," the Young Democrats said in a resolution.

The Letterman's Club met Wednesday. A committee was organized to arrange for a place to hold the annual Letterman's Banquet. Brett Henry, Freddy Romero, Doug Stanley, Dick King are the committee members.

A Sock Flop Hop sponsored by the Pep Club, was held Friday. In addition to dancing, cake walks were also held. Refreshments were served throughout the evening.

Bill Cheesebourg, Indianapolis race car driver, was the guest at a National School Assembly Wednesday. Mr. Cheesebourg stressed the importance of safety on the highways. A movie, "Champions at The Wheel", was also shown at the assembly.

The following students will represent FHS at the El Paso County Student Government Day to be held in Colorado Springs May 1: Helen Sours, Coretta Gollehon, Gil Taylor, Jim Hughes, Karen Kovar, and Kevin Nunn.

The purpose of the government day is to increase the understanding of local, state and federal government procedures.

Jim Hughes has also been selected as a candidate to Boys State. Jim is a junior and a member of the Annual Staff and the National Honor Society.

Gil Tayor, new president of the Future Teachers of America, Jan Malone, Laura Nugent, Ginny Leonard, Diane Kraus and two sponsors, Mrs. Anita Seylar and Miss Ruth Lorraine attended the State FTA Convention in Grand Junction April 3-4.

FHS welcomed two new students the week of March 30. They are Craig Smith, a senior, and Bill Carne, a sophomore.

AFA Drivers Take Head of The Class Places

Air Force Academy drivers, military and civilian, can take their places at the "head of the class."

The Academy's 1963 traffic safety record and traffic accident prevention program has been rated as the best in the entire Air Force in category II. George W. Huber is Ground Safety director.

Representing the Superintendent Maj. Gen. Robert W. Warren, the Director of Inspection, Lt. Col. John E. Gannon, will accept the Tokyo Raiders USAF Traffic Safety Trophy for 1963, April 18.

The trophy will be presented at a special awards banquet as a climax to the annual reunion of the Tokyo raiders at Carswell AFB, Texas.

Survivors of the Doolittle raid each year present two trophies to major commands in recognition of outstanding accomplishments in reducing vehicle accident losses involving Air Force personnel and equipment.

Winners are selected on the basis of two factors: traffic accident experience and the traffic accident prevention program.

During 1963, the Academy recorded no fatalities in either privately owned or government vehicles. There were just four disabling injuries to military personnel in private vehicles and only four accidents involving Air Force vehicles.

Government vehicles assigned to Deputy Chief of Staff - Materiel were driven 3,319,591 miles in 1963.

There are six basic segments of the overall driver training program, Mr. Huber said. They include a special course for all drivers under 25, instruction for bus drivers, classes at the Preparatory School, the cadet program, remedial driver education for operator's accumulating more than six points against them, and guest lectures such as the recent appearance of Indianapolis 500 veteran Freddie Agabashian.

The driver safety program covers cadets, Prep School cadet candidates, military and civilian personnel.

Padley Funeral Rites To Be Held Monday

Funeral services for Willard G. Padley, 905 N. Yuma St., who died at 73 Thursday at a local hospital, will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at the Law Drawing Room. The Rev. Wayne Benson will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Mervin Knight, Hursel Huffman, Mimmie Shoemaker, Evert Wheeler, William Day and Charles Kroll.

Mr. Padley was born April 13, 1891, in Greeley County, Kan. He had been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1937 and was a member of the Presbyterian Church. He was engaged in landscape work and felt that he was closer to God when engaged in this work.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ida A. Padley; three daughters, Mrs. Marjorie Jardon and Mrs. Louise Wilson, both of Colorado Springs, and Mrs. Ila Mae Holligan, Goodland, Kan.; three brothers, Richard and Ray Padley, Afton, Okla., and Earl Padley, Winneconne, Wis.; a sister, Mrs. Eva Smith, Jay, Okla.; seven grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

COOK'S A-KRYL-X HAS POLY-PEN

SO WHAT?

This is what: Now you can repaint safely without priming over any previously painted surface in good condition. Poly-Pen, from Cook's research laboratories, is a new acrylic emulsion vehicle with extra "wet through" power that makes A-KRYL-X bond tightly even to chalky surfaces.

Goes on easily — even over damp surfaces. Dries quickly to a beautiful flat. Resists sun, moisture, freezing. Clean up is a snap. Brush or roller rinses clean under faucet.

Cook's A-Kryl-X Latex House Paint, with Poly-Pen . . . that's what!

Standard Colors and White $7.95 Gal.

Loves Open Furniture Store at 508 S. Tejon St.

A furniture store designed to offer lines of quality furniture at reasonable prices has been opened at 508 S. Tejon St. by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Love of 1003 Venus Dr.

Love Furniture Co. held its formal opening Wednesday with the Howard Premiere living room furniture, Johnson-Carper sofas and chairs and Johnson-Carper bedroom furniture.

Two months were spent in setting up the new business, and Love said appliance lines will be added in the next two or three weeks.

In addition to the Loves, the store staff includes Dennis Wilder, a former automobile salesman here. Mrs. Love keeps store records, helps with decorating problems and does selling.

"We have opened Love Furniture Co. with an idea of filling a gap in Colorado Springs," Mrs. Love said. "Our aim is to give better quality furniture at reasonable prices, and we have been selective in bringing our new lines to Colorado Springs."

The store has 8,000 square feet of space on the first floor and has two balconies, each with about 500 square feet of space.

Love Furniture Store is open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays and Fridays and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

The Loves have lived in Colorado Springs since his retirement from the Army as a lieutenant colonel in 1961. Love was stationed at Ft. Carson in 1956 and the family decided then to make Colorado Springs their home after his retirement. The Loves have a daughter, Cynthia Ann, who is a fourth grade pupil at Skyway Elementary School.

Love served during World War II and the Korean War as an artilleryman. Following his 25 years in the Army, he studied business administration at the University of Denver and at Colorado College, majoring in accounting, marketing and general business. He is a native of Shreveport, La.

The Loves are members of Broadmoor Community Church, and Mrs. Love is a leader of Troop 224 of the Girl Scouts at Skyway Elementary School. He is a member of the Reserve Officers Assn.

Walker & Co. Countryside Estates Agent

Jim Walker, president of Walker & Co., local Realtors and Eddie Hamilton, sec-treas. of Wol-Ham Enterprises Inc., builders with branches on the West Coast and in Colorado Springs, have jointly announced the appointment of Walker and Co. as exclusive sales agent for Countryside Estates. This development of distinctive semi-custom homes in north Colorado Springs is located East of Mallow Road and north of Cragmor Road and offers it's residents an unparalled view of the Pikes Peak Region.

Walker announced at the same time that Sam Aro, sportcaster, had been appointed sales manager for Countryside Estates. Aro's background in real estate goes back some 20 years with sales and construction experience stretching over such states as New York, Florida and Colorado. He will head up a specialized sales staff qualified to assist in the selection of a building site and construction plans and layouts.

Stock Market Completes Earlier Gain Digestion

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market this week completed a digestion of earlier gains and then climbed to new record highs in heavy trading.

Airlines pushed their big advance to higher peaks, then stumbled on profit taking toward the weekend. The battered cigarette stocks were heartened by reports that March cigarette sales were higher than a year ago. Sales had a severe slump earlier this year on the U.S. Surgeon General's health report. The cigarette issues rallied vigorously.

Coppers resumed their climb early in the week amid news of soaring prices in the commodity futures market for the metal and reports that another price boost may be in the making. But they faltered Friday when a presidential candidate in Chile said that, if elected, he would nationalize the big mining properties of Kennecott and Anaconda. Even the copper stocks with resources outside Chile became jittery.

News that the business expansion has passed the 38th month and has become the longest peacetime rise in American history was one of the factors that helped boost stocks. The New York Stock Exchange had more losers than gainers on Monday and Tuesday. On Wednesday, April 1, the market reversed an early decline and scored a gain. Buy orders underneath the market had been touched off by the retreat and stocks once more displayed strong technical strength, brokers said.

The averages made new highs Thursday and Friday.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average this week advanced 7.08, ending at an historic closing high of 822.99.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.6 on the week to close at a record 303.3.

Volume swelled to 29,690,790 shares from 21,395,264 in the previous week shortened to four days by Good Friday. It was the largest weekly turnover since the week ended Jan. 18 when 30.6 million shares changed hands.

Of 1,522 issues traded, gainers outnumbered losers by 807 to 559.

Among cigarette issues Reynolds Tobacco recovered [illegible] to 46⅞ and American Tobacco [illegible] to 34.

Wall Streeters reported that the "little fellow" was coming back into the market. Possibility of a takeover by Kern County Land boosted low-priced J I Case to a gain on the week of 2⅛ at 13⅞.

The most active issues on the New York Stock Exchange were Studebaker, up 1⅛ at 8[illegible] on 576,300 shares; Chrysler, up 1⅜ at 44⅞ and Continental Air Lines, up 1⅞ at 28¼.

The most active issues on the American Stock Exchange were Mohawk Airlines, up 2⅞ at 10¾ on 553,100 shares; Seaboard World Airlines, up 1 at 9 and Brazilian Traction, up 1⅛ at [illegible]

Business Upturn Reaches Ripe Old Age of 38 Months

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)— The business upturn reached the ripe old age of 38 months this week.

That made it the longest business expansion in peacetime.

Some economists felt it was getting decrepit.

Others contended it is still robust and has a considerably longer life ahead.

Majority opinion tended toward the belief that things look good for the months ahead.

M. R. Gainsbrugh, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, expressed this opinion:

"Because there are none of the familiar signs of economic strain, I would say the top of this expansion isn't even in sight yet, especially considering the stimulating effect of the recent tax reduction."

The Chase Manhattan Bank of New York said:

"The odds are high that the economy will be operating at or quite close to practical capacity later this year. This is likely to be true even with moderation in consumer markets, capital expenditure and inventories."

At present, the upswing isn't hampered by the usual signs of an expansion's demise. Inventories aren't excessive, loans aren't difficult to obtain and prices are relatively stable.

This is despite the fact that the upturn well exceeds the 30-month average for all 26 previous U.S. business expansions since records were first kept in 1854.

It is being carried along by corporations' high sales and earnings, particularly in the automobile and steel industries, and heavy investment in new plant and equipment.

On the strength of this, the stock market has reached successive new highs, adding to the optimism.

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Sears, Roebuck and Co., among others, supplied evidence this week that business is moving along at a high level.

AT&T reported record earnings of $397,918,000 or $1.58 a share, for the three months ended Feb. 29, compared with $358,858,000, or $1.43 a share a year earlier. Sales rose to $2,474,815,000 from $2,295,271,000 a year earlier.

Sears, Roebuck sales for the year ended Jan. 31 totaled $5.1 billion, crossing the $5-billion mark for the first time. The big mail-order chain earned $261 million, or $3.44 a share, against $234.6 million, or $3.10 a share, in the previous year.

Consumers got a little good news when the cost of living declined in March for the first time since December 1961. It was just a little drop—one-tenth of one per cent—and the Bureau of Labor Statistics predicted a resumption of the rise this month.

The Census Bureau reported that manufacturers' new orders and shipments in February declined slightly from record levels in January.

Steel production climbed last week to the highest level since last June 22, totaling 2,406,000 tons, up 1.9 per cent from the previous week. Signs of a leveling off in steel demand appeared, however. Indications were that shipments will fall in May and June and rebound in July.

Two Millionth Car Turned Out for 1964

DETROIT — The two millionth passenger car built in the U.S. in 1964 was turned out March 28, the Automobile Manufacturers Association announced Saturday.

On March 28, total passenger car output for the year stood at 2,077,890 units. In addition, 402,399 commercial vehicles had been manufactured.

To date a year ago, 2,305,311 motor vehicles had been produced — 1,937,834 cars and 367,477 trucks and buses.

A total of 198,673 motor vehicles were produced last week, AMA reported, including 165,648 passenger cars and 33,025 commercial vehicles.

TO RECEIVE DEGREE — Charles E. Beard, president of Braniff International Airways, will be awarded an honorary doctor of commercial science degree Saturday, April 18, in ceremonies at the University of Toledo. Though he left TU in 1922 before earning his degree, to help support his family, he compiled a long list of achievements and awards at the university, and won varsity letters in football and basketball and, with George Reading, helped organize TU's first tennis team.

Hasty House Names Colorado General Manager

W. O. Fielder, president of Hasty House International Saturday announced the appointment of Conrad Sankpill as general manager of Colorado. Hasty House International operates 13 drive-in restaurants in five states, five of which are in Colorado.

Sankpill has been associated with Fielder since 1954 and was the vice-president in charge of operations in the Kansas City area. He was one of the organizers of the first Hasty House in this country, opened in 1961 in Kansas City. Hasty House is associated with a Swiss Chain of similar restaurants headquartered in Zuerich, Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. Sankpill are making their home in Denver and have two daughters, 2 and 4.

Sankpill attended the University of Kansas City, majoring in business administration, and was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity.

College Shoe Shop Expanded; Lines Added

The College Shoe Shop, in operation at 831 N. Tejon St. for 32 years, has been expanded in size by its owner, C. P. Pitinga, and has added lines of sandals for men and women.

The repair shop has been set up in a 22 by 10 foot addition at the rear of the building, and the front of the place has been remodeled. New floors have been installed, walls are done in green and mahogany panelling and the ceiling is bone color.

Shoe dyes, polishes, brushes, laces and similar items are displayed in a large area on one wall.

The College Shoe Shop was started by Pitinga's father, P. B. Pitinga, in 1932. C. P. Pitinga took over the shop seven years ago and employs Clyde Garrison and Stefan Borysko.

Pitinga is a graduate of Palmer High School and attended Colorado College one year.

The shop is now selling Bernardo sandals for women and will soon have French Import sandals for men.

Dispute Over Porcelain Runs Into Thousands

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (UPI) —A patron of the arts from Denver has filed suit against a Prescott gift shop operator who refused to sell six pairs of porcelain bird statuettes.

William R. Alexander said in a suit filed in Superior Court C. W. Andrews agreed to sell him the birds in April, 1962, for $3,800, but never came through.

Alexander claimed the statuettes are worth more than $13,650, and are increasing in value each day since the death of their designer, Dorothy Doughty. They were manufactured by the Worcester Porcelain Co., Worcester, England.

Alexander has asked the court to force Andrews to sell the statues to him, or award him $9,850 in damages.

FULTON'S SUBMARINE

Although his name most often is associated with invention of the steamboat, Robert Fulton was experimenting with submarines at least a decade before he sailed the Clermont up the Hudson. His sub was called the Nautilus.

the Vorhes Shoe Co. store, 22 S. Tejon St., by Roy W. Allen, executive vice president and co-owner.

Allen has been manager of the downtown store.

Aluise has had 20 years of shoe experience. Before joining the Vorhes company, he was with the May Company of Denver and also managed Manufacturers Shoes Inc. of Colorado Springs.

He started as a boy in the shoe business with his father on Colorado's Western Slope. He and his wife, Gloria, have four sons, and own their home at 1932 Essex Lane.

Besides Allen and Aluise, directors of Vorhes Stores are Robert Hahn, Fred Kegin, Lyle Taylor, Ray Marshall, Fran Mullison, Clarence Murray, Allen Thompson and Frank Baity. Marshall is manager of the company's Southgate store.

Vorhes is celebrating its 74th anniversary this year. The store was started in Colorado Springs in 1890 by the Vorhes brothers.

NULLIFIED CENSURE

The United States Senate passed a resolution censuring President Andrew Jackson for ordering the removal of funds from the Bank of the United States in 1834, but Jackson succeeded in getting it expunged from the record.

Pennsylvania Coal Strike Continues

MASONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Striking coal miners voted Saturday to continue work stoppages in protest to a recently negotiated national coal contract.

The voting was done by the nearby Robena local of the United Mine Workers Union at a meeting attended by miners from at least three states, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Officials of the UMW, who had been urging miners to return to work, had hoped the meeting would have produced a back-to-work movement.

The strike had spread across most of the soft coal region, idling upwards of 10,000 workers.

Russians Lose Battle In Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has lost its battle to build a multimillion-dollar embassy and chancellery in Washington's swank Chevy Chase area.

A five-member board of zoning adjustment voted 3 to 2 Friday to deny Martin Decker, a Philadelphia builder, permission to sell the 16-acre Bonnie Brae estate to the Russians.

Although President Johnson had expressed approval of the proposal, residents objected on the ground that the project would ruin the residential aspect of their area.

The World Health Organization participated in over 800 governmental health projects in 143 countries during 1963.

WOMAN NAMED

ROME (AP) — The Italian government Friday appointed a woman director of the state-owned telephone company. Eugenia Grillo, a doctor in engineering, is the first woman director in any large Italian state-operated agency. She is a widow.

COLUMBIA SHOOTS MOVIE THREE WEEKS, STARTS OVER

HOLLYWOOD — Art and Jo Napoleon wrote "Ride the Wild Surf" and Art directed three weeks of the picture before Columbia put in Don Taylor and started the whole thing over again.

Fabian's so eager to master the surf that he worked on our beaches here for two weeks before he went over to Hawaii, then worked two weeks there before the picture started.

Tab Hunter didn't endear himself to the other surfers when he didn't like his dormitory quarters and got an apartment.

They tell me Jim Mitchum is trying to act like his father. He'd better get some mileage first. Bob walked across the state of Georgia before he hit Hollywood. Jim should try it.

Natalie Wood nailed down the lead with Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon in "The Great Race" which starts in July. After six weeks of shooting here, the company will go to Paris, then return for locations in Palm Springs, Durango, and Big Sur.

Noel Coward's "High Spirits" has been postponed a week. Noel, who wasn't feeling up to snuff, called in Gower Champion to get the spooks out of it and put in some dancing.

Anjanette Comer and Bobby Morse will co-star in "The Loved One" for Marty Ransohoff. Tony Richardson saw her working in "Quick Before It Melts" at M-G-M and signed her immediately. He'll direct.

Spencer Tracy is well again and has agreed to go into "Cincinnati Kid" which Paddy Chayefsky is writing. It won't go until September.

Lex Barker and Guy Madison are making "The Apaches' Last Battle" — in Rome. Lex is still mourning the death of his wife a couple years ago. Their 4-year-old daughter lives with her grandparents in Switzerland.

Edmond O'Brien will host and narrate "Men in Crisis," a new documentary series from Dave Wolper about the conflict between men who made history. First segment — Hitler Versus Chamberlain.

Jessie Royce Landis flew out from Naples, leaving her husband, Gen. J. F. R. Seitz, to do the packing, while she headed for New York City to do "Roar Like a Dove" with Betsy Palmer. They open at the Booth in early May. The general will be along in about six weeks.

Bob Horton's making plans beyond his current Broadway hit. David Merrick wants him to stay on for the musical version of "Roman Holiday"; he has a picture offer in England, and he finished his first record album for Columbia.

Bob Fuller of Wagon Train was given the Golden Otto, Germany's Oscar, for best of the year. In '63 it went to Rock Hudson.

Gardner McKay's in Rome having more fun. But he'd better get back in harness or people will forget him.

Musicals I don't care to see: A thing in London called "Oh What a Lovely War." The big hit over there is "Pickwick," Dickens set to music again.

That "Hello, Dolly" designer, Freddie Wittop, has turned out 1,100 costumes for Morton da Costa's World's fair musical. One cost $2,000 and will be on stage 45 seconds.

Capital of Costa Rica Shadowed by Disaster

BY ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Disaster in a dark gray cloak topped by a giant gray plume clings to the side of a volcano erupting in central Costa Rica.

The thousands who live off the green, gently sloping sides of Mt. Irazu, the volcano's cradle, are looking apprehensively upward as the rainy season approaches.

Ran could mean death and destruction in the shape of floods and avalanches of a gray mud called Laja.

A foretaste of this came to mountainside dwellers last December. More than 4,000 were left homeless and 9 perished in a giant slide of water and mud. Advance warning saved hundreds of lives.

With the April-May rainy season drawing near, fear of a repetition of such slides has overtaken the basic dread of a giant volcanic eruption. Authorities are marshaling all available disaster relief resources to meet any contingency.

At the town of Cartago, 12 miles east of the capital and 9 from the volcano, bulldozers are throwing up earthen dikes along flood channels. Transportation is being registered in a mass evacuation scheme. Two villages, Rancho Redondo and Llano Grande, of 800 and 1,000 inhabitants directly in the path of a possible mud slide, have been fully evacuated.

Irazu has been spewing a fine grayish ash and sand in steady eruptions of varying intensities and intervals for 12 months.

Oscar Padilla, head of the National Planning Office created to deal with effects of the volcano, estimates the entire national territory—19,700 square miles, the size of Vermont and New Hampshire together—has been affected in varying degrees.

The area of greatest harm lies within the 1,800-square-mile central plateau, the national breadbasket where 60 per cent of this country's 1.2 million people live. Authorities estimate at no less than $25 million the damage so far, mostly to cattle and coffee.

Heaviest damage is concentrated in some 30,600 acres within a roughly circular belt extending for about 12 miles around the volcano's crater. Much of this is planted in coffee. The highlands were once rich grazing land.

For a half mile around its crater, Irazu volcano has cast a deathly gray pallor, almost iridescent in bright sunlight, over the once green countryside.

Laja, a mud of extraordinary density, results when rain water mixes with the volcanic residue. Impressive vestiges of the Laja's crushing strength in last year's rains remain today at Cartago, the town of 19,000 on Mt. Irazu's foothills.

The gray tide, carrying boulders the size of small houses, left a scar more than 200 yards wide, miles long. Some homes that escaped total destruction show mud marks up to roof level.

Cartago, an agricultural community that produces vegetables for the district, was Costa Rica's capital until 1872. Its people have a tradition of devotion to the soil. Many refuse to move.

Gov. Eladio Alonzo of Cartago Province says:

"We found six families on a small farm up nearer the crater. They were hungry, red-eyed from the ash and obviously in danger. But they said they'd rather die than leave their land."

Local Woman In Who's Who in Baton Twirling

Appearing in the 1964 edition of "Who's Who In Baton Twirling", just released by the National Baton Twirling Association of Janesville, Wis., is Joan M. (Mrs. Robert W.) Cowan, 2520 Prairie Rd.

Along with teaching all phases of baton at her studios in Colorado Springs and Security Mrs. Cowan has donated instruction to School for the Deaf and the Blind the Combined Jr. High Band and to twirlers participating in special community events.

She has given talks and had articles published on therapeautic value of twirling for handicapped youngsters. In 1958 she was appointed to the National Advisory Board and still holds this position, is a certified Instructor & Judge with the National Baton Twirling Association and the United Twirling Association and has been on the faculty of Western State Music Camp for the past 5 years. Stop Reading by Word ... and Get Better Grades

By The Reading Laboratory, Inc.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Association

Time your reading of this column and compare your speed with that indicated at the end. The expected speed assumes a daily five per cent improvement

As you read this paragraph, place your fingers on your throat. Outside of the normal pulse, is here any other movement there as you read? If there is, you are a word-by-word reader, and your silent reading is no faster than reading aloud. The fellow who mouths his words really betrays himself.

Now read this paragraph. While you are reading it, count out loud till the end of the paragraph. If you are able to get full meaning from what we're saying here while you keep up the count, then you are on your way to phrase reading.

Throughout this series of articles we are going to keep that circle up there at the top. Through the hole you make in that circle, observe a friend's eyes as he reads, then have him count your eye fixations. If he takes 41 fixations for 41 words, he is reading word-by-word.

To cut the number of fixations to a bare minimum, we start by reading in phrases. In the following paragraph we'll start by reading in phrases. In the following paragraph we'll use larger spaces to separate the phrases. It will help if you focus on the tiny dot above each phrase as you read.

So far we have learned the real need of pre-reading and questioning for comprehension in our reading. Now we must place the emphasis on our eyes. It is likely that most of us are word-by-worders.
This paragraph is just one way to help become phrase readers instead.
Much practice is required here so don't have your reading friend
do all the work.
Have him observe your eyes move from phrase to phrase.
There are 31 phrases.
There should have been only 31 eye fixations.

We don't have to tell you that you must practice. So go back with your friend over the preceding paragraph and work for improvement. In the following paragraph, make the phrases yourself. Put diagonal lines between phrases, then read that paragraph in phrases, making use of that peephole.

Now try this. Focus on the third word of the next line. You saw also the second and the fourth words, right? So your eyes naturally take in more than a word at a time, so let them. Besides, phrase-reading is a more intelligent way to read since we don't think in partial ideas.

You marked off the preceding paragraph for phrases. This time let your friend observe your eye fixations. Keep an eye-jerk record.

As a final exercise, read the following columns, down the first, then down the second and third. One fixation to a phrase.

If I read
word by word,
my eyes need help
for speed.
So we work to improve visual span.
If I can read this short line
with one fixation,
I'm on my way to increasing speed, comprehension, too,
and self-enrichment.
The very precise aim of this exercise is to eliminate as many eye fixations as I possibly can.
This requires practice
so that I may combine speed and comprehension.

(You should have completed this reading in 73 seconds.)

Wedding Off, Common-Law Wife Strips

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A wedding 50 miles northwest of Saigon was broken up recently when the bridegroom's spurned common-law wife crashed the ceremony and did a strip tease, Saigon newspapers reported Friday.

The bridegroom, a mechanic named Le Ngoc, was just about to tie the nuptial knot when his uninvited common-law wife appeared. As she stripped and danced, she sang that Le Ngoc had abandoned her with two children.

The bride-to-be fled.

ANY VALUE? — Mrs. Louise Parks of 17 E. Caramillo St. displays a copy of the Colorado Chieftain of July 25, 1891, published in Colorado City, and wonders if it has any monetary value. Mrs. Parks, who, with her husband, will move soon to Amarillo, Tex., said she has had the paper about 18 years. It was found by Allen Kinsman, 1608 Cheyenne Blvd., among other papers in a garage at the rear of 17 E. Caramillo St. which was once the North End postal station. The garage building at the time was on a lot with the R. H. Wilson Grocery, which was sold by Wilson to Kinsman and Fred Burrough. The Colorado Chieftain published daily issues from 1887 to 1898 and weekly issues from 1895 to 1898. William D. Tolliver was editor and publisher.

Demos Launch Family Fight In Wisconsin

By PAUL CLIFFORD

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The nation's second presidential primary, the Wisconsin test next Tuesday, finds Democrats in a family fight and Republicans in a position to help decide the winner.

The Democratic clash could reach out to touch the programs and prestige of President Lyndon B. Johnson, even though he is not personally entered in the race and has not directly joined the campaign.

The President is represented by favorite son candidate Gov. John W. Reynolds, who is being challenged by Alabama's segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace.

After a cautious start marked by reserved or hostile receptions Wallace has increased the tempo of his drive and has been enthusiastically received in three of his latest stops.

This was followed by an announcement from Washington Thursday night that Postmaster General John Gronouski, a former Wisconsin tax commissioner, would join the campaign against Wallace with the approval of Johnson.

Wisconsin Republican reaction will be reflected in the vote totals.

State GOP leaders won the agreement of eight of the party's presidential figures to skip the primary in favor of an uncommitted national convention delegate slate headed by favorite son Rep. John W. Byrnes.

Wisconsin voters are free to vote in either the Democratic or Republican races. Democrats are fearful that Republicans, with no contest of their own, will vote in the Democratic race. It has been the other way around in other years.

There are state issues that could be factors in the outcome of the Democratic contest. Reynolds has been under GOP attack for increases in state spending and a proposed penny-a-gallon increase in the gasoline tax. The tax boost will be decided in a referendum also on Tuesday's ballot.

Wallace has said his campaign—centered on opposition to the pending civil rights bill—was "going good."

"Everybody's against me but the people," he said.

His string of warm receptions began Wednesday night when he took his campaign into a Polish-American neighborhood in Milwaukee and was greeted by a turnaway crowd. He was accorded warm receptions by the Milwaukee Civic Club and the Madison Exchange Club Thursday.

Reynolds has claimed Wallace has "lied" about the impact of the civil rights bill.

State election supervisor Leo Fahey forecasts the election may produce about 1 million votes. The peak spring primary turnout was 1,182,160 in 1960 when the late President John F. Kennedy was launching his White House bid.

State Republican leaders have urged party members not to cross over into the Democratic scrap. Byrnes and unchallenged governor candidate Warren Knowles have been among those attacking Wallace's views.

Old Hollywood Garden Court Is Landmark

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is Hollywood Boulevard—

Passersby in the gentle spring rain hurried along without a glance toward the stately white building that sits back from the street a block from Grauman's Chinese Theater. That was not unusual, for the Garden Court apartments have long been overlooked in modern Hollywood.

But it was a landmark when it opened on Christmas night of 1919.

"I remember that night," says the present owner, Erwin Karz. "I was just a kid then, but I had my own stripped-down model T Ford. When I saw the Klieg lights in the sky, I hurried over to see the excitement.

"It was quite a sight. All the stars were going inside, and the champagne was flowing, even though prohibition had started. The parties went on every night until after New Year's."

The 40-year-old glories can still be seen, though sometimes dimly. The facade of the garden court is classical, with scrollwork, Corinthian columns and 24 half-naked Adonises who appear to be supporting the top three of the five stories.

The lobby is filled with oriental rugs, overstuffed furniture and handsome mahogany tables and is usually peopled by long-time tenants. One of them is Stella Turk, whose son wrote "I'll Get By," "Mean to Me" and other songs.

"This is a lovely, homey place," said Mrs. Turk, who has lived in the same apartment 24 years. "Anybody who leaves always comes back."

Mae Murray is now a tenant, as she has been off and on since the Garden Court opened. Una Merkel and Sidney Blackmer always stay there when they're in town. Anita Stewart had an apartment for 32 years.

The Garden Court fell into disrepair during a succession of owners. Most of its grand furnishings were lost or looted, including the grand pianos which were in each of the 72 apartments. The new owner is in the process of restoring its former elegance. He has resisted offers to tear it down.

Lee Lloyd, who manages the apartments with his wife, showed a visitor around the place. He pointed out the broad lobbies on each floor, the thickness of the walls.

"My wife and I have managed motels, including one that cost a million dollars," he said. "Oh, the flimsiness of those places would shock you—walls like paper. Nothing like the Garden Court."

CU Housing Project Defended by Official

BOULDER (UPI) — Eugene H. Wilson, vice president for business affairs at Colorado University, Saturday defended CU's position in going ahead with plans to construct a new family housing project for students.

Wilson denied reports that any state tax money would be used in the project, saying all CU housing, for married students or single students, was self-supporting.

He defended the estimated $13,000 per unit cost, and denied the university had turned down a lesser offer. He said the lower bid was unofficially estimated by a firm at between $6,000 and $7,000 per unit but that no official offer by the Campus Facilities Development Corp. had been received.

Wilson also said the project had been thoroughly considered by the CU Board of Regents.

Yet-to-Be-Born Stars Await Bid From Video

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a spring, much like this one, four years ago when an almost unknown young actor named Vincent Edwards landed the title role of a new television series called "Ben Casey." Six months later he was a real star.

Seven years ago the same experience befell a tall, husky fellow who because of a slight resemblance to John Wayne was cast as Marshal Matt Dillon of a new show called "Gunsmoke."

Right now, with most of next season's television programs and their casts chosen, there are many actors who are yet-to-be-born stars. One is David Hedison who has been picked as the romantic co-star with Richard Basehart in an action series on ABC called "Voyage to The Bottom of The Sea."

Tall, dark Hedison, 35, was picked three or four seasons back to play Cary Grantish master spy in an NBC series called "Five Fingers."

The series was deposited neatly into a time spot where it conflicted with what were then two of the most popular shows on the air, CBS' "Have Gun, Will Travel" and "Gunsmoke." Poor old "Five Fingers" never had a chance. It was cancelled by the sponsor after the fourth show and was removed after 14. NBC quietly substituted a public affairs show for the rest of the season.

Today, Hedison does not think the association with a failure hurt him as a potential star.

"But I sure want this one to be a success," he confessed. "I have a lot of enthusiasm for it—the scripts look pretty good and there will be a lot of variety in the story lines."

He is not too happy about the series' title, fearing that many viewers will think it is one of those "trapped below" sagas.

Bachelor Hedison, who has been busy with film parts and occasional guest roles in TV series since the earlier fiasco, is a Providence, R.I., native, attended Brown University in his home town and worked his way through New York's Neighborhood Playhouse school of the theatre. He built a strong background in repertory, summer stock and radio, before he attracted notice in an off-Broadway show. A Hollywood contract followed.

Arthur D. Morse, a staff producer on "CBS Reports" specializing in programs on politics and education, has been appointed executive producer of the series. Fred W. Friendly, creator of the series five years ago, recently was made president of CBS News, and picked his own successor.

Supreme Court Ponders State's Reapportionment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Constitutionality of Colorado's plan for reapportionment of the state legislature is under advisement by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Attorneys involved in the suit attacking the so-called Federal Plan were questioned at length during final arguments Wednesday. Among those asking questions was Associate Justice Byron White, a Coloradoan.

The plan scheduled to go into effect next Jan. 1 was described by one lawyer as a violation of the U.S. Constitution. Charles Ginsberg of Denver said the constitution requires that one individual's vote should be the equivalent of another's.

Stephen H. Hart, Denver attorney arguing in favor of the amendment to the State Constitution ratified in 1962 and implemented by the legislature last year, said:

The plan was debated for 10 years and approved by a statewide vote of 305,000 to 172,000. It was approved by voters in all 63 counties and was upheld by a three-judge federal court.

Anthony F. Zarlengo, a special assistant attorney general for Colorado, said population should not be the only requirement for apportionment of state senators.

"The interests of the people depend upon where they live. There are people with interests, hopes and aspirations," he said.

"Their livehood depends on particular problems. They should be represented by people that understand their problems."

"Who has the power to say one should have more representation than another?" asked Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Zarlengo replied that the people of the state must decide, so long as there is no violation of the Federal Constitution.

At another point the chief justice asked why Boulder County should have one senator for every 37,000 persons and Jefferson County one for every 63,000 as called for in the Colorado plan.

Zarlengo replied that Boulder County is growing rapidly.

The amendment to the Colorado Constitution keeps the House of Representatives at 65 members and increases the Senate to 39 from 35.

Archibald Cox, U.S. solicitor general, argued that both Denver and El Paso counties should be given more senators. He appeared as a friend of the court.

Asked why some sparsely settled counties in the south central part of the state would be given one senator each, Hart said these counties are in a depressed area with special problems requiring representation in the state senate.

Ruby's Lawyer Gets Leave From Texas U.

SUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas regents have granted a leave of absence without pay to Dr. Hubert Winston Smith, newly appointed chief defense counsel in the Jack Ruby murder case.

The board made the leave, which it said is satisfactory to Smith, effective April 15.

Ruby was convicted March 14 of slaying accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald. A Dallas jury assessed Ruby the death penalty.

The regents attached several conditions to its granting Smith the leave. They forbad his use of university facilities and property in connection with the case and require him to act solely as a private citizen, keeping the name of the university out of the case.

One of the terms could be interpreted as forbidding Smith's use of the law-science academy in Colorado, with which he is connected, in his defense of Ruby. The academy's name is similar to that of the law-science institute at the university. The regents prohibited the use of any organization that might be confused with a University of Texas activity.

Harriman Reports on Mission to Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman reported to President Johnson Friday on a fact-finding mission to Africa.

Harriman, who returned to Washington last Thursday, briefed the President on his tour of Ghana, Nigeria and the Congo. Sitting in on the session was G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Kansas Beauty Named New 'Miss Wool'

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — A 19-year-old Kansas beauty, Miss Suzi Beck of Mnahattan, has been chosen "Miss Wool of 1964."

She won over 20 other beauties in the national contest and was crowned at a pageant in this wool center Friday night.

Beginning Aug. 1, Miss Beck will start a two-month tour to publicize wool fashions.

District 11 To Expand Language Courses

High schools in District 11 will expand their foreign language programs next September by adding a first-year course in Russian, according to Harold H. Threlkeld, director of secondary education.

Present plans call for the introduction of a second-year course in 1965; and if there is sufficient interest, Threlkeld says third and fourth-year courses may be added the following years.

It is expected that there will be two classes in Russian in each high school next year. Robert McClain, who now teaches German at Wasson High, will teach Russian at Wasson and Palmer, Threlkeld says.

McClain has a bachelor of arts degree from Depauw University and a master of arts degree from Johns Hopkins University. In addition, he has spent two summers attending language institutes at the University of Colorado.

The local schools will be among the approximately 500 high schools in the United States offering instruction in the Russian language. The United States Office of Education estimated there were not more than 8,000 students studying Russian in U.S. schools and colleges in 1957.

In the same year the Office of education estimated that fewer than 15 per cent of the nation's high school students were enrolled in any foreign language course, and only slightly more of the college students were studying a language.

In February 1958 enrollment figures in Colorado Springs High School showed 15 per cent of the student body taking a modern foreign language. Adding those in Latin classes raised the percentage to 21.

Since 1958 there has been a significant increase here not only in the number but also in the percentage of students in language classes. Threlkeld says there are now 1625 enrolled in language classes in the two high schools. This represents about 37 per cent of the total enrollment.

With the addition of Russian District 11 schools will offer instruction in four modern languages and Latin. There will be a four-year sequence of courses in Spanish and French, and a three-year sequence in German.

Democrats Will Greet Spring With Party

El Paso County Democrats will herald the arrival of spring and the dawn of a new election campaign at a Spring Party this month. The affair will be a repeat of a party of a year ago, which several hundred Democratic faithful and a few Republicans attended. Its purpose will be fun, and, incidentally, fund-raising.

Some 1,000 announcements of this year's event will be mailed April 10, according to the co-chairmen for general arrangements, Mrs. Robert Ormes and Mrs. Karen Rath Cribbs. However, they emphasized that anyone may attend.

Time and date are 8 p.m. till midnight Saturday, April 25. Place will be the General Palmer Room of the Antlers Hotel. Admission will be $1.

The Democratic campaign purse for the Third Congressional District will be the beneficiary of funds raised through admissions and sale of refreshments. Mrs. Ormes and Mrs. Cribbs said the county Democratic organization, sponsor of the party, will not earmark the money for any particular office or candidate.

"We are inspired to hold this party by the success of last year's spring party," the co-chairmen said. "Democrats from all walks of life met one another — many for the first time — and had an enjoyable time together. After all, togetherness isn't entirely a joke — it can be very pleasant."

One of the most heartening aspects of last year's party, Mrs. Ormes and Mrs. Cribbs said, was the participation of many precinct committeemen and committeewomen in planning.

Reservations should be made by calling 634-3633 or writing to Democrats, 231 E. Vermijo Ave.

Those who have participated in making arrangements so far are: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ross; Vincent O'Brien; Tom McLaughlin; Mrs. Donald Shearn; Mrs. Bernard Arnest; Mrs. William Prindle, Jr.; Mrs. Charles Emery, Jr.; Mrs. Richard Noyes.

Manitou High School News

By JOY BORMANN

At the Future Secretary's of America meeting, held during the week before spring vacation, the Miss FSA contest was held. The contest was judged by three adults. Sherry Bixler of MHS was named first runner-up to Miss FSA out of 25 other entries.

Last Friday, the girl's Booster Club held a Leap Year dance in the High School gym. The decorations were made to give a very spring season effect. The dress was casual. Music was provided by a juke box. Reservations were made before the dance so that tables with the couples' names could be prepared. The dance was a girl-ask-boy affair and admission was $1 a couple.

The Booster Club has also planned a talent show for next Friday. Linda Hendricks, president, said, "There are about twenty acts already and others are welcome."

Monday will be the last scheduled dress-up day for the year. The Student Council sponsors these days on report card days. The class with the best record will receive a trophy on Green-and-Gold Day at the end of the year. The project is to help improve the dress of the MHS students.

The Student Council met Wednesday. The rules of dress and conduct, after being drawn up in final form, were read to the Student Council and were approved by the administration and the Council. The rules will be presented to the individual classes this week in special assemblies called for that purpose. President Lance Huffman, will explain the rules to the students and ask for suggestions. The rules will go into effect next fall.

The Student Council officer elections and the procedures, Field Day on May 27, and the candy sales of next week were discussed.

Two representatives from the State Employment Agency were in the building recently interviewing seniors who are not planning to go to college.

The Aristonian Club for sophomore and freshmen girls will sponsor a dance April 17. The theme will be "Swingin' Safari" and decorations will resemble a jungle. Music will be provided by a juke box and various games such as shooting tigers and elephants will also be available.

The El Paso County Mental Health Association is planning a Mental Health Careers Day Saturday, April 18. The group will leave from the mental health office in Colorado Springs at 9 a.m. by bus for the Ft. Logan Mental Health Center in Denver, returning to Colorado Springs in the late afternoon. Cost to each student is $2 plus 75 cents for lunch.

There was an informal basketball game Thursday between the eighth grade girls from Manitou Junior High and representatives of the girls physical education classes.

On Thursday, representatives of the Armed Forces will be here to speak to the entire senior class. The meeting will take place in the gym.

Achievement tests will be given to the junior class on April 16.

The lunch menu for this week is as follows:

MONDAY

Chili Con Carne with Beans
Cabbage & Apple Salad
Corn Bread square-Butter
Italian Blue Plums

County Adjusters To Conduct Field Trip

Members of the El Paso County Board of Adjustment will conduct a field trip Monday at 3 p.m. for purposes of inspecting property mentioned in two petitions which will be heard Thursday. Those wishing to make the trip will meet at the building inspector's office.

The board will hear six petitions and appeals at its public hearing at 2 p.m. Thursday. The hearing will be held in the auditorium of the county office building.

A petition has been filed by Matt Kamper for permission to construct a one-family dwelling with basement in a R-1 Residence district located at 905 Canopus Dr., in Skyway Park Estates. The request is that the house be erected partly within a rear yard setback that does not conform with the zoning resolution.

Park Hill Corporation, with Robert Taylor representing, seeks permission to construct a one-family house in a R-1 Residence district located at 108 Los Altos St. in Maizeland Village. The front yard setback does not conform with the zoning laws.

Colorado Springs Public Utilities Department, represented by Donald Singmaster, has requested permission to construct a metal water tank on a 280-acre tract in an F-Forest and Recreation district located on the Bear Creek Canyon Road, partly within a front yard setback that does not conform with the zoning resolution.

A petition has been filed by Raphael Nunez for permission to construct an addition to an existing non-conforming dwelling in a C-2 Suburban Business district located at 3000 N. Cascade Ave., partly within front yard setbacks that do not conform with zoning laws.

Big Four Auto Parts and Supply has petitioned for permission to change the use of land in an M-Industrial district located on East Las Vegas Street to a salvage yard. The application is for approval of location only.

Blanton Cogburn has asked permission to build a second story addition and a single story addition on a lot in a C-2 Suburban Business District located at 1830 E. Platte Ave., partly within a front yard setback that doesn't conform with the zoning regulations.

FAMILY MIX-UP

BURNLEY, England (UPI)—John O'Farrell invented a phantom family for tax purposes and then made the mistake of mixing them all up.

He was sentenced to prison for 18 months Friday because his latest tax form showed his daughter Mary as his wife, his wife Agnes as his dependent mother, and one of his fictitious sons had changed his name from Thomas to Peter.

Bookmobiles Now On Regular Schedules

Regular weekly schedules have now been established for each community visited by one of the two new bookmobiles recently put into operation as a part of the Pikes Peak Regional District Library service.

The time of each stop varies, depending upon the size of the Community, distance to be traveled and other factors, but will average about three hours in the larger communities.

The bookmobiles have been operating during the past month on a trial basis to determine actual travel times, and Mrs. Lucille Jezek, Extension Librarian, reports that their reception at every stop has been no less than enthusiastic.

Librarians assigned to the mobile units are June Smith, Norma Berret and Doris Rerick, with Murl Shasteen, Sherman Rerick and Tom Koller as driver assistants. Edith Kearney and Meredyth Rollings are assigned as Librarians aboard the city bookmobile, with Francis Green assisting and Bill Swim as driver assistant. This unit has been in service for nearly ten years, and will maintain the same schedule as in the past.

The bookmobiles, unlike the couriers noted by Herodotus, "Neither Snow nor Rain, etc." will not be sent out in bad weather. Announcements concerning these and other changes in schedule will normally be made through local radio stations, but in general, when schools are closed because of bad weather, the bookmobiles will not operate. Following the closing of schools, minor changes, such as stopping near a community center instead of a school, may be expected during the summer.

For the convenience of patrons, bookmobiles will stop:

Monday: Woodman Valley School, 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; Ramah, 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; Calhan, 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Tuesday: Rush, 10:15 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Alta Vista, 1:45 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Wednesday: Falcon, 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Ellicott, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Peyton, 1:45 p.m. to 3:45 p.m.; Hanover, 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Thursday: Chipita Park, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.; Edison, 10:15 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Cascade, 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Yoder, 1:45 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Friday: (First Friday of each month), Wigwam, 12 p.m. to 12:30 p.m.; Drennan, 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m.; (Second Friday of each month), Lytle, 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Saturday: Fountain, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Fiddlers Contest Off to Red-Hot Start

Despite cooling temperatures which enveloped the are Friday evening, inside the City Auditorium the first elimination night of the 28th Annual Square Dance, Callers and Fiddlers Contest was off to a red-hot start—Before a small but enthusiastic audience.

Inclement weather prevented sets from the northern and northeastern part of the state from making their appearance.

The storm also prevented D. L. "Andy" Anderson from keeping his appointment as Master of Ceremonies. The M.C. spot was handled by Norman Chichester of Colorado Springs.

The following Square Dance dets qualified for the Championship round on Saturday April 11th.

Division I (Pre-Teens) Scamp-A-Roos—Pueblo, Colorado Comstock Merry Makers No.1—Pueblo; Division II (Teen Agers); Comstock Merry Makers No. 2—Pueblo, Colorado; Desert Twirlers—Denver, Colorado; Prairie Stars—Pueblo, Colorado; "8 Plus 2"—Canon City, Colorado; Division III (Open Division); Sundowners—Canon City, Colorado.

Square Dance Callers: Lawrence Berridge—Denver, Colorado; Lester Wright—Canon City, Colorado.

Fiddlers: Smoky Minson—Colorado Springs, Colorado; Oliver W. Barber—Trinidad, Colorado. Music for the evening was furnished by the "No-Name" Orchestra, composed of George Chisholm, Smoky Minson, Bennie Kimmel, Grant Bevins. The audience will have the opportunity to submit a name for the band for future use. The second elimination opportunity to submit a name for the band for future use. The second elimination contest will be held Friday, April 10th in the City Auditorium. A feature of the second elimination contest will be the Denver Kickers Sport Club, a group oa approximately thirty dancers who are specialists in Bavarian Folk Dances.

ROBERT R. RENCK

Elk of the Year Named by Local Lodge

Robert "Ray" Renck, 70, has been named the "Elk of the Year" of The Colorado Springs Elks Lodge No. 309.

To receive this distinction, a member, not a lodge officer, must have functioned in an outstanding manner over and above duty and expectation.

Renck is married and resides at 409 N. Pine St. He is the father of 10 children, two girls and eight boys. The Rencks have 27 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Two sons, Basil and Leslie Renck and a grandson Roger are members of the Elks Lodge.

Renck first came to Colorado Springs in 1902. He was born in Webster Sity, Mo. He returned to Webster City for a brief time and then returned to Colorado Springs in 1906 and has lived here since.

In recent years, he has served on many of the lodge committees including the Big Brother committee, land purchases, sick, ticket, bingo, serving, blood bank, newspaper week, magazine collection, and Christmas baskets. He helped in the moving from down town to the new Elks Home located at 3400 N. Nevada Ave. and has spent many hours working on the new home.

"It was a nice gesture," said Renck, when presented the "Elk of the Year" award. "It should have been inaugurated a long time ago. This would have given others, more entitled to this award than myself, a chance to be rightfully honored."

He is a retired city employee.

Barbershoppers Will Celebrate Harmony Week

Jack Slocum of 1616 Palmer Park Blvd., president of the local chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America told the Gazette Telegraph today that 56 Barbershoppers are joining some 30,000 other men in North America to celebrate Harmony Week.

"It's the 26th Anniversary of our Society", said Slocum, "and there will be over 600 chapters holding special meetings this week to commemorate our anniversary and sing 'The Old Songs'."

SPWBSQSA was founded by Owen C. Cash in Tulsa, Oklahoma on April 1, 1938. Twenty six men attended the first meeting; now the Society is probably the largest all male singing organization in the world.

He also announced that the Hi Chords, a local quartet, and Central District Champions will appear on Jack Finlayson's Show (KKTV) Monday night.

This is the 26th Anniversary of the SPEBSQSA in North America. The Pikes Peak Chapter of the SPEBSQA is joining its 650 counterparts throughout the United States and Canada in celebrating the founding of this unique organization on April 11, 1938 in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

The local chapter is part of a 30,000 member singing fraternity devoted exclusively to men who want to sing four-part Barbershop Harmony.

There is no other organization in the world today that compares with SPWBSQSA. This is a mans last total retreat from the cares of the busy work day and from the activities which demand so much of his attention.

If their efforts to provide our community with a better understanding of their aims and purposes, the Barbershoppers will make the following public appearances this summer:

Antlers Terrace, Manitou, Green Mountain Falls, and the Hi Chords quartet, Central District Champions will appear on Jack Finlayson's show (KKTV) Monday night.

Personalines

Andra McLaughlin Kelly, former Colorado Springs figure skater, was the subject of a feature story and was pictured on the front of Star Weekly and Canadian Weekly, newspaper magazine section, on March 21.

The story was about "The Other Red Kellys: Andra, Wife of Hockey Star Red Kelly, and Daughter 'Casey'," the front-page picture, in color, showed Mrs. Kelly helping her daughter with skating.

The Kellys' daughter, 3, was christened Andra Catherine but was nicknamed Casey by her father because she was born in the baseball season. Her father is an admirer of New York Mets' manager Casey Stengel.

Their son, Leonard Patrick Jr., not quite 2, is known as Duffy, in tribute to former Toronto Maple Leaf hockey player Dick Duff, and Conn Lawrence, red-haired infant, was named for Conn Smythe, long-time president of the Toronto Maple Leafs, but bears the nickname of Clancy in honor of Leaf assistant manager King Clancy.

The former Andra McLaughlin is the wife of Leonard Patrick (Red) Kelly, Toronto Maple Leaf hockey player who is also Liberal party member of Parliament for the Toronto suburban riding of York West.

Mrs. Kelly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLaughlin of 1 Pine Ave., Broadmoor.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Ivey of New York City are the parents of a son, Frederick Malcolm Ivey II, born March 31. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perkins of Wood Ave. and the paternal parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Ivey of Washington, D.C.

Paul Crozier has received news that his sister, Miss Catharine Crozier, gave an organ concert in Philharmonic Hall at Lincoln Center, New York City, Saturday, April 4. She was one of three organists who gave a dedicatory concert there about a year ago.

Miss Crozier will leave soon for a month's tour of the United States, presenting concerts from New York to California. She will conduct Master Classes in Seattle, Wash., and Lancaster, Pa.

In June, Miss Crozier will leave for Europe where she will play in Antwerp, Belgium; will broadcast on the BBC from St. Albans, England; give three recitals in Denmark; and at the cathedral in Konstanz, Germany. In July, she will be a member of the jury in the International Competition in Organ Playing at Bruges, Belgium and will give a concert in the Bruges Cathedral on July 31.

Miss Crozier is Professor of Organ at Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., and is the former head of the Department of Organ at the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N.Y.

Karslake-Brown Vows Read In Chapel of Our Saviour

The Episcopal Chapel of Our Saviour in Broadmoor was the scene of the wedding of Miss Sophia Susan Karslake and Donald Watkins Brown, both of Colorado Springs, at 3 p.m. Monday, March 30. The Rev. James D. Burnett officiated.

Dr. J. Julius Baird at the organ played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Rejoicing," "Now Thank We All Our God," and for the processional, the St. Anthony Chorale by Brahms, and for the recessional, Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Karslake of London, England, who came over for the wedding. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Robert L. Brown of San Francisco and the late Mrs. Brown.

Mr. Karslake gave his daughter in marriage. Her floor length gown was of ivory satin, with train of heirloom lace, and her veil of ivory lace was held by a satin band. Her flowers were cream roses arranged in a trailing cascade.

Mary Leonora Karslake, sister of the bride, also of London, was maid of honor, wearing a short dress of aqua ribbed satin, and her flowers were white feathered carnations arranged in a trailing cascade. The Misses Nina and Julia Churchman, cousins of the bride from Kansas City, were bridesmaids, wearing dresses of white eyelet cotton over blue, and trimmed with blue sashes. They carried small trailing bouquets of white feathered carnations.

Robert L. Green of Redondo Beach, Calif., was best man and ushers were Frances St. Peter and John Bachman of Colorado Springs.

The bride's mother, wearing a two piece dress of charcoal silk and lime green flowered hat, received the guests at the reception which was held in the Penrose Room of Broadmoor South. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Fred Manning of Pacifica, Calif., wore an orchid wool suit with summer-nude shoes and bag, and bone hat and gloves.

After a motor trip to New Mexico and Arizona, the couple will live at Chipita Park. The bride chose for traveling a dress of green and white silk in floral design, white coat, black gloves and hat.

The bride attended Diocesan Training College, Bristol, England, and the University of Manchester at Manchester, England.

The bridegroom received his B.A. degree in psychology at the University of California at Los Angeles, and his M.A. at Gallavdet College, Washington, D.C., and attended Claremont Graduate School at Claremont, Calif.

The bride is a teacher of the deaf at the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind. The bridegroom is a psychologist at the same school. The newlyweds plan to move to Urbana, Ill. in September where the bridegroom will begin full time work toward his Ph. D. The bride plans to teach.

Guests included the bride's parents and sister from London, Mrs. J. S. M. Ritchie, her aunt, also from London, Dr. and Mrs. Norman Crabtree, and son and daughter of Chillawack, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Michael Churchman and three daughters from Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Fred A. Manning, sister of the bridegroom from Pacifica, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Green, Redondo Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Richard Wood, Kansas City, Mo.

Luann Stratton Becomes Bride of David Lee Collier

Miss Luann Stratton of Waco, Tex., became the bride of David Lee Collier of Colorado Springs at 4 p.m. Saturday, April 4, at the Central Christian Church in Waco. The Rev. Jim R. Lewis performed the ceremony. A single large basket of white spring flowers was placed on the altar, and Miss Ruth Miller at the piano played nuptial selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Waddy Stratton of Waco. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Durward Linton Collier of 1312 E. Monument St.

Mr. Stratton gave his daughter in marriage. Her floor length gown of silk organza was fashioned with molded bodice, frosted with appliques of venetian lace in a rose and leaf deisgn, sprinkled with sequins. Similar appliques decorated the bouffant skirt which had a cascade of poufs at the back. Her veil of French silk illusion fell from a silk organza rose. A single white orchid was placed on the mother of pearl Bible brought to her from Bethlehem by her aunt, Mrs. Hannibal Janorski of Waco.

Miss Jan Stratton attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a street length dress of imported lime-green Irish linen, styled on princess lines. The bodice featured puff sleeves of eyelet organdy, and a scoop neckline, and she wore a rose crown with circular veil. She carried a single long-stemmed white rose.

George Collier was his brother's best man, and Cary Stratton, brother of the bride and a medical student from Galveston, ushered.

The reception was held in the church parlor following the ceremony. Mrs. Ora McReynolds, grandmother of the bride, registered the guests. Mrs. Hannibal Janorski, aunt of the bride, cut the cake. Mrs. Cary Stratton, a sister-in-law, presided at the silver punch bowl and at the bridegroom's table. Mrs. Richard Hunt, cousin of the bride, served the double-wedding - ring bridegroom's cake.

The couple left by plane for a honeymoon in Las Vegas, Nev., Carmel and San Francisco, Calif. After April 19 they will be at home at 221 Alsace Way. The bride chose for traveling a three piece white wool suit, rajah shoes and purse, white hat and gloves and an orchid corsage.

The bride was presented as a debutante at the 1959 Hedonia Club Ball in Waco. She attended the University of Colorado, Texas Christian at Ft. Worth, where her sorority was Pi Beta Phi, and was graduated with a BBA degree at Baylor University, Waco. For the past 2½ years she has been employed in Colorado Springs by the Guide Travel System.

The bridegroom was graduated from Colorado University with a B.S. degree. His fraternity was Tau Kappa Epsilon. He is currently employed by the Internal Revenue Service here.

Don Theodore Jaeger Weds Ann Cynthia del Regato

Corpus Christi Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Ann Cynthia del Regato and Don Theodore Jaeger at high noon Monday, March 30. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Anthony G. Elzi officiated at the double ring ceremony, in a setting of floral arrangements of white chrysanthemums and pink carnations.

Traditional nuptial music included Purcell's "Trumpet Tune," played by Mrs. Evelyn Crandell at the organ.

The bride, daugther of Dr. and Mrs. Juan A. del Regato of 2 E. Columbia St., was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mary Bridgewater of Ponca City, Okla.

The bride's ballerina length gown of candlelight peau de soie was designed with fitted bodice, scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves. The waistline was accented at the back with a handmade self-fabric rose and two streamers falling over the demi-bell skirt. Her matching headdress of tiny pearlized orange blossoms held her elbow length bouffant veil of nylon illusion. Her flowers were white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Juanita del Regato attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a sheath of willow-green silk with double skirt and matching bow headdress. Her flowers were white daisies.

Frank Ell of Kalamazoo, Mich. was best man and ushers were John del Regato, brother of the bride, and Brian McMahon.

The bride's mother, wearing a three piece ensemble of cinnamon India silk with accessories in a natural shade, received the guests at the reception which was held at the del Regato home. The bridegroom's mother wore a green and blue silk dress with green accessories.

After a honeymoon at Santa Fe and Taos, N.M. the couple will make their home at Interlochen, Mich., where both are members of the faculty of the Interlochen Arts Academy. Mrs. Jaeger is instructor in Spanish and French and heads the Spanish department. Mr. Jaeger is a member of the Interlochen Arts Quinter, a professional wood-wind group, and serves as artist-in-residence at the Academy, instructing in oboe and conducting the band and orchestra.

The bride wore for traveling a Paris-designed coat and dress ensemble in green Belgian linen, with bone accessories.

She received her B.S. degree at Mills College, Oakland, Calif., and attended the University of Menendez y Pelayo, Santander, Spain and received her M.A. in Spanish at the University of Madrid, under the auspices of Middlebury College.

The bridegroom was graduated from Oklahoma City University and the University of Wichita, and attended the Amsterdam Conservatory under the auspices ofthe U.S. Fulbright Commssion.

Haigler-Brewer Ceremony Held in Van Nuys, Calif.

A wedding of interest here took place in Van Nuys, Calif., at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 4, when Miss Karen Jane Brewer of that city became the bride of William Bruce Haigler, formerly of Colorado Springs, now of Sherman Oaks, Calif. Dr. Staves officiated at the ceremoney at the Congregational Church of the Chimes, in the presence of some one hundred guests.

The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Lyle Brewer of Rochester, N.Y. was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ottabell Haigler of Santa Monica, and the late Winfred Haigler. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Haigler of 1814 N. Cascade Ave.

Spring flowers were placed on the altar and in baskets, and white satin bows marked the center aisle pews.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white silk illusion, styled with bell skirt, and a veil of French hand-woven illusion. Her flowers were orchids and stephanotis.

Karyl Gurzi, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing an empire style dress in turquoise. Her flowers were gladioli. Noreen Goodin, another sister, and Patricia Thompson were bridesmaids, wearing similar dresses in aqua. They too carried gladioli.

David Thompson was best man and ushers were Mircea Ionnitiu and Paul Shanaberger.

The reception was held at the Sportsman's Lodge, Sherman Oaks.

The bride's mother wore a beige lace and chiffon sheath, and the bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue silk suit.

When the couple left for their wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, the bride was wearing a silk dress and mohair coat.

The bride was graduated from Arizona State University and is employed as an engineer by North American Aviation, Rocketdyne Div.

The bridegroom attended Cheyenne Mountain High School here, and was graduated from California Institute of Technology with a B.S. degree in Mechanical Engineering. He is Engineering Supervisor for North American Aviation, Rocketdyne Div.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Haigler, the bridegroom's paternal grandparents of Colorado Springs, attended the wedding.

Young Pianist to Take Part In Regional Competitions

Miss Elizabeth Borgen, pianist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Borgen, 114 Harvard St., will perform for the Music Teachers National Association meeting in Kansas City, April 18. This young musician was selected through the Colorado State Music Teachers Association student activities program in performance and musicianship.

At Kansas City, regional pianists, winners of western states' competitions, will be reviewed in performances from classic and broque literature, in concerti, and modern compositions. They will be given tests in reading fluency, technique, aural awareness, harmony, theory and form. Winners in the regional activities in Kansas City will perform in national competition in Fort Worth, Tex., in 1965.

Miss Borgen studies piano with Dr. Max Lanner of Colorado College. She is an honor student, a senior at Widefield High School. In 1962 she performed as soloist with the Honolulu Symphony. She studied in Hawaii with Ruth Orcutt Bacon before moving to Colorado Springs last year. At the Widefield High School Christmas concert, Miss Borgen was accompanist for the choral group.

The Music Teachers National Association's national award in spring performance was won in Chicago in 1962 and in Philadelphia in 1960 by Mac Johnson, cellist, a student at Rocky Ridge Music Center, Estes Park. The piano award was won by Vincent DiFiore, another student at the Center, in 1960. Dr. Eugene Hilligoss of the University of Colorado is regional student activities chairman for the Music Teachers National Association.

Y-Wives Plan Luncheon for Final Meeting

Mrs. Rubye Gregor, president of the Tuesday Y-Wives Club, announces the luncheon program for the final Spring session of Tuesday Y-Wives Club on April 7.

The program will be presented by Mrs. Ruel Edwards, a well known local artist. Currently Mrs. Edwards' paintings are on display at the YWCA.

Nominations and the election of the new officers will be held at this luncheon. All members are urged to attend this last meeting of the season. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Al DeMark, 633-9029 or the YWCA office, 634-5515.

Mrs. Lantzer Hostess To Ladies Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary 79 will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the home of Verla Lantzer, 1620 W. Boulder St.

Assisting the hostess will be Lucille Sams and Anna Brice.

TO MARRY IN JUNE—Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Stumbough of Cascade announce the engagement of their daughter, Gene Nora, to Leland Robert Jessen of Wichita, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Jessen of Norfolk, Neb. Miss Stumbough is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, where she was a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority, and a flight instructor on the faculty. She is a sales representative and pilot in the Musketeer Division of Beech Aircraft in Wichita, and is a member of the Women's Advisory Committee of the Federal Aviation Agency, Washington, D.C. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Cosette Carter of Colorado Springs, and the late Mr. Charles E. Carter of Oklahoma City. Mr. Jessen was graduated from Babson Institute, Boston, Mass. He is the administrative assistant to the vice president of Marketing at Beech Aircraft Corporation. The wedding will take place in early June, at the Church of the Wildwood, Green Mountain Falls.

American Music Society to Meet at Vradenberg Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Vradenburg, 1001 Mesa Rd., will be the meeting place of the Wednesday American Music Society. Assisting them as hosts will be Mrs. Orville Suhre, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eisenburg, Mrs. Mabel Otis Bell, Mr. Allen Mathies, Mrs. Harold Schlegel, and Mrs. Harold Hildreth.

Opening the program with "Sheeps and Lambs", by S. Homer, "Lord Randall", arranged by Cyril Scott, and "The Joyous Wanderer", by E. Horsman, will be Loyd Owens, tenor. His accompanist will be Ethelynne Thorpe.

Ann Maag, pianist, will perform the Fantasy No. I in F minor by Mozart. The piano sonatas of Mozart are important historically in solidifying and extending the sonata form. He composed seventeen sonatas.

Two vocal selections by Franz Liszt, "O! Quand je dors", and "Comment dis-aient-ils", will be sung by Mary Ellen Fish, soprano. Her accompanist is Ethelynne Thorpe. Liszt, an ardent admirer of Wagner, is well-known for his "Hungarian Rhapsodies", and "Liebestraum." Although not considered a great composer, he is considered an important one, especially in the realm of piano music.

Continuing the program, pianist, Ann Patrick will play "Une Barque sur l'ocean," from the Miroirs Suite, by Maurice Ravel. This selection demonstrates Ravel's impressionistic vein, his partiality toward sensitive and delicate tone pictures drawn with the most refined and exquisite storkes. His extraordinary compositorial technique had an almost virtuoso quality, as he used rhythm, instrumentation, melodic development, harmonic color, and counter point with stunning effect.

The Madrigal Singers Martha Booth, Dorothy Brown, Kathryn Hayes, Bette Russell, Ruth Laughren, Paul Laughren and Archer Hayes, will close the evening's program. Directed by Clifford Kolsrud and accompanied by Ida Hutchison, they will sing "Arpil Is My Mistress' Face," by Thomas Morley, "Silver Swan" by O. Gibbons, and "When Allen-a-dale Went A-Hunting" by Richard de Pearsall.

The meeting begins at 8:30 p.m. and all members are urged to attend.

Nee Mary Patricia Hill

Mary Patricia Hill Is Bride of Courtland Riffle

The small chapel of Shove Memorial Chapel on the Colorado College campus was the scene of the recent wedding of Miss Mary Patricia Hill of Colorado Springs and Courtland R. Riffle of Denver. The bride is the daughter of Oliver H. Hill of 3723 W. High St. and the late Mrs. Hazel Margaret Hill. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Harold C. Riffle of Denver and the late Mr. Harold C. Riffle.

The Rev. Burton performed the ceremony against a background of white gladioli and mums arranged in two large baskets and lighted by tapers in two circular brass candelabra.

Ben Lyon sang two selections before the ceremony and was accompanied by Mrs. Ida Hutchison at the organ. She also played traditional selections and played the piano during the reception.

Mr. Hill escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her floor length gown was of silk organza and lace. Sequins and pearls in a floral design trimmed the short sleeved lace bodice and her brief chapel train fell from a bustle back. She wore three-quarter length lace gloves and a shoulder length veil caught to a crown of sequins and pearls. Her flowers were white orchids, lilies of the valley and shattered mums.

Mrs. Jeffrey Ingram was matron of honor for her sister and wore a dress of blue and green brocade with blue accessories. Her flowers were white roses and shattered white carnations.

Mrill Ingram, 2½, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing blue satin and carrying a basket of white rose petals.

Harold C. Riffle Jr. was his brother's best man and ushers were James Hicks and Frank Rushmore, both of Denver.

Assisting at the reception which was held in the Colorado Room of the Palmer House were Mrs. George Williams, Mrs. Otto Goeke, Mrs. Harold C. Riffle Jr., Mrs. Raymond Van Der Leest, Mrs. Ida Hutchison, Miss Angie Hill and Peter Hutchison.

Following a wedding trip to San Francisco, the couple are at home at 3719 Wolff Ave., Denver.

The bride was graduated from Colorado College, and the bridegroom from Denver University.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Ingram and daughter Mrill from Santa Fe, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Van Der Leest, Mr. and Mrs. Don Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kurtz, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Flook, Mr. and Mrs. Al Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Laiey Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Gene De Salvo, Mr. Mike Carinval, Mr. Ed Carelli, Mr. and Mrs. James Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rushmore, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Riffle and daughters Leslie and Sydney, Mr. and Mrs. Skip Hallinan, Mr. Ted Warshauer, Mr. James Wear, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rogers, Miss Phyllis Rogers, and Thomas Harris of West Viginia.

Great Books Group Meets Wednesday

The Wednesday evening Great Books Group will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. in Mrs. Reid's office at the public library, 21 W. Kiowa St., for a discussion of Henry David Thoreau's "Walden." Charlene Sackchewsky will conduct the questioning with leadership designed to bring out some comparisons with the material in the essays of Emerson and with the philosophy of Ayn Rand as studied in "The New Intellectual."

Mrs. Sackchewsky will ask for quotations from "Walden" to substantiate any point of discussion, since participation in the group is limited to those who have recently read the text as assigned. This is a project in adult education which seeks to encourage discussion which does not rely upon previous readings or previous education either informal or formal, except that the participant is to be familiar with the work read for the parcicular session. This is the eleventh year this group has spent under the sponsorship of the public library. Meetings will continue on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month until summer.

Those interested in affiliating with the group may come for this one session or may telephone Myrtle Allen, 635-8540, or Margaret Gibson, 633-3397, for further information about the program.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

My little daughter has one of these new fancy synthetic sweaters which looks like it came from Switzerland! It has red, white, blue, etc., in it.

Naturally the background is white. After washing it twice the sweater looks absolutely filthy. Do I dare put bleach on it? It seems to have brownish dirty looking spots of fuzzy balls all over it. —Mother

Dear Mother:

"Never, never," never use bleach on sweaters. Especially varied colored ones, or man-made fabrics.

Just to test your idea, I went out and bought my daughter a sweater like yours. She loved it and thought it was the greatest thing she had ever had!

After washing it several times (and I have held your letter for three months for this specific reason) it got that "dirty" look . . .

I took the roughest piece of sandpaper I could buy at my dime store and "gently" rubbed the soiled part of the sweater. I think this is your answer, too. Try it.

After brushing downward with the sandpaper, take your hand and wipe over the sweater upward. I believe that you will find all of these spots gone. I did. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When the centers of your washcloths are nearly worn through, save them until you collect four. Then sew them together making a square with a good sturdy center, which is excellent for house cleaning, or for a car cloth. —Mrs. R.F. Williamson

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever leave your house and when several miles away suddenly wonder if you had turned out the burner under the stew?

The remedy for this is to put a pot holder with your car keys so you will be sure to see "it" when you start to leave the house. It will be a last minute reminder to check the stove. Saves a lot of worrying. —Mrs. Melvin Johnston

Dear Heloise:

Here's something I learned while in a mad rush at Easter time . . .

To color eggs in a hurry and with little work, add several drops of regular food coloring in the water in which you boil the eggs.

Use different pans for different colors and add a little vinegar to keep the eggs from cracking and to set the color. The eggs will be colored while they are cooking. —Mrs. M. G. W.

Dear Heloise:

A TV tray is marvelous to lay a garment over as you hem it. It keeps the garment smooth, off your lap, and is such a convenient working height. Try it. —Mrs. Lewis Peirson

Dear Heloise:

Pears can be peeled the same way we do tomatoes when canning them. Put them in a colander and dip the pears and all into a pot of boiling water. Then lift them out, spray with cool water, and the skins will slip right off in your hands! This leaves the pears smooth and white.

Then cut the pear in half, take your little melon ball gadget and just scoop out the cores! Your pears will be beautiful enough to take to the county fair. —Reader

Dear Heloise:

You know how one hates to change purses, especially when you are in a hurry and find at the last minute that you should be carrying a black purse instead of a brown one, etc. . .

I simplified this problem by buying two small zipper cosmetic bags at the Notion Department of a department store. I put cosmetics in one bag, check book, billfold and incidentals in the other. I put my keys in a small coin purse and included this in one of the bags.

Now, when I want to change purses, all I have to do is take out the three bags and put them in the other purse.

Oh, yes, be sure that the two bags are a different color—that way you will know which holds the "this-and-that" and which holds the "them-and-these." —Dee Gary

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Non-Smokers' Corner!

DEAR ABBY: My beds aren't made yet and my dishes are still in the sink, but I must sit down and get this off my chest. All this baloney about lung cancer has fallen flat. People will go right on smoking on the chance that it might not hit them. But I know something that is true of everyone who smokes that should convince people to quit. Now I've been to college and I realize this doesn't sound very polite, but I am going to say it in plain language: SMOKERS STINK! Their clothes, their hair, their skin and their breath just plain smell bad. All the money spent on perfume and deodorants is wasted. Most smokers don't notice it on themselves, but it bothers everyone within two feet of them. If you are a heavy smoker, the next time you go to kiss your child, or grandchild, ask him how he likes it. He will tell you the truth.

Sincerely, —EX-SMOKER

DEAR ABBY: After reading the mailman's complaint that the woman on his route wouldn't leave him alone, and then the young meter reader who said that most of the housewives had designs on him, I began to wonder what mailmen and meter readers had that carpenters don't have. I have worked inside and outside of houses for 30 years, and I have dealt with the lady of the house, directly, and I never once had this problem. Should I be insulted? —CARPENTER

DEAR CARPENTER: No. Maybe nobody else has had it, either.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe times have changed since I was a meter reader 25 years ago, but I was told that if I could not safely reach the meter to read it (vicious dogs or half-clad women) I should report it to the company, and they would send an estimated bill. —OLD-TIME METER READER

DEAR ABBY: What was the good-looking young meter reader, who had so much trouble beating off the love - starved housewife, doing in the house anyway? The meter is on the OUTSIDE. —CYNIC

DEAR CYNIC: Maybe he just wanted to meet her.

DEAR ABBY: I have noted with amusement the letters from mailmen who claim they have had to employ a lot of fancy footwork in order to stay clear of those love - starved housewives who meet them on the porch and try to lure them inside. I have delivered mail for a long time, Abby, and if a woman comes to her door clad in only a bath towel (and some have) it doesn't bother me a bit. You see, I am a lady mailman! —OHIO

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♦	3 ♣	Dbl.	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT	Pass
6 ♦	Pass	Pass	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣

The bidding is recorded in all its grim detail. South's opening bid of two diamonds will pass muster. With a reasonable break in trumps, he holds a hand that is within one trick of game and, if he is lucky enough to find a few key cards in his partner's hand, a slam may be reached. West's bid of three clubs is pointless in the extreme. In view of South's announcement of great strength, the bid amounts to barking at the moon.

North's double was from the heart and should have resulted in a harvest of 1,400 points. South's refusal to stand for the double shows the instincts of the "charge - taker" at their very height. He argued that he did not wish to miss a slam if there was one. This is unsound reasoning. I think it is reasonable for him to assume that his partner likes slams just as much as he does, and if he thought there was any chance for slam he would not double the three club bid. South had a perfect hand for defense against clubs and should have been delighted to leave it in.

When North did the next best thing and went to three no-trump, South had overstayed the market and should have rested there. His leap to six diamonds was not far removed from madness. He was defeated 800 points, for a net swing of 2,200 points.

While the trump break was unfortunate, it should not have been remote from contemplation. South might have taken soundings. From the circumstances that West, though vulnerable, was willing to undertake a nine trick contract against a demand bid, it may be assumed that he is short in diamonds and, if North cannot support the suit, which his double suggests, they can be expected to be stacked in the East hand.

Where a player has painted a reasonably accurate picture of his holdings, it seems to me the better part of valor to abide by partner's decision.

District Governor Presides At Soroptimist Conference

Ann Evans Spomer will preside at the meetings of the annual spring Conference of the Rocky Mountain Region Soroptimist Clubs being held at the Broadmoor Hotel this week. Mrs. Spomer, whose home in in Greeley, is district governor of the Rocky Mountain region.

Soroptimists from Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and Nebraska are attending the conference. Soroptimist Clubs are service organizations contributing help where needed in their communities. One of the accomplishments of the Colorado Springs Soroptimists was the organizing and sponsoring of the Blue Spruce and Columbine Clubs for senior citizens of the Pikes Peak region.

Local co-chairmen for this conference are Mrs. Ivan Sperry and Mrs. Ray Landis. Reservations are being handled by Mrs. Lyle Norton, Mrs. Wilbur Hanes and Mrs. Mary Maguire.

The activities will include a pre-convention tour of the Air Force Academy and North American Air Defense Command.

You Should Distrust Him

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Our boy, 17, has started going with some young people we have never met. All we know about them is that they come from a nearby town. When they telephone, they avoid giving me their last names and say, "Just tell Jack that so-and-so called and he'll understand." The girls who call won't leave any names at all. We are quite worried but don't want to ask any questions in case our son should feel we distrust him.

ANSWER: But you do distrust him. Only half-witted parents can give total trust to an adolescent child. His judgments are too inexperienced for us to be able to rally total trust in them.

Parents have been most cruelly confused by the romantic notion that we owe the adolescent perfect trust, that our unflawed confidence in his ability to look after himself will somehow preserve his safety. It's part of the child guidance people's moonshine.

The result is that you feel ashamed of your natural and reasonable doubt of your son's choice of friends. Because of the old moonshine, you regard your doubt as a kind of nasty treachery to him for which he will punish you by refusing to develop self-confidence. My advice to you is to examine that doubt of your son's perfect reliability, recognize its reasonableness in the light of his inexperience and accept it without one smidgen of apology to anyone.

If you will accept your distrust without anxiety, you can begin to do something constructive about it. You can ask your boy to invite his new friends to your home without feeling apologetic about your wish to meet them.

Adolescence is the time of a child's most precarious balance between self-confidence and self-doubt. If during these years our perfect "trust" in him permits him to choose friends or actions which get him into serious trouble, self-doubt may swamp him so that he can never recover faith in his ability to choose wisely for himself.

Unless we are fanatics, we don't even trust ourselves absolutely. We'd better start questioning these "experts" who have suggested we owe perfect trust to our experimenting and inexperienced children.

Hoffa Assistant Indicted for Jury Bribe Try

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —A young man raised by James R. Hoffa has been indicted on charges of offering a $25,000 bribe to a member of the jury which convicted the Teamsters Union president of jury tampering.

Charles L. O'Brien, 29, business agent for a Detroit Teamster local, is accused of offering the money March 9 to Callie Key, a Negro widow, if she would swear Hoffa did not receive a fair trial.

O'Brien posted $15,000 bond and was released pending arraignment.

As a child O'Brien was taken into Hoffa's home after his father, a Kansas City truck driver, was killed. Hoffa recently said O'Brien is "a boy who I have raised since he was a baby." O'Brien, his wife and their two children live in Hoffa's Detroit home.

The alleged bribe offer took place five days after Hoffa was convicted here and three days before he was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000.

O'Brien has been in Chattanooga since the trial's end seeking affidavits in an effort to win a new trial for Hoffa. The Teamsters leader and three others were convicted of trying to tamper with the jury which heard Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial in Nashville. That case ended in a mistrial.

Special Prosecutor John J. Hooker of Nashville said earlier that Mrs. Key, 63, treasurer of the Tennessee Federation of Negro Women's Clubs, had been approached with a bribe offer, and turned it down. Mrs. Key was the only Negro on the jury.

The indictment was the first returned by a grand jury investigating events during and since the trial. The jury which has recessed until April 13, has heard testimony from Bernard E. Spindel, a professional wiretapper, and several employes at the Read House Hotel.

Spindel, an electronics expert from New York, was hired by defense lawyers during the trial to try to prove that FBI agents spied on Hoffa. He testified he monitored conversations between government agents watching Hoffa's hotel.

Stum-Sypher Nuptials Held at First Baptist

Miss Barbara Elaine Sypher and Verlyn Dee Stum were united in marriage at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, March 15, at the First Baptist Church, the Rev. Ward B. Hurlburt officiating at the candlelight ceremony. Baskets of white gladioli and pompons with yellow snapdragon were arranged as a background.

Mrs. Lean Hiscutt at the organ played traditional selections and accompanied Lloyd Olson who sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sypher of 1212 N. El Paso St., was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. El Roy Stum of 1121 N. Circle Dr.

The bride's floor length gown of imported white organiza was styled with bell skirt and peacock train of Chantilly lace. The fitted lace bodice was embroidered with seed pearls and iridescents, and her fingertip veil was borrowed from the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. David Wilson. Her flowers were yellow rosebuds and stephanotis arranged in a shower bouquet.

Mrs. Russell Paulson, sister of the bride from Moose Lake, Minn., was matron of honor, and Miss Helen Heath was bridesmaid. Both wore dresses of emerald satin brocade with fitted bodices and deeply pleated bell skirts. Their accessories matched their gowns and their flowers were white carnations.

Robin Paulson, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a yellow dacron frock, and carrying a tiny basket of yellow rose buds. Richard Paulson, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

Merlyn Stum attended his brother as best man, and Marlin Stum, his cousin of Ness City, Kan., was groomsman. Ushers were Oliver Kindel and Glenn Chambon.

The bride's mother, wearing a yellow suit with matching accessories, received the guests at the reception which was held in the church parlor. The bridegroom's mother wore a green floral print with beige accessories.

Mrs. Donald Colbert served the punch, and the cake was cut by Mrs. Elmer Miles, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Maxwell. The gifts were opened by Mrs. Jenean Schuler, Mrs. Cherell Stum and Mrs. Sandra Stum. Miss Linda Miles was in charge of the guest book.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Loveland, Colo. and are now living in Matheson. The bride's going-away costume was a three piece yellow linen suit with beige accessories.

Guests from other cities were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Clouston, and Mrs. Anna Stum, grandparents of the bridegroom from Ness City, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Stum, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Stum and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Schuler of Ness City; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schuler and daughters of Yoder; Mr. and Mrs. Linly Stum of Towner, Colo., Mr. and Mrs. Russell Paulson, Richard, Robin and Randy of Moose Lake, Minn., Mrs. Joanna Pearson and children, Kathy Flood, Mrs. Cora Easterday, all of Denver; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dupps and Carol Jean of Pueblo; Mr. and Mrs. Wes Maranville and sons, Mrs. Frona Maranville of Matheson; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Pieper of Calhan; Thelma Bickford and Neva Shearer of Denver; Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Colbert of Fountain; Mrs. Ruth Maxwell and daughter, Alice, Mrs. Lucille Lavelett, Mrs. Norman Pierce of Monument; and Mrs. Elmer Anderson of Palmer Lake.

C. M. Edmonds to Address Manitou Woman's Club

The Manitou Springs Woman's Club will meet at 2 p.m. Monday in Memorial Hall, for a program, election of officers and plans to be completed for the annual spring luncheon to be held in May.

C. M. Edmonds, owner and operator of Radio Station KCMS-AM-FM, will present his talk on "How to Grow Antennas on a Mountain." This talk is the history of how Colorado's outstanding communications point was developed. Cheyenne Mountain is the most easterly point on the front face of the Rockies. Its sheer drop of over 3,000 feet makes it a highly desirable communications point.

Bert Swisher and his family, now of Manitou Springs, homesteaded the property in 1903. Mr. Edmonds' talk describes the development of the road to the area and tells of the present communication facilities now on the famous mountain.

Mr. Edmonds was graduated from Colorado College in 1951 with a degree in physics. He has been a resident of Manitou Springs since 1943. Time permitting, Mr. Edmonds will show a number of slides concerning just the Manitou area.

Mrs. George Wilson Sr. and Mrs. George Wilson Jr. will be hostesses, assisted by their committee of Mrs. William S. Shaw, Mrs. Henrietta Sheppard, Mrs. L. T. Skiffington, Mrs. Herb Smith, Mrs. H. I. Smith, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. Clyde Snider, Mrs. Fred E. Stemme, Mrs. Oscar Stewart, Mrs. Earl Sullivan, Mrs. C. M. Summer, Mrs. J. M. Summers, Mrs. Clyde Todd, Mrs. Adele Unzicker, Mrs. Arthur Walk, Sr., Mrs. R. C. Walk, Mrs. W. G. Warren, Mrs. Delia Washburn, Mrs. Frank Williams, Mrs. Helen Williams, Mrs. Mabel Willie, Mrs. Les Wilson, Mrs. Constance Wolf and Mrs. Roy Wright.

Following the business meeting the Polka Dots Barbershop Quartet will sing. They are Mrs. Marlene Willie, Baritone; Mrs. Dorothy Saevig, Bass; Mrs. Collette Divine, Lead; and Mrs. Bobbie Stockton, Tenor. They will sing their theme, "Give Me That Old Time Melody," as well as "Alice Blue Gown," "Remember," "Red Silk Stockings" and other selections.

Mrs. Rigdon has called a board meeting for 1:30 p.m.

She appointed Mrs. C. M. Edmonds, Mrs. George Price and Mrs. Mabel Willie as the nominating committee at the March meeting.

Also on the agenda will be the menu and details of the spring luncheon, to be held in May, when officers for the new year will be installed.

Schimmick-Oltmans Vows Read in Bethany Lutheran

Bethany Lutheran Church was the scene of the wedding of Jean Oltmanns and George Schimmack both of Colorado Springs, at 3 p.m. March 14. Rev. A. G. Edstrom performed the ceremony and Roger Benson sang "O Perfect Love" and the Lord's Prayer, with Mrs. Dewey Layton at the organ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Olson of Chappell, Neb. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mr George O. Schimmack of Colorado Springs.

The bride's dress was a light blue sheath with rose accessories.

Mrs. Roger Benson, sister of the bride, wore a beige sheath with beige accessories.

Dick Makowski of Denver was best man and Allan Ives and Derryl Rome served as ushers. The bride's mother wore a blue dress with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a pink suit with pink accessories.

The reception was held in the church parlors with Mrs. James Hamilton and Mrs. B. I. Smith pouring punch, Mrs. Dick Makowski pouring coffee and Mrs. Richard Stallwood cutting the wedding cake. Mrs. Russell Reich was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Leo Scoles and Miss Diana Rowland were in charge of the gifts.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Schimmack are at home at 6 Arrawanna St. Mrs. Schimmack is employed by Looart Press, Inc. and Mr. Schimmack by McCaffrey Opticians.

Klein-Wilkinson Vows Read In Congregational Church

Miss Joyce Alaine Wilkinson became the bride of John Michael Klein at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 21, at the historic Congregational Community Church of Manitou Springs. The Rev. Clifford Lewis of Boulder officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wilkinson of Cripple Creek and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Klein, 1603 Eagle View Dr., and the grandson of Mrs. Louise Folger and the late Mr. Michael Folger. The bridegroom's paternal grandparents, John N. and Anna J. Klein, were married in the same church in 1901.

The double ring vows were repeated before the altar decorated with seven candelabra on either side of the organ and a large basket of multicolored carnations. Mrs. Ed Heltemes, organist, played appropriate music, and "The Lord's Prayer," after which the audience repeated "The Lord's Prayer" in unison.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father who gave her hand to the minister, who then gave it to the bridegroom. She wore a floor length gown of white brocade with long buttoned sleeves, and fitted bodice buttoned down the back. The full skirt was designed with a chapel train. Her veil of nylon illusion was caught to a heart-shaped crown of seed pearls. She wore a chain and cross made of the pure Cripple Creek gold, and carried a bouquet of white roses on a white Bible.

Miss Connie Gaffney, maid of honor, wore a street length cerise peau de soie dress with matching cerise net hat, gloves and shoes. Her flowers were cerise carnation surrounded with lace.

Mrs. Lester Willkinson and Mrs. Donald Wilkinson, sisters-in-law of the bride, and Miss Christy Conrad of Denver, were bridesmaids. They wore dresses in shades of lavendar, pink and green, styled like that of the maid of honor. The flower girls, Cindy Gaffney, of Cripple Creek, and Cindy Anderson, of Denver, were dressed in yellow peau de soie with yellow rose headbands and gloves. Each carried a white basket of rose petals, which they scattered in the aisle.

The best man was Mike Nolan of Alamosa. Groomsmen were Willie Parks, of Golden, and Lester and Donald Wilkinson. The ring bearers were Wayne and Kenny Wilkinson, nephews of the bride, who carried the rings on heart-shaped, satin pillows, surrounded with shirred nylon ribbon.

The bride's mother wore a green lace dress with pink accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a blue flowered suit with blue accessories and a pink corsage of carnations.

The maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Louise Folger, chose a flowered print dress and wore a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Mrs. Helen Parker, Mrs. Walter Anderson and Mrs. Richard Stoneberger served the cake, poured coffee and presided at the punch bowl. Miss Janet Pirnat was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Janice Niedig and Miss Pat Boone assisted with the gifts.

The bride attended Blair Business School at Colorado Springs and is employed by the State Revenue Department of Denver.

The bridegroom is employed at the Federal Center at Denver and attends the School of Mines at Golden.

After a honeymoon in Grand Junction, the couple will make their home in Denver.

British Brawl In Barroom With Cyprus Fighters

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A group of British paratroopers, wearing blue berets as members of the Cyprus U.N. force instead of their normal red headgear, fought a bar room brawl in Nicosia Thursday with Greek Cypriot National Guardsmen wearing red berets.

Half a dozen "Red Devils," as the paratroopers are known, took on about a dozen Greek Cypriots for nearly half an hour before military and civil police broke up the brawl.

Greek Cypriot sources said the fight developed when the paratroopers objected to the headgear worn by the Greek National Guardsmen.

The result of the brawl was several broken noses and cracked lips and smashed chairs, tables, bottles and glasses.

There were no serious injuries, according to a Cyprus police spokesman.

Hatties Club Meets With Mrs. Schekall

The Hatties Club will meet in regular session at 1:30 p.m. Friday with Mrs. J. J. Schekall, 2003 N. Nevada Ave.

Mrs. P. A. Pumphrey will preside and Mrs. John Godec, Jr., will assist the hostess.

All members are cordially invited to attend.

When there are some sprigs of watercress leftover from salad-making, drop them into hot chicken broth. The addition of some strips of roast pork and a cut garlic clove makes this soup especially interesting. Be sure to remove the garlic before serving.

The Troubles of Modern Teenagers

EDITORS NOTE: The following is a special feature by Abby, taken from a talk she delivered at the annual syposium presented by Continuing Education in Medicine and Health Sciences at the University of California School of Medicine, held in San Francisco Saturday, March 21. This is in addition to her regular column.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

There was a time, and if you are over 40 you will remember, when teen - agers were known simply as adolescents. They were then, as they are now, sensitive, mercurial, and self - conscious. But the adolescent inspired no headlines, no individual advertising campaigns, no special legislation and no seminars. You gave him a bar of Cuticura soap, told him to keep his face clean, and prayed for the best.

Why, since World War II, has so much attention been focused on the teen-ager? While his parents are trying desperately to guide him, society is attempting to "understand" him, and the cop on the beat is trying to "control" him.

We speak of teen-agers as though they were bananas, or a collection of look-alikes, freshly turned out of a duplicating machine. Conformists though they are about some things, the "typical" teen-ager is not to be found, because there is no such creature.

It seems odd that we must constantly remind ourselves that teen - agers are people — not roaches or grasshoppers or mosquitoes. Or something for which a new pesticide should be devised. They are young people deluged with problems at an age when they are least able to resolve them.

Not too many years ago the moral code was designed for an agricultural society. Youngsters could — and did — marry when nature ordained it. Today we are living in an industrial and urban society in which marriage is deferred. So the changed social system and the unchanged nature of man's biological urges have combined to play a dirty trick on us. The most sexually ambitious and virile period of our lives are the teen years, and our teen-agers enter that period only to find that the door that leads to fulfillment has been slammed shut in their young faces.

During the eight years that I have become a journalistic wailing wall I have received about four million pieces of mail. Twenty-five per cent of the letters I get are written by teen-agers. And more than half of those writers have been afraid, or ashamed, or reluctant to sign their names. But even though the names were missing, the facts were there.

Teen - agers have told me things they could not tell another soul. Not their mothers, or their fathers, friends, clergymen or doctors. Some signed their names and begged for an answer "right away," while others wrote, "You don't need to answer this, Abby. I guess I just had to tell somebody, and gee, it sure felt good to get it off my chest."

While many of the 20 million teen-agers in this country share common problems, what an amazing variety of things disturb and perplex them! I must get about 100 letters every week that sound exactly like this one:

"Dear Abby:

I am a girl of 14 who is very much in love with a boy 15. When I see him in the halls at school I say 'hi' and then he says 'hi', but if I don't say 'hi' he never says 'hi.' Who should say 'hi' first?"

Then from Asheville, North Carolina, came a letter from a girl of 15 whose hi-jinks made Christine Keeler look like Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm. And in the same batch of mail was a frantic query from an 18-year-old in North Platte, Nebraska, asking if a girl could get pregnant from kissing with her mouth open!

From the first-person, handwritten appeals that find their way to my desk I have culled those that are the most frequently repeated. Here are the problems that lead the list:

How can I get my parents to trust me?

Will a boy respect you if you give in?

I can't get along with my brothers and sisters.

I'm too fat.

I'm too thin.

I'm not stacked.

I've got pimples.

My parents won't let me do the things my friends do.

Don't tell me to talk to my parents—they don't understand!

My parents are too strict.

If a girl isn't a virgin when she gets married, will her husband know the difference?

What is the legal age to leave home?

And the saddest commentary on our times is the most frequently asked question of all . . . "How can I be popular?" Not, "How can I be a more worthwhile person?" or, "What can I do to serve my fellow man?" but, "How can I be popular?" Where do these shabby, shallow values that so many of our teen-agers embrace come from?

I believe the actions and reactions of today's teen-agers reflect the styles and the tastes of society as a whole. If teen-agers have a sub-culture of their own it only mirrors the world of their elders. And the 60's have added a new range of pressures—a range than runs from mamma to Madison Avenue!

Let's talk about mamma. Years ago someone wrote, "The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world." Who is rocking the cradle today? Nobody. Automation has invaded the nursery. You push a button and the cradle rocks itself.

It's no secret that in the typical modern American home mamma wears the pants. Mamma makes the decisions, passes out the privileges and lays on the punishments. Papa may pay the bills, but he is no longer the towering figure of authority.

So, in recent years, the kids have seen less and less of papa. But I have worse news. In more recent years the kiddies are beginning to see even less and less of mamma. She is either holding down a full time job outside the home or she's absorbed in golfing, playing bridge, crusading for some cause, or socializing.

Consequently, we now have a generation of guilty parents who are substituting material things (clothes, cars, spending money) for the love, guidance and supervision they know they should be giving their children—but are not.

Parents must expend energy and invest time in being parents. And this many parents are unwilling to do.

Thirty years ago men and women of 40 and 45 made their beds and were content to lie in them. Parents of teen-agers who realized that some of the magic had gone out of their marriage considered it no great sacrifice to stay together for the sake of their children.

Not so today. Many men and women of 40 and 45 are vigorous, attractive, adventuresome and are just getting their second romantic wind. They're better off financially, and have more free time. They look, feel and behave much like their teen - age children. (Who hasn't attended a wedding recently where the mother of the bride stole the show because she was so much better-looking than her daughter?)

There is in America today a small army of parents who have been tranquilized into believing that it is better to junk the marriage than raise children in an atmosphere of quarreling and bickering. (It occurs to few to do their quarreling and bickering in private, and to work harder at preserving the marriage.)

A 16-year-old Detroit girl, who siged herself "Mixed Up," wrote:

"Dear Abby:

How does a girl know when she is really in love? Don't tell me to ask my mother because she is now in the process of divorcing her third husband. She is only 36 and her love life is so fouled up it is pitiful."

Do you know there is a booklet available entitled "How to Tell Your Child You Are Getting a Divorce?" It contains all the well-worn phrases: "Honey, daddy and I just fell out of love. We still 'like' each other, but we no longer 'love' each other. I know you are a little too young to understand now, but you will when you grow up." And that, I presume, is supposed to explain satisfactorily why daddy doesn't live here any more.

Of course not all mothers are either absent from the home or too busy with their own romantic problems to counsel their teen-age children. There is another type of modern mother who has contributed significantly to the shaping of teen-agers' values. She is the permissive mamma, the one who wants her children to be "happy." She gives in, letting her offspring do what "everyone else" does without even knowing who "everyone else" is.

She condones, or even encourages, going steady because she is told it contributes status in the young people's social set.

She sanctions the all - night party at Prom time, even though her instincts and every working brain cell tell her such parties breed trouble. But she doesn't want to be a spoil-sport and cast the veto that would embolden other mothers to object. Why, this could mean that her dauhgter would be ostracized by her friends!

She gussies up her 12-year-old daughter in high heels, a padded bra and more powder and paint than a burlesque queen would wear, and sends her off into the night with a boy who just got his driver's license last week.

Almost every boy, upon reaching the legal age to drive, has a car of his own, or can borrow one at a moment's notice. The automobile has become the modern tribal symbol of manhood. With five gallons of gas our young people are transported into a private world of their own in 20 minutes. Wise guys say small wonder our kids multiply before they can add two-and-two.

Then there is this happiness kick. Many parents are over-impressed with the importance of keeping their youngsters happy. When a 17 or 18-year-old goes off to college, the first time he telephones home he is asked immediately, "Are you happy there?"

Twenty years ago those who were lucky enough to be sent away to college were told, "Work your head off, kid, and make the most of this opportunity to get an education."

Teen-agers today are "different" from adolescents of yesterday. Why? The problems that our teenagers face are different.

A generation ago about all the average high school graduate needed in order to go to college was the money—and he could pick his college. Today the competition is killing. Today's youngsters are tested to exhaustion two and three years before they are ready to enter college, and some of them become nervous wrecks before a college accepts them. When they are finally enrolled, they are plagued with the fear that they will be in the 20 per cent of the freshman class that is doomed to be washed out by the end of the first semester.

It's not much of an exaggeration to say that between mononucleosis and the nervous breakdown, college infirmaries do a bigger business than the libraries. And it is no secret that the psychiatric services in our institutions of higher learning are understaffed and overburdened.

Teen - agers today are also faced with the eerie problem of whether there really will be a tomorrow. And if there will, what effect the fallout will have on future generations.

It is not surprising, therefore, that many parents try so frantically to make their children happy.

In an essay, The Real Reason for Being Alive, Leo Roston put it this way:

"Ask any American mother what she wants most for her child, and the chances are she will reply, 'To be happy.' But there was a time when what we wanted most for our children was to amount to something. What is this myth 'happiness' that has bamboozled so many of us? And what is this idiotic thing 'fun' which so many chase after? Where people once used to say, 'Goodbye,' they now say, 'Have fun.'

"Where was it ever promised that life on this earth can ever be easy, free from conflict, uncertainty and pain? Those who seek the folly of unrelieved happiness, and do not know the dignity of occasional depression, can find bliss easily enough in tranquilizing pills, or in senility.

"The purpose of life is not to be happy. The purpose of life is to matter. To be productive, to have it make some difference that you lived at all."

And now we come to Madison Avenue. Those who would minimize the impact of modern advertising on children should be enlightened by this letter from a ten-year-old boy in San Francisco:

"Dear Abby:

How can I improve my image?"

Eugene Gilbert, the president of the Gilbert Youth Research, which specializes in advising business concerns on policies of marketing for the teen-age customer, estimates that the buying power of high school and college students is about TEN BILLION dollars a year!

Advertisers today do a masterful job of stimulating teen buying. Hear this:

"Be the first in your crowd to own an Elvis Presley pillow case. A life-size pitcure of Elvis beside you every night—and for only five dollars!"

When I was a teenager and asked for something and was told, "No, we can't afford it," I knew it was so, and that was the end of it. Today, with two cars in every garage, a TV in every room, Stereo and instant credit, it is almost impossible to convince a child that he can't have something because his parents can't afford it.

I received this letter from a 16-year-old boy in Phoenix, Arizona:

"I asked my dad if I couldn't have a car of my own because I didn't flunk a thing, and he said it was out of the question because we couldn't afford it. Then all I said was, 'I didn't know we were THAT poor,' so my father got mad at me and sent me to my room, so please excuse my writing because I am in my closet with the door closed, and I am also holding a flashlight."

Teen - agers actually suffer from a lack of security if they don't have everything their contemporaries have, whether they need it or not. The point is illustrated well in a letter from a girl in Oak Park, Illinois. She wrote:

"Dear Abby:

I am a ten-year-old girl who needs a bra. I don't have any bust yet, but I need a bra anyway because all the girls in my room have them, and most of them don't need one either. All except Debbie Schwartz who says she is up to a 34B but we think she's lying."

There are teen-agers who are immune to the virus of vulgar advertising, and those who are spared pushy parents, but when we observe the temptations with which they are faced while growing up, it is a miracle they aren't in more trouble than they are.

Can anyone deny that much of our entertainment and popular literature have never been more saturated with sex? Our advertising never more suggestive and tasteless? Our young people never more stimulated to do what comes naturally?

Almost every newsstand and drugstore displays an assortment of magazines and paperback books filled with stories of murder, rape, perversions, and photographs of bosomy girls in living color—and nothing else. This literature is well within the budget of our teen-agers, with no restrictions on who may buy it.

Outraged adults periodically protest. The objectionable material may go under the counter briefly. But it turns up again. And even though we must have court actions to refine our legal attitudes toward free art and expression, can we not stop the purveyors of obvious pornography from reaping profits by corrupting teen-age minds?

I know it is not easy to say who should judge what is right or wrong, obscene or decent, and where censorship should start and where it should end. I do know that unless it is done, we are guilty of feeding garbage to growing children, while we deplore the spread of crime, unwed motherhood and venereal disease among our youth.

When are we going to gather the courage to come out and say that something is filthy if that's what we think it is? When are parents going to realize that in order to have moral children they must be raised in a moral climate, with moral examples to follow? When are we going to quit blaming teachers and society and everyone but ourselves for our children's failure to measure up?

I am reliably informed that researchers have at long last discovered the "missing link" between the anthropoidal ape and civilized man. It is us! And although it is not pleasant to confess it, the answer to the trouble with teen-agers should trouble us all. And I hope it does. It is also us!

U.S. Catholics May Get More English Liturgy

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP)—American prelates of the Roman Catholic Church have drawn up detailed recommendations for greater use of English in masses. Prompt approval from Rome is expected.

About 200 archbishops and bishops and four of the five American cardinals met Thursday in a secret session at Catholic University to approve the texts and the extent of English in the mass, sacraments and the breviary.

Final approval of the new translations was requested of the Ecumenical Council's commission for the liturgy. "When this is forthcoming," said the Most Rev. John F. Dearden, archbishop of Detroit, "they will be put into effect in the United States as soon as possible."

Archbishop Dearden is chairman of the U.S. Bishops' Commission on Liturgy which decided on the recommendations last Jan. 8 at a meeting in Philadelphia.

The impetus for greater use of the vernacular—and consequently less use of Latin—came last Dec. 4 from the liturgical reform constitution adopted by the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Although the recommendations approved Thursday are a secret, authoritative sources report the vernacular will not apply to the "Canon," the most sacred portion of the Mass.

The speculation is that the most likely date for the revised texts to be inaugurated is the first Sunday in Advent, Nov. 29, which is the beginning of the liturgical year.

Alaska Hopeful About Summer Tourist Trade

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Alaska's tourist trade this summer should be the biggest ever, Charles B. West, president of Westours of Alaska, says.

"We've estimated a 20 per cent increase over last year, and the estimate still holds," West said Thursday. "It will make '64 the biggest tourist season in history."

He also said that although Anchorage was the center of damage from the Good Friday earthquake "we can assure the traveling public there will be adequate accomodations."

BLAST INJURES THREE

DENVER (UPI)—Lloyd Perkins, 18, whom police said turned on gas jets in his two-room apartment in an apparent suicide attempt, was reported in fair condition today after being injured when the gas exploded. Two young children in a nearby apartment also were injured, but were released after treatment at Denver Genreal Hospital. The explosion Wednesday ripped out the rear walls of Perkins' apartment and the apartment in which the two boys were sleeping.

STREETCAR SATELLITE — It's called OGO (Orbiting Geophysical Observatory) and is due to begin its runs into space this year. It carries as passengers from 20 to 50 different scientific experiments. Its various odd-looking booms and panels led the wife of an OGO scientist to say: "If I had a fly-swatter I'd kill it."

OGO Satellite Readied for Space Trips

The Streetcar has all but disappeared from American streets, but "streetcar satellites" will begin making runs into space this year.

The Orbiting Geophysical Observatory has been nicknamed the streetcar satellite because it will make a number of trips into space carrying a large number of different passengers each time.

The passengers will be experiments built by scientists at universities, in industrial plants and in government laboratories. Each Orbiting Geophysical Observatory — or OGO for short — will carry from 20 to 50 scientific passengers.

And because many of its experiments must be isolated from conditions on the spacecraft itself, they are attached to the ends of long booms which project from the body of the satellite.

This and OGO's wing-like solar panels gives it a shape so odd that when an OGO scientist showed a picture of the satellite to his wife, she said:

"If I had a fly-swatter, I'd kill it."

Up to now, most of the U.S. space ventures have been with smaller satellites — the Explorer series — which weigh under 150 pounds and carry three or four instruments to study a single scientific space problem such as micrometeorites or cosmic rays or solar flares.

But the more answers the Explorers returned from their investigations of space, the more questions they raised.

So the National Aeronautics and Space Administration conceived the OGO program — to make a great many measurements of space phenomena at one time.

The first OGO will range 70,000 miles into space and then return to within 170 miles of Earth on each orbit.

Dr. Wambach To Speak at Rastall Center

Dr. James Wambach, who recently returned from the mission of the Mary-Knoll Sisters in Guatemala, will speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Rastall Center, Colorado College.

Sponsors of the meeting will be the Colorado Springs chapter of the American Association for the United Nations and the El Paso County Medical Association in celebration of World Health Day Monday.

Dr. Wambach made his second annual visit to the mission where he donated his dental services to the Indians in the area.

The AAUN also announced that television station KOA, Channel 5, will present the U.N. series, International Zone, beginning at 2 p.m. April 12.

Berle Nephew's Wife Seeking Annulment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The wife of comedian Milton Berle's nephew is trying to annul her marriage to Marshall Berle.

But Annette Driggers Berle, married to a hair stylist at 14 and to Marshall Berle last July 10, got tripped up on a legal obstacle when she appeared in a Los Angeles court. She couldn't prove her age.

Annette, the 1960 winner of the Miss U.S.A. title in the Miss World contest but disqualified because she was only 15, was ordered to bring a birth certificate to court to substantiate her plea that her marriage to Berle occurred before her 18th birthday.

Masters Magic

For the first time last year, there was no new record set in number of spectators at the world-famous Masters golf tournament which will again swing open its gates this week to the hero worshipers of the sport.

The reason was so simple: in order to preserve some of the greenery around the course the gallery was limited.

When the first ball is teed this Thursday they'll probably have to either reconstruct the China Wall around the joint or post heavily armed genarmes at the gates to keep 'em out. That's the kind of tradition and popularity this tournament has built since its inception in 1934.

One of the key factors in the success of the Masters is, of course, the timing. The golfing pros and spectators alike are busting out of the winter doldrums and this happens to be the first BIG one on the tour. Like opening night on Broadway, you can't keep them away.

That's perhaps the marvel of it all. For instance, this weekend at Greensboro there's a tournament going on with virtually the same glamorous field that will tramp the fairways at Augusta. And yet the sponsors have trouble pulling a crowd from less than 100 miles away for the Greensboro Open. The secret has to be the ranking of the Masters in the Big Four and the undying allure of its creator, the great Bobby Jones.

What ever it is, the Masters makes ghost towns of cities all throughout the south for a wild weekend of walking and watching the greatest in the business of knocking the cover off a golf ball. It's a status symbol in Dixie and a "must" for followers of the sport the world over.

The funny thing about the Masters, though, is that it all started in such an innocent way. Jones, to many the best of the best, dreamed the whole thing up as merely a leisurely gathering of the clan. It was on strictly an invitational basis — which it still is — with a reunion of champions for a weekend of fun.

Perhaps some of the joy is gone for the participants because the pressure is enough to pop even the most relaxed of any other tournament. Listed right along with the U.S. Open, British Open and PGA for the play-for-pay boys, it's worth far more than the official winnings doled out at the finish line. The prestige gained in wearing the green jacket of a victor at Augusta is a ticket to untold extra benefits.

It seems to have been the perfect formula, for now everyone who has taken niblick in hand and those who get even a tiny thrill out of watching a Palmer, Nicklaus or Snead in action have their sights set on someday joining the throng at Augusta.

Despite over-crowded conditions in the town, which swells to nearly twice its size for this week, accommodations that often leave much to be desired, and then the push through the multitude on the course, fans flock from Chicago, New York or Walla Walla, Wash., to get into the act.

Just to see the famed course is enough for some. Actually, before Jones had his brainstorm there were already two fine layouts in town and probably more than enough to take care of the traffic. But he Augusta National Golf Club was put together by a handful of wealthy men, designed with every hole a replica of a famous one somewhere else around the land. Adding to the natural beauty of the course is the fact that the grounds was once a tree and shrub nursery and most of the foliage remains.

But what of this year's tournament? Who will join the elite of such names as Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Horton Smith, Gene Sarazen, Ralph Guldahl, Craig Wood and even Jones himself, just to mention a few?

At best it could only be a guess, of course, for the best laid plans of mice, men and would-be winners often go astray when the chips are blue and on the table.

The early odds take Arnold Palmer, quoted at 4-1, with defending champion Jack Nicklaus next along with Tony Lema at 6-1 and Gary Player and Dow Finsterwald at 7-1.

Although Palmer has yet to win a tournament this season, which has been blamed from everything from a loss of "hunger" to his nerves from stopping chain smoking, he's won every other year for that past six and after a ninth place last April it's his turn again.

Defending Champion

Nicklaus has all the weapons to repeat, but it's never been done before. The Augusta National favors the long tee shot which leaves a crisp iron to the green, especially if there's a slight hook on the end to wiggle around the left doglegs on the majority of holes. Nicklaus, normally with a sweeping fade on his drives, mastered the hook just for this tournament last year and it paid off.

Lema, the Champagne Kid who serves the bubbly stuff to friends and helpers after a win, has been going great guns lately but rarely does a relative newcomer crack the cookies here. And Player has a "master's touch" on a tricky course like this and is nearly always near the top in the big ones.

But the vote here goes to one of Colorado Springs' latest citizens, Finsterwald, who recently was made the Broadmoor professional although since that date has spent most of the time on the tour.

Besides Dow's finesse which has tabbed him among the game's greatest stylists, his partner at the Broadmoor, Roger Pedigo, revealed that Finsterwald has been working toward winning the Masters for the past four years. He's come close three times with a record of third, second and fifth and might have gotten the job done four years ago except for a two-stroke penalty and losing out in a playoff year before last.

It figures that this could be the year. Finsterwald has tapered his tour travels and should be rested and yet near the peak of his game.

Or it could be just a sentimental guess.

Kadets Split Twin Bill

PUEBLO — The Air Academy High baseball team split a twin bill here Saturday when the Kadets lost to Pueblo Catholic, 5-0, and rallied in the second tilt to down Los Animas, 6-4.

The Big Blue was scheduled to play in the Lamar Invitational Tournament but snow there cancelled out the event. John Gannon was the losing Academy High hurler even though the Big Blue chucker struck out 11 Pueblo Catholic batsmen; his teammate committed five errors.

In the Los Animas encounter, Gannon came back strong to win the game for the Kadets in nine frames. Lance Jensen and Gannon were the big stick with Gannon collecting three RBIs via two doubles.

Jensen bagged three hits and two RBIs.

Wasson Second in AA; Indians Edge Fountain

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

East Denver's flying Angels found defending champion Wasson in hot pursuit Saturday afternoon but the powerful upstate team used its overall balance to eventually win the AA division of the Sixth Annual Pikes Peak Relays at Wasson Stadium Saturday afternoon.

And while over 1,000 paying customers looked on, Cheyenne Mountain's high-geared Indians made their first appearance in this city's premium track and field event a smashing success by edging past a tightly-packed field to capture the championship of the A division.

Chilly temperatures and occasional gusty winds did not slow the performances of some of the state's fast-footed cinder stars. Relay teams from the classy AA field wiped out three of the seven records on the track and the A division saw four new marks established, three by individuals in the field events.

East Denver and Wasson sparred down to the wire before the Angels' victories in the final two field events powered them to the team championship. East finished with 82 points to 74 for Jim Hartman's Thunderbirds, who were thus dethroned after a two-year reign. The Angels also joined Wasson as the only two-time champion of the event. The Denver school won in its only other appearance in 1960.

Palmer's Terrors, who were nosed out by two points a year ago, also made another strong bid for the crown. The [illegible] was tied with Wasson for the lead with only four events to report but faded in that final stretch run and finished third with 64 points. Denver Manual, the defending state champion, had 44 points, Iver Ranum 34, Aurora Hinkley 26, Pueblo Central 22, and Pueblo South 8.

In the A division, Cheyenne overcame early leads by both Fountain and Academy High to grab the title. The Indians finished with 68 points while Fountain had 62, St. Mary's and Academy High 48, Salida 47, Widefield 28, Florence 22, and Harrison 7.

Wasson came closer than the final score indicates to winning its third straight title in what would have been a stunning upset of the highly-touted Angels. A faulty handoff in the 440 relay probably cost the Birds two to four points in that event and in the sprint medley the T-Birds apparently had third place in hand when the anchor runner was tripped accidently by an East Denver runner and failed to cross the finish line. Both teams were disqualified but Wasson stood to pick up points had it been possible for the quartet to finish.

But the Thunderbirds were not alone in the mishap department. The first big meet of the season in Colorado produced incidents in the exchange zones that would probably not have occurred later in the spring. Manual was disqualified in the distance medley for running out of the handoff zone after the Thunderbolts' Don Cooper had anchored his team to what appeared to be a second place finish. There were other incidents nearly as costly.

Individually, it was a day for the A division, and particularly Rick Stowell of Cheyenne Mountain. The smaller class teams embarrassed their bigger mates somewhat by posting superior marks in three of the five field events. The burly Stowell was the main focal point with a tremendous heave of 56-½ in the shot put to smash the old standard by over six feet.

Also in on the record breaking was Ron Graham of Cheyenne with a leap of 5-11½ in the high jump and Ed Ehmke of Salida who snapped his own mark in the discus with a heave of 145-0.

On the track Manual wrote a new record in the sprint medley with a clocking of 1:38.2. East Denver snapped the old mark in the distance medley with a 3:41.4, and Iver Ranum, appearing here for the first time, edged Wasson in the two mile relay with a record eight laps of 8:34.1. In that event, the Thunderbirds' Jeff Berven made a fine bid on the anchor leg with a 2:03 clocking after missing workouts most of this week due to an injury.

The only track record in the A division came in the sprint medley where Fountain's speedy quintet, spurred by Bob Carter, fired to a 1:40.2.

The late afternoon cold possibly prevented still other records in the field events. John Craig of East Denver and Mike Davis of Aurora Hinkley, a pair of touted high jumpers, failed to clear 6-0 in that competition. Gary Gehlhoff of Pueblo Central, who sailed over 13-0 in the pole vault earlier in the week, had to be content with 12-0 in winning that event Saturday.

Many of the teams that appeared here will now move on to Aurora next weekend for the annual Aurora Relays which is considered to be exceeded only by the state meeting in importance in Colorado track and field.

Mizzou Relay Team Sets Mark in Texas Meet

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Rapid Robin Lingle and his University of Missouri teammates led a parade of Big Eight conference victories in the 37th annual Texas Relays carnival Saturday.

Lingle, a junior transfer from the U.S. Military Academy from Philadelphia, turned in his second spectacular anchor lap performance in as many days to lead his Tiger distance running mates to another overall meet record in the two-mile relay.

Lingle and Missouri had turned the same come-from-behind trick Friday night in posting a new distance medley record and for their performances the Missouri team and Lingle individually were voted overwhelmingly as the meet's outstanding team and individual.

[illegible] contributed to two of the [illegible] overall meet records and teamed with Kansas, Oklahoma and Oklahoma State to give the Big Eight victories in [illegible] of the seven university division relay titles.

Only Abilene Christian's sprint medley triumph prevented a clean sweep.

Lingle started the two-lap final anchor of the two-mile relay 10 yards behind host Texas' Lay Gunter, but made his bid on the backstretch and was 15 yards in front and pulling away at the finish with a 1:48.3 half mile that give Missouri a 7:22.7 clocking.

That was five full seconds below the two-year-old record set by Kansas and not far off the recognized world mark of 7:19 flat held by Oregon's great 1963 foursome.

A Kansas quartet of Bill Silverberg (4:16.1), John Donner (4:11.1), John Lawson (4:17.1) and Harold Hadley (4:12.8) had set the final day's record-pace on the first running event with a four-mile relay mark of 16:57.0, 4.8 seconds under the 1962 mark posted by Nebraska.

The other meet record also came Friday night when Texas A&M freshman Randy Matson tossed the shot put 62 feet 11½ inches.

Oklahoma, sparked by sprinter Anthony Watson, added the 440-yard relay (41.8) crown Saturday to the 880-relay (1:25.0) won the night before, and Oklahoma State copped the mile relay finale Saturday in 3:11.5 to add to the Big Eight's domination.

In the college division, Texas Southern managed to salvage two of its six relays championships when the Houston all-Negro school won the two-mile in 7:31.0 and the mile relay in 3:11.5, while Grambling beat TSU handily in the sprint relay in 40.6 seconds. Texas Southern had lost all three of the titles decided Friday night.

PALMER ACE ON THE CLIMB—Bob McCoy, Palmer's ace pole vaulter, soars upward toward the bar during the competition Saturday at the Pikes Peak Relays. McCoy and his mates finished second to East Denver in the vault event and the Palmer team was third in the overall scoring.

Playoffs In NBA Resume

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National Basketball Association's semifinal playoffs will be resumed Sunday at St. Louis and Cincinnati with the San Francisco Warriors back in the picture and the Boston Celtics attempting to make it a rout.

After viewing films of their opening game loss—a so-called horror film — the Warriors bounced back Friday night with a 120-85 victory over the St. Louis Hawks which tied the best-of-7 game series at 1-1.

The defending champion Boston Celtics are 2-0 over the Cincinnati Royals and need only two more victories to go into the finals.

Coach Alex Hannum sat his Warriors in a club house studio and made them watch in agony the first game in which they blew two 20-point leads in losing to St. Louis 116-111.

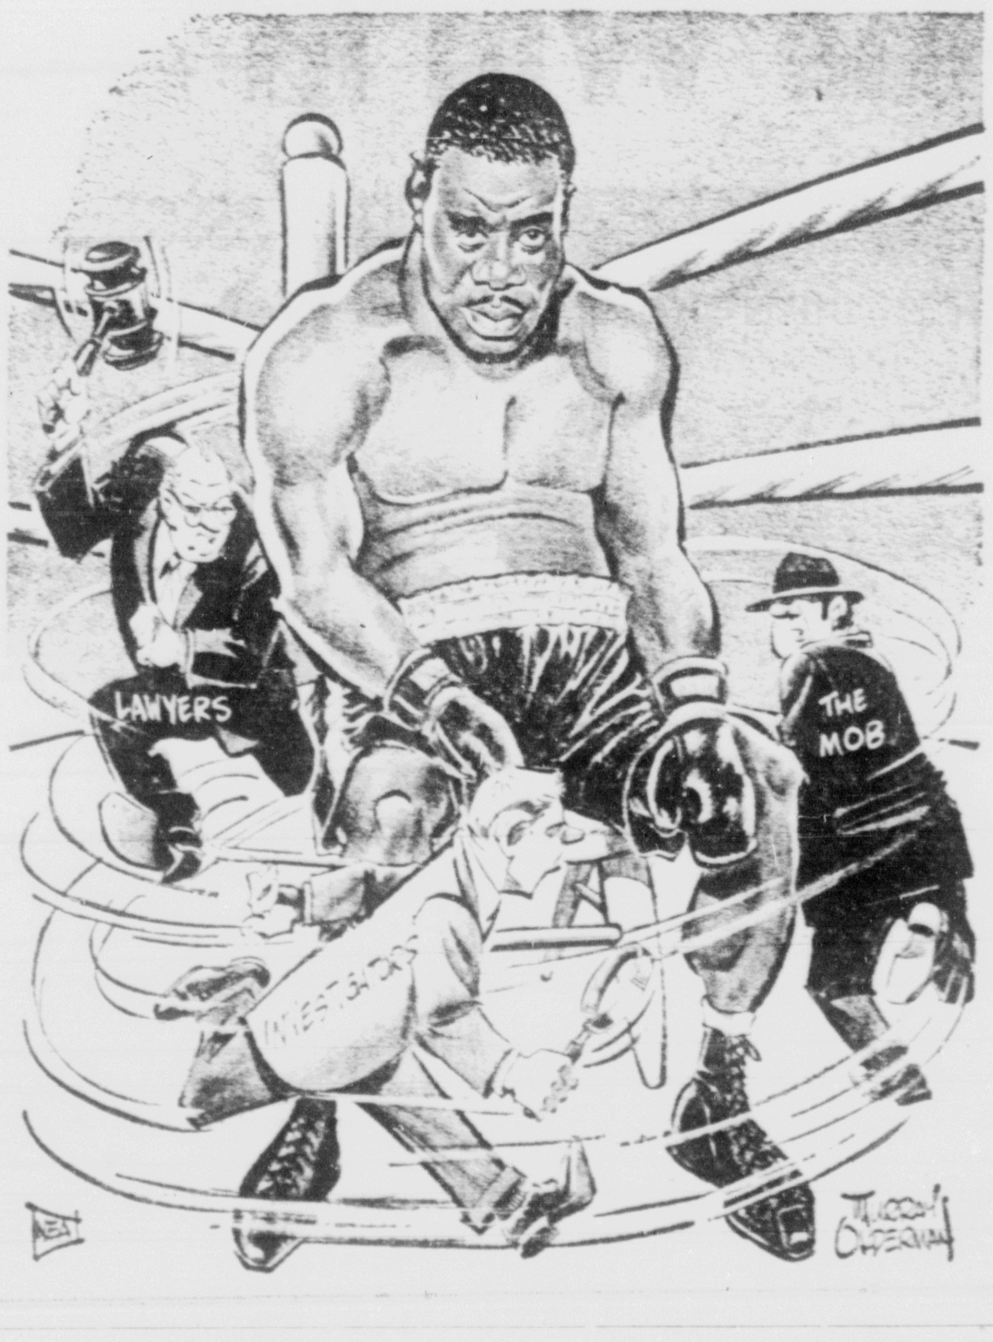
Chagrined at the exhibition, the San Francisco team went out and crushed the Hawks in the second game at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 28 points and Guy Rodgers 21 for the Warriors.

The Celtics are bubbling with confidence in their one-sided series with the Royals after their fastest playoff start in six years.

Feature of Boston's success so far has been the work of K.C. Jones, who has held Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati's most valuable player, to 15 field goals in the first two games.

MORE ACTION THAN THE FIGHT



Jefferson Comes From Behind To Trip Tribe in Non-League

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

The game isn't over until the last man's out.

That may be a time-worn cliche of baseball, but Ted Jones and his Palmer teammates had that lesson brought home to them Saturday afternoon in a heart-breaking 6-4 loss to visiting Thomas Jefferson of the Denver High School League.

Jones was coasting along with a neat no-hitter and a 2-0 lead going into the seventh and final inning of the non-league contest. However, the second man up lined a streaking drive off the fingertips of the Palmer pitcher that went for the first hit. Then undoubtedly feeling the pressure of the situation, Jones threw wild in an attempt to cut down the leading runner on the next play and a walk and another single followed.

As the inning finally finished, Jefferson had scored three times and the Terrors had to hustle to send the game into extra innings with the tying run.

In the eighth, Jefferson's Saints rapped reliefer Tom Medlicott for two more runs on a pair of hits, walk and hit batsman and the Terrors were unable to come up with the equalizer in their half of the inning. Still, it was a tension-packed finish as Palmer scored once and had runners on first and second when the final out came.

It was Palmer's second loss in five games with the other also coming in non-league action against Lamar last weekend. The Terrors still lead the South Central League race with a 2-0 record and the next SCL game will be this coming Tuesday afternoon against South Pueblo at Memorial Park.

Other league play Saturday had the Wasson-Centennial game postponed until Monday and South was to visit Trinidad Friday. Pueblo Central knocked off the only other undefeated team, East, 7-4, to leave the Terrors all alone atop the league standings.

In Saturday's game, however, Palmer looked like anything but league leaders as they committed six errors behind the four-hit pitching of Jones and Medlicott. The key bobbles came in the seventh when the Saints came from behind and went into a one run lead.

Jones had had little trouble in the first six frames, three times cutting down the Saints in order and bothered by only three baserunners. But after an opening strikeout, centerfielder Ted Gill smashed the ball high over Jones' head and as he leaped to make the stop it sailed off his glove and bounded toward second base. Shortstop Ollie West tried to pick it up and make the putout, but the throw came too late.

Then when Dick Nelson rapped one back to the mound, Jones wheeled and threw to second for the lead runner. But the ball got away and rolled into center field. A walk to pinch hitter Darrell Fenglar filled the bases and then catcher Rich Kramer cracked the pitch into center field, scoring two runs. The throw was wild from the outfield and in came the third run.

In the bottom of the seventh, with Rich Tafoya on first via a fielder's choice, third baseman Gary Johnson doubled to left-center to bring in the trying run. Johnson died there, though, after a fly-out and strikeout.

Medlicott had two out on whiffs after walking the leadoff batter in the eighth, but Jefferson's Bob Wilson singled in the first run, the next was hit with a pitch and Dick Nelson doubled to left to score two more in another three-run inning.

The Terrors tried to stage a comeback with second baseman Chuck Reinking leading off with a single and coming home on Jerry Golden's double that bounced over the right field fence. But two were out and Tafoya ended the game with a called third strike.

The Terrors had scored in the first on Reinking's single, an error and two walks and again in the third on Golden's single, a walk, hit batsman and another error. But that lead quickly melted in the nightmarish seventh.

It was a real tragedy for Jones, who had struck out nine in his seven innings on the mound and walked but two. The Terrors rapped starter Terry Hawk with seven hits and were given eight free passes, but the clutch hits wouldn't come and they finished the game with a horrendous 15 stranded on the base paths.

Pat Jerrald was the winner in relief and Medlicott the loser by the same route.

National Diving Meet Slated for AFA, Tuesday

The nation's top diving experts will be on hand at the Air Force Academy Natatorium this coming Tuesday, April 7, for the 1964 National AAU Platform Diving Championships.

There are some 1,500 seats available and a near capacity crowd has been anticipated to watch the 40 male divers from throughout the United States compete off the high 10-meter platform. They will bid for the national title and a possible Olympic berth.

The order of finish here will help the AAU selection committee pick the Olympic diving team. The first eight in this competition automatically may attend the Olympic tryouts in September at Flushing Meadows, N.Y.

This is the first time the 10-meter AAU Championships have been slated indoors.

The schedule calls for preliminaries at 9 a.m., semi-finals at 2 p.m., and the finals are set to begin at 7 p.m., Tuesday. The entire meet is free of charge and the public is invited to attend.

From the Air Force Academy, the top hope for a high finish in this competition rests on the shoulders of Dan McLean, a member of the AFA's regular season swimming team. The 19-year old resident of Colorado Springs has been competing in the one and three-meter diving during the regular intercollegiate season, but the high board is a real challenge to him and AFA officials have high expectations for him this week.

With his father a career Air Force officer, Dan is hard put after years of moving to decide what is "home." But five years of living here with his parents, and a great liking for the city, have earned Colorado Springs that honor. His father, Col. Daniel P. McLean, is now stationed in Florida as commander of Tyndall Air Force Base.

A true all-around athlete, Dan lettered in tracks and gymnastics at Wasson High School during his sophomore and junior years, and in 1961 won the Colorado High School Championships in free exercise, tumbling and trampoline. During his senior year at Ishpeming, Mich., Dan lettered in track and swimming, and won the 1962 Michigan State High School one-meter Board Championship, and also placed third in the high jump as a trackster.

His diving career, however, began at the Colorado Springs Country Club, where during a game of "follow the leader" he one day did a one-and-a-half off the board and "liked it." So, with Miss Carol Lynox, the club's lifeguard, serving as coach, Dan began diving in earnest. With further tutoring by Wasson Coach Ed McVehil, Dan began to shine.

Since entering the Academy in 1962, McLean has been under the coaching eye of Capt. Frank Fraunfelter, whom Dan credits with making him the diver he is today.

Fraunfelter, himself a three-time All-America diver, and 1956 one-meter NCAA champ, has guided Dan through the intracacies of one and three-meter intercollegiate diving, and now has him working on the 10-meter platform, with an eye towards Olympic and AAU competition.

Although he is only a sophomore, Dan is already tabbed "the best diver the Academy has ever had," and still has many competitions ahead of him in which to prove it.

Dan's only defeat this year was a close loss to Cincinnati's great Dan Garteiz, a former Pan American Games star, and an annual AAU contender. But McLean has already beaten Phil Freeman of Stanford, former Far Western champ, and Ken Marsh of Kansas, one of the top divers in the Big Eight.

Aside from abetting his Olympic desires, the 10-meter diving has also helped him tremendously in improving his collegiate one-meter and three-meter diving. Since the high platform calls for great leg and arm strength, Dan has been undergoing special exercises, which — along with the confidence the added height has given him — has developed him into a dive of national stature.

But then Dan, according to Coach Fraunfelter, has natural assets to help him. "McLean," he says, "is a good pupil to work with. He is easy to coach because he has great initiative and is quick to learn. And above all, he is not afraid of that high platform."

The last is important, since the average "platform list" includes such dives as the back-dive, inward two and one-half, front double twister, front two and one-half, one-half gainer, and a backward one and one-half with a one and one-half twist.

Like all Cadets, though, Dan McLean's first concern is his "career." Now holding a good average of 2.9, he is majoring in Basic Sciences and after graduating in 1966 would like to attend flight school and a post-graduate school.

But as always, his thoughts keep coming back to the Olympics. This summer, when the Cadet Wing disperses for its field trips, Dan hopes to journey to Tokyo, Japan, the site of the 1963 Olympics.

AFA OLYMPIC HOPEFUL — Dan LcLean, who now calis Colorado Springs his home, will be the chief hope of the Air Force Academy when his school hosts the National AAU Platform Diving Championships this Tuesday. Last month the sophomore diving specialist placed among the top 20 in the NCAA championships and he hopes to improve on that finish in his "home" pool this week. Top finishers here will advance to the Olympic tryouts this summer. (Air Force Photo)

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Bob Foss

A lot of American League fans complain that the Yankees win the pennant too often . . . But that complaint wasn't possible in the first 20 years of American League history . . . Did you know that between 1901 and 1920 the Yankees won NO pennants! . . . It seems unbelieveable, but it's true.

Warren Spahn is an amazing pitcher . . . He's won more games than any other left hander in baseball history . . . But, here's something that makes his record even more amazing . . . Although he has more wins than any other lefty in history, he did not win his first big league game till he was 25 years old!

Here's an oddity about stolen bases . . . In the history of major league baseball since 1900, only one man has ever been able to steal as many as six bases in one game . . . And the man who set that record, Eddie Collins, did it twice—stealing six times in a game Sept. 11, 1912, and again in a game Sept. 22, 1912 . . . Here's a feat that's been accomplished by only one man in 63 years — nobody was able to do it before him and no one has been able to do it since — and yet he did it twice, within the space of 11 days!

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus put together three consecutive birdies halfway through the back nine Saturday to shoot a four under par 67 and nudge past slumping Sam Snead into a three-shot lead after 54 holes of the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament with a 206 total.

Snead, the leader by three shots through each of the first two rounds of the 72-holes Tournament, was stunned by a triple bogey 6 in the seventh hole and wound up with 74 to drop to a four-way tie for second at 209.

Defending champion Doug Sanders charged back from a slow start to fire 66, winning $400 for the day's low round that tied him with Snead, Canadian Al Johnston and Australian Bill Dunk.

Al Geiberger's 70 put him alone in sixth place at 210, one stroke ahead of U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, who was the co-leader with Larry Mowry through the first nine holes of the day's play.

Boros faltered to an incoming 38 for a 73 round over the par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course, a 7,000-yarder. Mowry, out in 33, soared to 40 in the incoming nine for 73 that dropped him to 211.

Nicklaus, playing here only because snow a week ago prevented him from practicing at home in Columbus, Ohio, for his defense of the Masters title next weekend, had five birdies and one bogey.

EXHIBITION BASEBALL BRIEFS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —The St. Louis Cardinals romped to a 10-1 exhibition victory over the New York Mets Saturday behind the strong pitching of left-hander Curt Simmons.

Simmons allowed only five singles and a walk in six innings.

Tampa, Fla. (AP) — After blowing a five-run lead, the Cincinnati Reds managed to fill the bases in the ninth inning Saturday and edged the Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-6, as Pete Rose singled in the winning run.

Both teams got most of their markers on home runs and the Reds started it in the fourth when Vada Pinson and Gordy Coleman homered off Johnny Podres. Coleman's homer was good for three points and Pinson's for two.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Rookie outfielder Tony Oliva smashed three doubles and Harmon Killebrew drove in a trio of runs to pace the Minnesota Twins to a 7-4 baseball victory over Kansas City Saturday.

It was Minnesota's 8th victory in its last nine exhibition games and pushed the Twins over .500 for the first time this spring at 10-9.

Oliva's doubles produced two Twins runs and Killebrew plated three more with a bases-loaded single and groundout.

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Lynch clubbed two home runs, a double and single Saturday in leading Pittsburgh to 14-6 exhibition baseball victory over Detroit.

Lynch, notching a perfect day at the plate, drove in four runs—including a two-run homer—and scored four himself.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—An exhibition baseball game between the Cleveland Indians and the Los Angeles Angels Saturday was called in the third inning due to rain. There was no score.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Bonus rookie Archie Moore's two-run single climaxed a five-run ninth inning that gave the New York Yankees a 9-8 exhibition victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

Moore rapped a liner off the glove of rookie second baseman Marv Staehle on a 3-2 pitch from Frank Baumann with two out in the last of the ninth.

Centennial Golf Team Defeats Cheyenne Mt.

The Pueblo Centennial high school golf team scored a victory over the Cheyenne Mountain prep linksters Saturday in a dual match at the Valley Hi Country Club golf course.

Although the Cheyenne team lost the match by only three strokes (453 to 450), the Indians' Chris Witt was the medalist with a 78 score for 18 holes.

For Centennial, George Lott fired the best score for that squad with an 81. Other scores for Centennial: Gary Grisham, 89; Mike Lake, 95; George Hubersberger, 85; and Ralph Gonzales, 100.

The Cheyenne team's scores: Flaks, 92; Jeff Remmell, 87; Harley Ferguson, 98; and Rob Middleton, 98.

Carlos Ortiz Set to Meet Kenny Lane

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz, who said he would defend his crown against Kenny Lane "when the price was right," meets his arch-rival from Muskegon, Mich., for the title in Hiram Bithorn Stadium Saturday night.

The Puerto Rican-born New Yorker won three lucrative title defenses before he finally got around to Lane. A $62,500 guarantee from the Caribbean Sports Promotion, Inc., sealed the deal. Lane gets a $12,500 guarantee.

Ortiz, winner of 10 straight including four championship fights, is the 2-1 favorite. The 27-year-old boxing master won the title by soundly drubbing Joe Brown at Las Vegas April 21, 1962.

Lane, who will be 32 Thursday, has won seven straight, the last a disputed decision over Johnny Bizzarro at Erie, Pa., Feb. 19. His record is 85-11-1, including 15 knockouts. He has been stopped four times, including once by Ortiz.

St. Petersburg Open Golf Tourney Results

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Mary Lena Faulk, improving with each round, fired a one-under-par 70 Saturday to take a commanding four-stroke lead after the third round of the $10,000 St. Petersburg Women's Open.

Miss Faulk, a 37-year-old pro from Thomasville, Ga., had the lowest round for the second straight time Saturday and had a 54-hole total of 215. She set a tourney record in 1957 when she won this match with a 275.

Kathy Cornelius fired the second low round of 71 Saturday to move into a tie for second place at 219 with Betsy Rawls, who fired a poor 76.

Both Miss Rawls and Miss Cornelius are former winners of this tournament, played over the 6,237-yard Sunset Country Club course.

Northern Dancer Wins Derby

By GENE PLOWDEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Northern Dancer, a compact little Canadian colt, sped to a one-length triumph in the $116,500 Florida Derby Saturday and stamped himself as one of the best 3-year-olds in the land.

Northern Dancer, 1 to 5 favorite with the crowd of 30,212, took the lead turning into the stretch and Jockey Willie Shoemaker looked back a few yards from the finish to make sure he had his third Florida Derby.

The Scoundrel finished a strong second and Dandy K was third in the 13th edition of this feature. They were followed by Roman Brother, Greek Episode, Ky. Pioneer Iskoodah and Saltville.

Northern Dancer ran the 1⅛-mile in a slow 1:50 4-5 and paid $2.60, $2.40 and $2.20. The Scoundrel paid $4.00 and $2.20, while Dandy K. was $2.20 to show.

Northern Dancer, foaled at E. P. Taylor's Windfields Farm near Toronto, was making his 13th start and scoring his 10th win.

He has never been out of the money. The speedy son of Nearctic, out of Natalma by Native Dancer, earned $76,500 for his Florida Derby victory and now has earned $216,365 in his brief career.

Fractional times for the race were :23 2-5, :47 3-5, 1:12 1-5 and 1:00 3-8 for the mile.

The Florida Derby record is 1967. This also is the Gulfstream Park track record for 1⅛ mile.

UCLA Duo Paces Team to Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—The UCLA backcourt combination of Walt Hazzard and Gail Goodrich led the NCAA Blue team to a 75-67 decision over the AAU Stripes Saturday in the game for fifth place in the U.S. Olympic Basketball Trials.

Earlier in the afternoon doubleheader, the Armed Forces Jets beat the Armed Forces Missiles 95-90.

The Saturday night doubleheader that completes the three-day trials matched the NCAA NCAA Red team against the AAU Stars for the team title and the NCAA Whites against the NAIA All-Stars for third place.

Team scores mean little, however, since the Olympic Selection Committee will make its choices of the 12 players to represent this country in Tokyo by individuals rather than by teams.

Hazzard had 17 points and Goodrich contributed 18. The Blues, composed primarily of UCLA's NCAA champions, led all the way and Coach John Wooten alternated his squads, giving the selectors a look at all the players.

The Armed Forces Jets scored 10 straight points opening the second half against the Missiles.

Big Don Lotz, a 6-foot-6 Air Force representative, dropped in a rebound opening the second half and pulled the jets even at 45-45.

A fast break and good rebounding by Larry Reed produced eight more in rapid succession for a 53-45 lead. That did it.

Texas Lutheran Shuts Out Kansas, 4-0

SEGUIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Lutheran Saturday blanked Kansas 4-0 behind the combined five-hit pitching of Ed Kuempel and Larry Olson.

Kuempel got the victory altough leaving for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning. He gave up only one hit while fanning five and walking two.

Texas Lutheran had only one earned run, using five Kansas errors with a passed ball, wild pitch and four stolen bases to get the other three scores.

Mr. Moonlight Wins Gotham Stakes Race

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Mr. Moonlight, lightly regarded in a field of 10 3-year-olds pointing for the Kentucky Derby, got up in the final stride Saturday for a narrow decision over Traffic in the $58,300 Gotham Stakes at Aqueduct.

Under a slashing ride by Jimmy Combest, Mr. Moonlight came from far off the pace for his first major victory in 11 career starts. Traffic, who apparently had the race won, with only yards to go, saved second money by three-quarters of a length over Mr. Brick.

Mr. Moonlight, owned by Mrs. Magruder Dent, ran the one mile in 1:37 1-5 and paid $35.80, $13.60 and $6.20. Traffic, one-half of Reginald N. Webster's entry, which also included National, paid $6.20 and $3.60. Mr. Brick, owned by Roy Sturgis, returned $2.90 to show.

Chieftain, who shared the favoritism with Mr. Brick of the crowd of 55,105, was fourth. He was beaten 3½ lengths by Mr. Brick.

The winner, sired by Moondust II out of Queen Hairan, picked up $37,895 as compared to his previous earnings of $15,775.

Mr. Moonlight, trained by Nick Combest, next will get a chance to show that his victory was no fluke when he faces most of the same field in the Wood Memorial on April 18. The Wood, at 1⅛ miles, is the final Eastern warmup for the May 2 Derby.

Johnson Wins PBA Denver Open

DENVER (AP)—Don Johnson of Kokomo, Ind., scored a 254 to 225 victory over Denver's George McDonald to capture the $4,000 first prize Saturday in the Professional Bowlers Association $26,000 Denver Open.

Jerry McCoy of Fort Worth, Tex., finished in the No. 3 spot and Sam Baca of Hayward, Calif., was fourth.

McDonald took away $2,000 for his second place winnings. McCoy made $1,500 and Baca $1,300.

This was the 23-year-old Johnson's first major tournament victory. The 130-pounder had two 4th place finishes in PBA events last year. His best finish this year on the pro tour was an 8th at Birmingham, Ala.

Johnson, who sat out the first three matches in Saturday's finals because of leading the 96-man field after 40 games, saw the local amateur, McDonald, advance to the final game with victory over Baca, 206-177, and McCoy, 202-1994. McCoy made the semifinal bid by defeating Baca, 216-181.

Johnson, a bachelor, raised his money earnings for the year in PBA play to $7,332. McCoy now is the No. 4 man on the money list with $9,400.

Wasson, SCL Game Postponed

Wasson's scheduled South Central League game with Pueblo Centennial Saturday was postponed due to inclement weather in the Steel City where the contest was to be played. Coach Gib Funk said the important battle between the Thunderbirds and Bulldogs has been rescheduled for Monday at 3 p.m. at Runyon Field.

Also called off was a game between Pueblo South and Trinidad at Trinidad. In the only weekend action that took place, Pueblo Central surprised East 7-4 Friday to leave Palmer in undisputed possession of first place in the conference standings.

Cheyenne Slips Past Visiting Tigers, 4-3

By DICK FOSTER

The Cheyenne Mountains Indians, paced by Bill Massarand and his big stick, took an early lead and thwarted off a late rally by Canon City to edge the visiting Tigers, 4-3, Saturday.

Massarand's two home runs, in the first and the third, which were responsible for three of Cheyenne's four runs, were only part of the trouble Canon City faced. Ted Garcia, the Indians' starting hurler, combined his efforts with tight Cheyenne fielding, and snuck away with four straight perfect innings before giving up his first hits to Tiger pitcher Chuck Stallman.

At the same time, Stallman failed to find his control on the mound and was whacked badly in the opening three frames.

Canon City couldn't get any power behind their bats until that time, and the Tribe's infield occupied themselves with picking up lazy ground balls and tossing them to first.

Cheyenne plated two runs in the first inning on Steve Markowitz's single, followed by Massarand's first home run, a long, inside the park shot to center field.

Ted Garcia tripled early in the second inning, and when the throw came from center field to Canon City's third sacker, he committed an error that sent Garcia home for the Tribe's third tally. Massarand made it 4-0 in the third frame on Massarand's second four sacker, a long poke over left field fence.

The Tiger nine finally warmed up the wood in the fifth inning when Chuck Stallman started things off with a double. John Rouse followed with a single that sent Stallman home. Mike Foraker later bunted to send Rouse home. The fifth inning was the last for Cheyenne pitcher Garcia. After four perfect innings and another not so perfect one, Garcia had given up two runs, two hits, walked none and struck out four.

Chuck McGee took it the rest of the way for Cheyenne, giving up one run, one hit, and fanning one. The last Tiger run came in the top of the sixth, when Stallman hit to drive in Pat Vance, who made it all the way to second on a double error by Jack O'Brien. On the same play, Stallman was caught in a rundown and the sides retired. McGee made it one-two-three in the seventh to cinch up the victory.

Garcia was credited with the win while Stallman was tagged with the loss. The Canon City moundsman went the distance for the Tigers, to give up four runs and four hits while walking one and striking out 11. Stallman had controls troubles in the early stages of play, but in the last three innings he settled down six strike outs while pitching no hit ball.

CC Golf Team Opens Slate Against Miners

Six returning lettermen and six good freshmen prospects, in a sport in which six men normally comprise a team would make most coaches smile from ear to ear.

Colorado College golf coach J. Juan Reid finds himself in this position and can't even manage a smile.

Reid is bemoaning the fact that he is again facing the yearly dilemma of having an excellent gold team, but having to meet even better competition.

"If you look at the schedule we play, you can see why I'm not overly optimistic about our chances," said Reid. The Tigers play in the rugged University Division of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and regularly meet the larger schools such as the Air Force Academy, University of Denver and the University of Colorado.

In addition, Colorado College is co-hosting the Pikes Peak Intercollegiate Tournament this spring and this meet annually draws the top teams from the Rocky Mountain area.

The highlight of the season will be when the Tigers act as host for the NCAA tournament June 15-20. The University Division of this tournament is being held at the Broadmoor Golf Course with Colorado College being the host school.

"We should have a good season," said Reid, "but even with a lot of breaks it will be difficult for us to win many matches."

The Tigers open play on April 11 with a match against the U.S. Air Force Academy at the Eisenhower Golf Course.

CSU Appoints New Assistant Football Coach

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—Urban Bowman, line coach last year at Lebanon Valley College at Annville, Pa., has been appointed assistant football coach at Colorado State University.

Bowman succeeds Bill Craver, who resigned recently to go to Delaware Valley College, Doylestown, Pa., as head coach.

The new CSU assistant, whose appointment is subject to approval by the State Board of Agriculture, the school's governing body, played center, guard and tackle for the University of Delaware. He graduated in 1959.

After his discharge from the Army in 1961, Bowman was freshman line coach at Delaware and, in 1962, head freshman coach at the University of Dayton.

Pastrano Tunes Up For Title Bout

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano put in an hour of gym work Saturday but passed up any sparring as he continued to tune up for Friday's title bout with Argentina's Gregorio Peralta.

Peralta, who arrived from New York Friday, boxed three rounds in the same gym after Pastrano finished his workout.

The South American puncher was pronounced "coming along fine," by Charlie Johnson, his American manager.

Pastrano has boxed 101 rounds in preparation for the fight, his first defense of the title he won last June 1 from Harold Johnson.

Peralta has put in more than 50 rounds with sparring mates.

The bout will be nationally telecast starting at 10 p.m., EST, over ABC with a blackout within a 150-mile radius of New Orleans.

Bob James of AFA Named New Commissioner of Mid-America

Bob James, assistant athletic director at the Air Force Academy, has been selected as the new commissioner of the Mid-America Conference, it was announced Saturday by Dr. Vernon R. Alden, president of Ohio University.

The announcement came during a meeting of the Presidents Council of Mid-America Conference schools at Columbus, Ohio.

James will establish his league offices in Columbus, and will move to his new post in early June. He will be the first full time commissioner of the seven school conference which includes Ohio University, Bowling Green, Toledo, Miami of Ohio, Western Michigan, Marshall and Kent State.

James has been with the Air Force Academy since February of 1960, when he came to the Academy from the University of Maryland to head up the AFA's 15-sport intercollegiate program.

A 1947 graduate of Maryland, James was a letter winner in football, basketball, track and lacrosse. He remained at his alma mater following graduation, first as assistant dean of men and, later, as the associate dean. He also served as liaison between the athletic department and the administration at Maryland, and handled the scholarships and grants-in-aid program for athletes.

ROBERT JAMES
Selected New Commissioner

Said James of the announcement: "I'm deeply flattered at being selected for this position. The Mid-America Conference has always been an outstanding league, and I'm happy to be a part of it. My new job will be a great challenge, but I'm eagerly looking forward to the association with seven fine schools and many outstanding people involved in their intercollegiate programs."

Col. E. A. Rafalko, AFA director of athletics, said: "I'm certainly sorry to lose Bob, but I'm delighted that he was selected for this commissioner's job. I know that his new position will offer a much bigger challenge and greater responsibility than he had at the Academy, and I'm confident he will do an outstanding job and be a real credit to the Mid-America Conference."

Col. Rafalko said no immediate plans for James' replacement have been made.

Cards Hire Coach

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians Saturday hired Solly Hemus, 40, former St. Louis Cardinals manager, to coach third base.

The regular Cleveland third base coach, George Strickland, is managing the American League club until Birdie Tebbetts recovers from a heart attack.

Tebbetts suffered a heart attack Wednesday night, and Strickland had been acting as manager since then.

In announcing the appointment, Gabe Paul, the Tribe's general manager and president, said Hemus is being hired only until Tebbetts returns to work. Doctors say Tebbetts will need at least two months to recover and he is not expected to be back this season.

Final Results From Junior Ski Meet

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP) — Washington and Idaho won the team titles Saturday in the wind up of the Western Junior Ski Championships.

Washington's over all total of 728 points led the boys' scores, while Idaho's 433.3 was first in the girls' division.

Individual winners in the combined totals were Vicki Jones of Tahoe City, Calif., and Jaimie Paul of Seattle.

Florence Nets Victory Over Panther Nine, 8-2

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Four-year veteran Darrell Browning made it possible for the Florence baseball team to record its third straight win this season as the Huskies bombarded the home team, Harrison, to pound out an 8-2 triumph in the Pikes Peak League opener Saturday.

Two PPL games scheduled for last Friday were postponed until Monday because of the cold temperatures. Cheyenne Mountain, six-time PPL champion, opens defense of its crown when the Indians host Widefield and Air Academy High plays host to Manitou Springs in Monday's agenda, weather permitting.

Altho the Panthers blasted Browning for five hits, the Florence ace hurler managed to retire the side with the exception of the second stanza when the Harrison aggregation pounded out two runs.

Meanwhile, the Huskies went to work on Harrison's leading pitcher, Danny Gieck, for five hits to record the victory. Gieck was replaced in the seventh inning by Bill Johnson as the Harrison starter got into control troubles and loaded the bases.

Gieck went to right field and Johnson managed to get one batter out before the Panthers' catcher, Dick Crabtree collided with Florence's Mike Leyba and left the game because of head lacerations. Johnson only pitched to two batters and switched positions again with Gieck, this time Johnson went behind the plate to substitute for Crabtree.

In addition to his pitching endeavors, Browning blasted a home run over the left field fence to score teammate Herb Woolsey in the fourth frame. Prior to that time Gieck had retired the side in order. But with two out and a full count, Browning connected to ride the ball out of the park.

The visiting Florence team struck again in the finale as the Huskies accumulated six runs on four hits to put the game on ice.

For the Panthers, Lonnie Mayor doubled to score Gieck and Harold Oldham knocked in John Therrell in the second inning. This was the second loss for Harrison in four outings.

The Panthers are slated for two home games this week when they tangle with Canon City on Tuesday and host Widefield on Friday in a PPL game.

The Florence Crew doesn't play again until this Saturday when the Huskies host Manitou Springs in league play.

Harlem Satellites Set for Local Show

Top exhibition basketball played by the Harlem Satellites against Colorado Springs' YMCA hoop stars at 8 p.m. Monday, April 6, in City Auditorium will benefit the Estella Gunter Pegues scholarship fund.

Mrs. Pegues was a long-time Ft. Carson Special Services club director killed in an automobile accident in 1963. The scholarship fund is sponsored by Colorado Springs Club 400 of which Mrs. Pegues was a member.

The Satellites, who have a 1,005-9 won-loss record, are coached by Rookie Brown, one of the original Harlem Globe Trotters.

Mixing clowning and skill, the Satellites' program includes a half-time show featuring Little Luther, the Dancing Midget, Pepe the Litte Limbo King and the Satellites' Magic Circle.

They have been touring for six years and have lost only nine games. The Satellites are undefeated so far this season.

Tickets are on sale at Special Services, Ft. Carson Bldg. 1640, or at the auditorium box office the night of the game.

Profits will establish a recreational scholarship fund in honor of Estella Gunter Pegues who was in Army Special Services work since World War II. She was cited especially for her outstanding work at Camp Hale, Colo., as the long club worker planning events for the troops, their wives and children.

Bill Kidd Scores Win In Slalom Event at Aspen

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Olympian Bill Kidd scored an easy victory and 19-year-old Wendy Allen was a close but impressive one Saturday in the slalom competition of the annual Roch and Bingham Cup ski races.

Kidd, of Stowe, Vt., awed the spectators by taking his two slalom runs in 1:54.3 to beat the runnerup, Swiss star Stephan Kaelin of Einsedelin, by 3.4 seconds.

Miss Allen, of Mammoth Mountain, Calif., added the slalom victory to her first place in Friday's giant slalom by defeating Pia Riva of Milan, Italy. The winning time of 2:12.7 was only .3 second ahead of Miss Riva's.

In these races, the prize is the combined championship. Performances in the first two races and in Sunday's giant slalom will count toward the trophies—the Roch Cup for men and the Bingham Cup for women.

Miss Allen, with her two victories, appears to have an excellent chance for the combined title if she does well Sunday. She has impressed skiing experts by beating some top international competition including U.S. Olympians and Miss Riva in these races. Miss Allen was not on the Olympic team.

Kidd, a silver medal winner in the Olympics, was seventh in Friday's men's downhill. Gordon Eaton of Littleton, N. H., winner of the downhill, fell on his second slalom run and was disqualified, taking him out of contention for the cup.

Domeng Giovanoli, Sils, Switzerland, who won second place in the Swiss giant slalom championships this year, is in the best position for the Roch Cup. He was runnerup to Eaton in the downhill and was third in Saturday's race.

If he should win the combined title, it will be the first time since 1957 that a foreigner has taken the coveted Roch award. The last to do so was Christian Pravda of Austria, who now skis as a professional for Sun Valley, Idaho.

A tricky slalom course caused half the women's field of 14 skiers to be disqualified or to fail to finish Saturday. Joan Hannah, Franconia, N. H., Olympian who was second in the giant slalom, was among those disqualified.

Snow conditions were good Saturday and the weather was clear. In Friday's opening events, the giant slalom was substituted for the women's downhill because of conditions considered dangerous.

Jean Saubert, Lakeview, Ore., U.S. Olympic star who won all titles in the National Alpine Championships at Winter Park, Colo., last month, is not entered in the Bingham races.

U.S. Olympic Team Training Site

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Olympic basketball team will train for its Tokyo games in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the chairman of the U.S. Basketball Committee, Russ Lyons, said Saturday.

The team will return to the mainland Sept. 20.

Long Breaks Shot Put Record

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dallas Long broke his own world shot-put mark Saturday with a toss of 65 feet 11½ inches. He set the previous mark of 65 feet 10½ inches in 1962.

Long's new mark came in the fifth of six tries at Saturday's meet between the Pasadena (Calif.) Athletic Association and Occidental College.

Cheyenne High News

By DWIGHT LOVE

Eugene Ward, recently appointed student activities director of the Cheyenne Mountain Schools, has been affiliated with the school system since 1955 as science teacher and most recently as the department head of the mathematics and science departments. He also served as head basketball coach for the 1962-63 season and has been assistant track coach for the 1963-64 school year.

Ward was graduated from Norton High School in Kansas in 1943 and received his BS degree from Kansas State in 1950. He was awarded the National Science Fellowship from Colorado State College, Greeley, Colorado in 1960 and completed his Master's graduate work at Colorado College in August, 1962, majoring in science.

Ward and his wife, Margaret, live at 919 Westmoor Drive. They have three children.

Saturday the Girls Athletic Association sponsored the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. The dance was a masquerade and costumes ideas were taken from Al Capp's cartoon strip Lil' Abner. This girl-ask-boy dance was held from 8 to 11 p.m. in the cafeteria. Music for the evening was provided by the Monarchs, the same group which played at the T-Bar in Breckenridge during spring vacation.

Bill Cheesborough, a member of the Champion Spark Plug Safety Team, spoke Thursday to the junior, sophomore, and freshman classes. Cheesborough has been a championship racer at Daytona, Riverside and Indianapolis. The purpose of the lecture was to impress upon young drivers the responsibilities of the road.

Nine members of the Cheyenne Mountain Band traveled to Greeley Thursday to participate in the two-day All-Colorado High School Band. Cheyenne's members composed the largest number taken from any one school in Colorado. Cheyenne's members were: Roberta Bender, clarinet; Tom Brosh, tenor sax; Bill Rhodes, bass clarinet; Ken Gardener, contra-bass clarinet; Tom Long, bassoon; Linda Owens, flute; Don Patterson, trombone. Both Ken Gardener and Don Patterson received first class designation position in their audition.

Senator Claims Correspondence Going to Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who set off the Bobby Baker investigation, protested Friday that somebody is receiving copies of his correspondence with government agencies.

Williams said in a statement which he read in the Senate that "someone in high position" must be responsible for what he called this "highly improper and most unusual procedure."

He declined to be more specific.

It was recalled that several years ago, while he was conducting a one-man campaign against tax collection graft, Williams charged the Internal Revenue Service used lie detectors in an effort to find out which of its employes was leaking information to him.

In Friday's statement Williams said: "For the past several months the various agencies of the government have been sending copies of their answers to my correspondence to the Senate Rules Committee.

"I do not know upon whose orders my correspondence with the agencies is being monitored, however, it must be that someone has more than a casual interest into whatever line of inquiry I may be pursuing."

Williams added that this week he received a letter which had been "cleared with the Senate Rules Committee" before it was sent to him.

"I never heard of such a thing," said L. P. McLendon, special counsel to the committee. "I know nothing about such an incident."

McLendon directed the Rules Committee's investigation into the outside business activities of former Democratic Senate aide Baker. Baker invoked the Fifth Amendment against possible self-incrimination and refused to answer committee questions about how he accumulated a $2 million fortune on a $19,600-a-year salary.

Williams is not a member of the Rules Committee.

Mouse Climbs Cop, Disrupts Court Decorum

ROLLINGSFORD, N.H. (AP) —Hickory, dickory, dock, the mouse ran up the cop—and shook up what had been a fairly routine session in Municipal Court.

Officer Ernest Gagnon leaped to his feet in the midst of a traffic case last week and began slapping his thigh.

"A mouse ran up my leg," he muttered when Judge Ovide Viel cocked a questioning eyebrow.

Attorney Steven Wallace testified he saw the mouse playing around Gagnon's feet shortly before the incident.

While Gagnon was making his explanations to the court, the mouse made its escape.

Underground Site Building Soon to Be Completed

Construction of buildings which will house the North American Air Defense Command's underground combat operations center beneath Cheyenne Mountain here will be completed by the next building project.

Bids on the work are now being studied by the Army Corps of Engineers and the contract probably will be awarded within 30 days. The apparent low bid is nearly $7 million.

The nerve center of the continental aerospace defense system is being built deep inside Cheyenne Mountain near here.

The new project is a continuation of Phase II, which includes the erection of 11 steel buildings mounted on massive steel springs in the cavernous granite chambers.

Phase 11A is designed to put the finishing touches on the construction program, scheduled for completion in early 1965. It will provide a facility ready to accept installation of electronic equipment in the final step. The electronics systems will receive returns from NORAD's and space surveillance networks, display the status of defensive weapons and be used to give warning of pending attack to the continent's defensive and retaliatory forces.

One of the unique features of the underground command post — devices to seal it off from the outside world in case of nuclear attack — will be provided under the new contract.

The complex will be protected by two huge motor-operated blast doors weighing 30,000 pounds each.

Two 11-ton sets of blast valves also will be placed at exhaust and air-supply openings. Sensing devices designed to detect light and pressure waves from a nuclear explosion would cause the valves to close, protecting the center from blast effects.

After being detected by the sensors, the inrushing air would be diverted along a delay path some 150 feet long, which would give the valves time to close. They would automatically reopen when the outside pressure returned to normal.

Other major work under Phase 11A will include installation of exhaust, air-supply and air-conditioning systems, the power system, including two diesel generators, and the electrical distribution system. Miscellaneous rock mining and rock bolting will also be done. A water supply and monitoring system and fuel unloading station will be built above the ground.

The low bid on the project of $6,924,860 was submitted in a joint venture by Grafe-Wallace, Inc., of Denver, Colo. and J. W. Foster Co. of Gary, Ind. Highest of the 10 bids were $10,654,912 and the government estimate $5,487,127.

Estimated cost of the entire underground center has been placed at more than $88 million.

Excavation for the center began in May, 1961, and since then a million tons of granite have been blasted out of the 9,400-foot mountain to form nearly three miles of tunnels and chambers up to 60 feet high.

Working on putting up the buildings, some of them three stories, began early last year. The structures are being mounted on more than 900 coil springs of 22-inch diamater which would protect sensitive electronic equipment against earth-shaking nuclear blasts.

The 11 buildings, connected by flexible vestibules, will provide 170,000 square feet of floor space for the center and its supporting facilities.

According to an estimate by the World Health Organization, there are still 10 million cases of leprosy in existence over the globe.

Fun Night Will Help Finance Pinewood Derby

The recent successful Fun Night in which Cub Packs 46 and 146 combined forces will help finance a Pinewood Derby at the April 21st meeting of Pack 146.

Each cub will build his own five-ounce racing car. There will be prizes for den winners and grand prizes for pack winners.

Money Oldsmobile will sponsor a booth for Pack 146 at the forthcoming Scout-O-Rama. The theme for the booth will be the above-mentioned Pinewood Derby.

In addition to the display of cars, there will be an eight-foot racing ramp so that visitors will be able to see how cubs participate in a Pinewood Derby.

The following dens will demonstrate their cars at the Scout-O-Rama: Mrs. Adamson's den No. 9 on April 29; Mrs. Flanigan's den No. 7 on April 30; Mrs. Dietrich's den No. 6 on May 1; and Mrs. Adair's den No. 3 on May 2.

Mrs. Kenaley and Mrs. We[illegible] of den No. 1 will decorate the booth.

Pack 146 will alsp particapate in the Grand Entry on May 1st.

Submarine Disaster Report Is Prepared

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — A report on the cause of the fatal plunge of the atomic submarine Thresher last year is being prepared for public release, John Conway, executive director of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, said Friday.

The Navy now is deleting classified material from the report, said Conway, and when this is done it will be turned over to the committee for release to the public.

Report Outlines Police Education Programs Here

Educational programs participated in by members of the police department were outlined in a recent report to Chief of Police Cecil J. McKissick from Assistant Chief Oren E. Boling.

During 1963, Boling said, a rookie school was conducted by police officers in which nine men received 140 hours of training in basic fundamentals of police work.

In April, 27 members of the department atteded a four-hour session on "Police Workshop and Mental Health." A training session dealing with the preservation of evidence through the use of photography was conducted in May.

Two training sessions in June dealt with disaster control and training on speed and skid marks.

An in-service training program for the entire year of 1963 covered all phases of police work, traffic, patrol and investigation. Six officers received 1,900 hours of training under the program.

One officer attended a six-week course at Northwestern University traffic Institute and another attended the University of Southern California for a 12-week period, studying juvenile delinquency control.

Carson Initiates New Suggestion Trophy Award

A new award has been initiated by the Ft. Carson Incentive Awards Committee to mark the 10th anniversary of the program. Maj. Ronald Roney, chairman of the committee, says a trophy will now be awarded to the military man making the best suggestion of the month.

The trophy will be additional recognition to servicemen for suggestions that are adopted. Other means of recognition include small monetary awards for the top three proposals and letters of appreciation and commendation.

Plaques and monetary awards are made to civilian employees.

During the March meeting of the committee, 69 suggestions were evaluated. Approval was given 22 proposals with awards totaling $921. Thirteen were forwarded to higher headquarters and 34 were rejected for lack of originality or impracticality.

National observance of the 10th anniversary of the Incentive Awards Program will be climaxed November 30 with presentation of awards in Washington, D. C.

Categories considered for the awards are cost reduction, increased production, method improvement, man-hour savings and advancement of agency missions.

Retail sales of toys topped the $2 billion mark in 1963 to set a new record, up from $1.7 billion the previous year.

WELCOMED — Fred F. Stegner, a local photographer, welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bowman of Chicago upon their arrival at the Broadmoor Hotel. Juilan Huxley To Speak at CU Center

Sir Julian Huxley, English biologist, philosopher and author, will speak on "The Humanist Revolution" at 8 p.m. Monday in the ballroom of the University of Colorado Memorial Center.

Huxley's free public talk will be sponsored by the CU student government.

Huxley, educated at Eton and Oxford, was appointed professor of zoology in King's College at the University of London in 1925. His brother was the late Aldous Huxley, and his ancestors include T.H. Huxley and Matthew Arnold.

From 1946 to 1948 Huxley served as director general of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

In 1953 he was awarded the UNESCO Kalinga Prize for distinguished popular writing in science.

Among Huxley's many books are "Knowledge, Morality and Destiny" and "Man in the Modern World," "An Eminent Scientist Looks at Life Today."

There are no public lands in Hawaii, according to the Bureau of Land Management of the Interior Department.

Shakespearean Lecture Set For Palmer High

In connection with the quadricentennial Shakespearean Festival, Miss Barbara Reynolds will give an illustrated lecture April 13, 1964, at 3 p.m. in the Palmer High auditorium. Admission is free and open to the public. The title of Miss Reynolds' lecture is "Literature of England, Greece, and Rome."

Having spent the summer of 1963 visiting various European countries, Miss Reynolds has collected many slides.

These slides will show many of the places where literature was developed in Greece, Rome, England. Miss Reynolds will begin her lecture by discussing the literature of Greece and Rome. She will end her lecture with the slides and discussion of "Shakespeare's England." Among her slides will be pictures of Stratford on Avon. Miss Reynolds is an English teacher at Palmer High School.

'I Found Him First,' Official Note Claims

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Some serious business is being conducted on the floor of Virginia's model general assembly, a high school version of the state legislative session.

Also there occasionally is a bit of levity.

A girl delegate in the assembly summoned a page Friday and requested speedy delivery of a note to a colleague.

Said the note:

"Stop writing notes to Charlie. I found him first."

AFA Laboratories Open to Public Sunday

Colorado Springs, Denver and Pueblo area residents will have a rare opportunity to inspect laboratories in Fairchild Hall, Air Force Academy classroom building, Sunday.

The annual Cadet Engineering Society open house, from 1 to 5 p.m., will feature displays and demonstrations in Fairchild Hall and the adjacent Aeronautics Laboratory wind tunnel.

Fairchild Hall facilities are open to the public only during the engineering society event and June Week.

Visitors should watch for signs on roads from the north and south gates to lead them to the Fairchild area. Parking is available at the south end of the buildings.

Guides will direct visitors to display areas on the second floor.

High School students interested in engineering are issued a special invitation to attend.

Equipment and cadets' experiments will be on display in the Astronautics, Aeronautics, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering laboratories.

Demonstrations of the digital and analog computers are also scheduled.

Cadets in charge of the open house are Cadet First Class Richard Ellis and Cadet Second Class Patrick McDaniel.

American Legion Names Chairman For Student Day

Adjutant Joe Siegel of the American Legion has been named chairman of El Paso County's annual observance of Student County Government Day. This year it will be held on May 1st, the anniversary of International Communism's infamous May Day.

Almost 200 outstanding Junior Class students selected from high schools all over El Paso County, will assemble at 8:30 a. m. at the County Office Building for a full day of interesting activities aimed at acquainting them with the functions of our government on the county level.

Significantly, May Day was chosen in order to emphasize the differences between the operation of our constitutional republic versus the Communist dictatorships.

The program will begin with a guided tour of all county government facilities, and will include an actual immigrant naturalization ceremony, and a moot trial in Judge Simon's court.

Free lunch will be served at the Legion Hut. The program will be highlighted with addresses by Maj. John Keeler of the Air Force Academy Information Office and Paul Jasa, an escape from Communist Czechoslovakia and former government counsellor for American Escapee Program in Europe.

Colorado Springs Post 5 of the American Legion each year contributes all expenses to send 8 selected high school Junior boys to the University of Colorado campus at Boulder for the annual week-long Boys' State seminar. These eight students will be elected by the student group present at County Government Day and will be addressed briefly by Cadet Thomas Munch of the Air Force Academy, himself a former Boys Stater.

Local Artists To Attend Convention

A number of Colorado Springs artists plan to attend the convention of the National Artists Equity Assn., Inc., Friday through Sunday at the Park Lane Hotel in Denver, according to Tabor Utley, Colorado Springs, president of the local chapter.

At a recent meeting, Earle Gardner was elected treasurer and Verna Jean Morran, secretary.

Utley said that members include: Edgar Britton, Margaret Britton, Ernestine Parsons, Vincent O'Brien, Anna Bacchi, Giorgio Bacchi, Bernard Arnest, Walter Weese, Sara Uffelman, Eva Schubart, Mildred Scott, Walter Wilson, Eric Brandsby, Frank Train, Elise Train, Heidi Brandt, Louise Geer, Goldie Stewart.

Utley explained the local chapter holds monthly meetings in homes of the members for discussion of problems of art and artists.

The national convention has announced a two-point program for discussion:

1. National arts legislation and a proposed national "Council on the Arts."

2. Artists Equity's role in communities across the country.

A press release from the national group explained that the group was founded in 1947, and is non-political, aesthetically non-partisan organization representing the professional fine artists of the United States, formed to further the economic interest of painters, sculptors and graphic artists and give strength and effectiveness to their united professional aims.

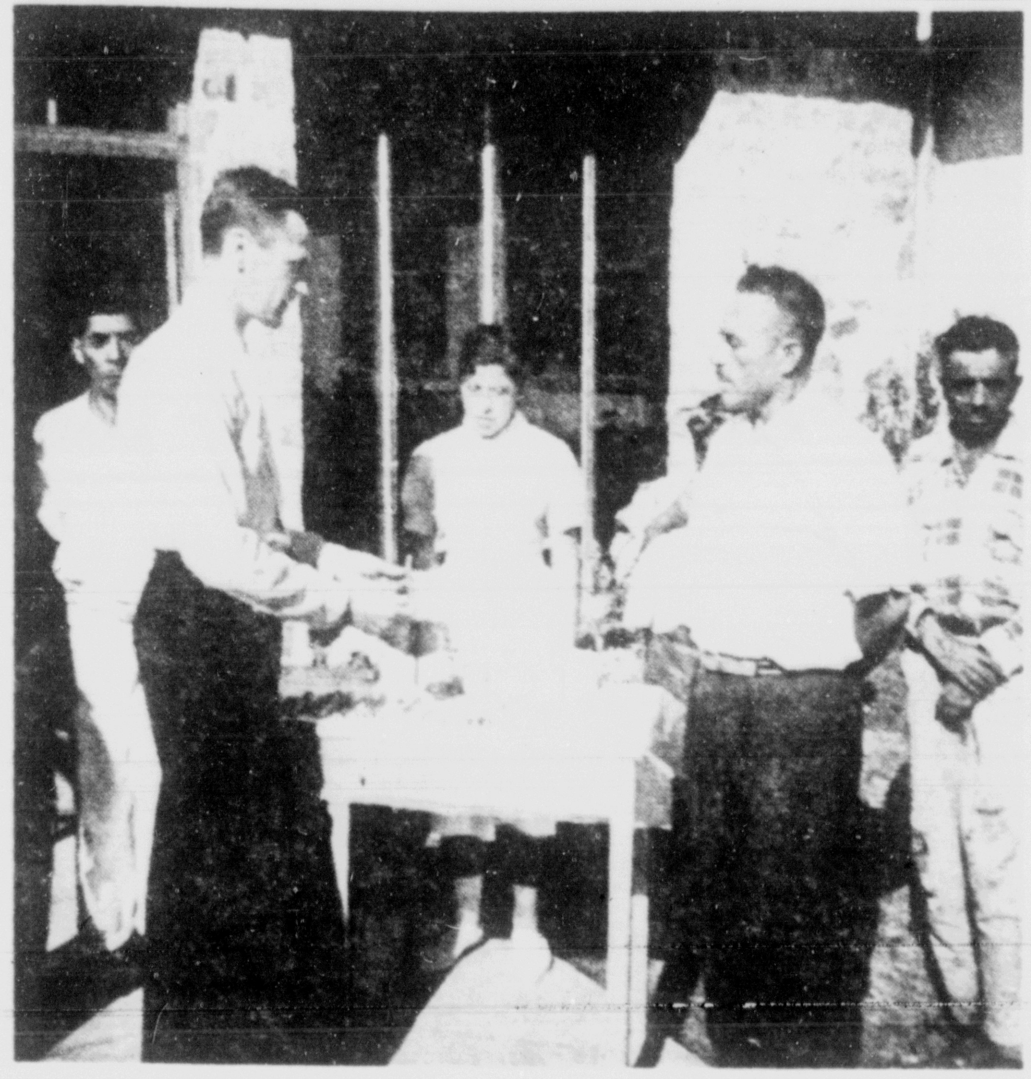
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
COLORADO SPRINGS—SUNDAY, APRIL 5, 1964 SECTION F



WELCOME GIFT — Alcalde (mayor) of Jacaltenango, Guatamala, is shown accepting gift of dental equipment from Dr. James M. Wambach, (left) Colorado Springs Dentist. Dr. Wambach recently went to the isolated Guatamalan mountain village to give his services in treating the Indians at the Maryknoll Mission.

OPEN WIDE — This young Indian girl obediently opens her mouth so Dr. James M. Wambach, Colorado Springs, dentist can examine her teeth ,while her mother and younger brother look on. In the background is a Catholic mission church, established in 1900, which the Maryknoll order reopened 20 years ago.

Springs Dentist Treats Guatamalian Indians

By BYRON AKERS

If a tooth aches, you go to a dentist. You do, if you live in the United States where expert dental care is readily available.

But if you're a Guatamalan Indian, living in one of the remote mountain valleys, relief is not that simple. In fact, there isn't any relief from a sore and aching tooth. It's something to live with. Dentists with their specialized skill and training and scientific equipment are unknown.

So it was no wonder that Dr. James M. Wambach, Colorado Springs dentist, found himself welcome recently when he arrived at Jacaltenango, a village deep in the Guatamalan mountains.

"The Indians were happy to get infected teeth out, and especially happy over the relief from pain," Dr. Wambach commented on his return home the other day.

"I didn't keep any statistics but I probably performed 100 extractions every day for 14 working days. The average patient had from a couple to a dozen abscessed teeth.

"Conditions and equipment did not permit anything except treatment of infection and pain. Such things as filling cavities and saving decaying teeth are matters for the future."

Dr. Wambach volunteered his services to the Maryknoll Mission, headquartered at Jacaltenango. This catholic order seeks to achieve material progress and well being and spiritual understanding among 75,000 scattered in 40 small villages over a 20 by 30 mile area.

The Colorado Springs dentist spent two weeks helping the Indians with their dental troubles. In all he was away from his own practice three weeks. He paid his own transportation costs and other expenses.

Colorado Springs and Guatamala City, capital of the Central American country, are only nine hours apart by jet. From the capital to Jacaltenango required a day's travel — a few minutes by DC-3 plane to Huehuetanango, a half day of jeep travel up a mountain range, and a half day more on horseback.

"Ninety per cent are of pure Indian blood," Dr. Wambach said. "They have little contact with civilization and live under primitive conditions.

"Few ever travel farther than 20 miles from their home village in a lifetime, although some of the men are migrant workers and range farther.

"Many of the Indians are friendly and co-operative, eager for education and anxious to join civilizatin. The Maryknoll Mission endeavors to help these Indians. Others are satisfied with their own way of life and culture. Progress holds no lure to them."

Isolated by lowland jungle and mountain range, Jacaltenango overlooks a tropical valley. Above the little town lies the high country where the climate is mild, averaging 65 degrees, and tropical growth gives way to pines. Overcutting has reduced the high-land timber to such an extent the government now prohibits tree cutting.

"Jacaltenango was the site of a Catholic mission as far back as 1700," the dentist said. "Then it lay abandoned for generations. Twenty years ago the Maryknoll order re-established the mission.

"Now its staff consists of Father Dennis Kraus, two priests who ride circuit among the 40 outlying villages much in the manner of the pioneer circuit riders of the old West, and four nuns. One nun is a teacher. Another is a nurse, and two are physicians."

The mission started construction of a small hospital two and a half years ago, using Indians for labor under supervision of the missionaries.

Maryknoll brothers with special skills are brought in from time to time to perform specialized work. One, for example, is an expert on diesel power. He has been installing a diesel-powered generator to provide electricity.

"When the hospital was started," Dr. Wambach said, "contact was made with the Detroit Physicians Guild, with the result that short-term medical help is available. Doctors come to the mission for a month at a time. Occasionally they are accompanied by their wives who have nursing training."

Dr. Wambach said he became interested in the Maryknoll program for the Guatamalan Indians a year and a half ago when he read an article about the order's work and its needs in the Catholic Register. He volunteered his services and made his first trip then. His latest donation of professional services to the Indians was his second.

This time he carried three sets of instruments, including forceps, anesthesia, pre-sterilized needles and other equipment. Two of the sets were second-hand, and one was new. The latter was given to the hospital. The other sets will be used by public health nurses who are native girls being trained at the mission hospital to serve as practical nurses in the outlying villages.

"Purchase of the equipment was made possible by funds donated by the Colorado Springs Rotary and Centennial Sertoma clubs," Dr. Wambach said. "Dr. Edward McDonald, a fellow dentist here, was instrumental in getting the support of the Sertomas. With that fund I was able to purchase the equipment from dental supply firms."

The generally held belief that primitive peoples have few dental woes does not hold true with the Guatamalan Indians, according to Dr. Wambach.

"I found natives, by the age of 15, had half their teeth gone. The teeth were decayed to the gum line. Painfully infected teeth were common.

"The reason is malnutrition. The Indians' diet consists of tortillas, beans and sugar cane. They drink a combination ofbo- They drink a combination of which is very sweet. This excess of sweets in the diet causes rapid decay."

Corn, the Indians staple food, was attracting scientific interest when Dr. Wambach was in Guatamala. He was in Huehuetenango at the same time as Henry Wallace, one-time secretary of agriculture and an authority on hybrid corn. Wallace was seeking ways to improve the Indian corn, and at the same time getting some ideas for possible application in developing new strains of hybrid corn.

Carson Air Group To Take Part in Combat Operation

The 5th Aviation Battalion, 5th Infantry Division (Mech), Ft. Carson, will take part in an Operation at the Combat Development Experimental Center beginning Tuesday at Hunter-Liggett Field, Ft. Ord, Calif. About 100 men from Ft. Carson will be in the 30-day exercise in preparation for Desert Strike.

Ground crews for the operation are scheduled to arrive at Ft. Ord Saturday evening after a five-day motor march from the Mountain Post.

The maneuver will involve evatuation of the conduct of air mobility operations. The crews will work on combat formations of aerial training with UH 1-B helicopters.

Fifth Aviation Battalion is conducting the exercise with 20 choppers borrowed from Fort Bragg's 82d Airborne. The entire 5th Aviation Airmobile Company of 24 officers, 75 enlisted men and 24 vehicles will take part.

After the exercise the fliers will move to the Colorado River area to join in Exercise Desert Strike.

Air Force Council Head Attends Meeting

W. S. McPherson, chairman of the Colorado Springs Air Force Assn. Civilian Employees Council, recently attended the national AFA Civilian Personnel Council meeting in Washington, D. C.

McPherson, Ent Air Force Base civilian personnel officer, made a brief presentation on reimbursement of life and accident insurance premiums for civilians traveling by non-sked military air on TDY.

The consensus of the Council was that this proposal had considerable merit but should be expanded to include all TDY air travel since industry makes such allowances.

Chairman Nicholas E. Allen congratulated the Colorado Springs Squadron for being the only AFA unit to send a representative to the meeting.

The AFA Civilian Personnel Council was organized to represent those in mufti who are essential to the successful accomplishment of the Air Force missions.

The Council's objectives include, but are not limited to, recommended policies which promote the effective utilization of civilian employees, establishing programs to recognize outstanding employees and promoting greater understanding between civilian employees and uniformed members.

Goodwill Sets Date for Annual Drive

Goodwill Industries of Colorado Springs will conduct its annual drive for repairable discards of clothing, shoes and small electrical appliances from April 13 to April 17 at Ft. Carson. Maj. Leslie B. Miller of Special Troops is project officer.

Ft. Carson Boy Scouts will deliver Goodwill bags to every home on the reservation on Friday, April 10. Those who wish to contribute larger items may call Major Miller or Major James Rogan at Ext 2137 or Ext 734 for pickup arrangements.

Miliary and civilian personnel will copperate in the drive said Maj. Miller.

Discards, which provide employment for 45 handicapped persons at the Goodwill Sheltered Workshop, 2307 West Colorado Avenue, can be brought to the Community Center, Building 6049, during the drive. Previous drives at Fort Carson have been successful and this years crusade should prove no exception, according to Maj. Miller.

Goodwill Industries, in its program of providing employment for the physically handicapped, the mentally retarded and the emotionally disturbed, will repair anything with any remaining utility and sell it at one of its three stores in Colorado Springs.

Proceeds go into payrolls for persons who cannot obtain employment anywhere or who temporarily need inspiration that comes with being self-supporting and independent of charity.

Kenneth Olson, Goodwill executive director, commented: "We are 97 per cent self-supporting, 100 per cent so in our daily operations. The 3 per cent deficit comes from capital expenditures. Voluntary contributions make up this deficit."

Goodwill Industries of Colorado Springs is not an agency of the United Fund. Olson said that "while Goodwill's revenues come primarily from selling reconditioned discards, our business is not selling used merchandise; we are in business to serve and train handicapped people."

Goodwill offers employment and training in the areas of shoe repair, garment repair, electrical repair, furniture repair and refinishing, doll repair, cleaning and pressing, sorting, transporation, salvage operations, office procedure, merchandising, pricing and building maintenance.

Training is offered the handicapped in these fields with a goal of employment in normal industry.

All clothing shoes, and household appliances are reconditioned and cleaned at the sheltered workshop by the handicapped before they are placed on sale to the public.

Carson Teams Begin Issue of Car Stickers

Reregistration of private motor vehicles at Ft. Carson has started with teams going to units to issue the 1964 stickers.

Provost Marshal Lt. Col. George G. Cook says issuance of the bumper stickers has been completed for the commanding general's staff, First Brigade Headquaters and First Battalion, 10th Infantry.

Approximately 12,000 vehicles must be registered by May. The bumper stickers cost 60 cents for renewal.

All vehicles operated on post must be registered. Requirements include minimum liability insurance of $5,000, $10,000 and $1,000; valid state drivers license; valid state registration and completion of Forms FC 24 and DD1409.

The registration teams will go to the units and process both military and civilian personnel. Owners of commercial vehicles operated on post can renew registration in building 6050 after April 1.

Black Forest Road to Be Closed Monday

Black Forest Road or Highway 189 as it is officially designated, will be closed for periods of time up to one hour beginning Monday at 9 a.m.

The County Highway Department is going to set pre-stressed concrete beams on a new bridge located one mile north of Long's Corner, near Cowpoke Road.

Motorists traveling toward Black Forest from Colorado Springs Monday are urged to use Burgess Road and State Highway 83 to reach the forest area.

The bridge has been under construction since last December and actually replaces three bridges crossing Cottonwood Creek. Part of the project includes changing the grade from small hills to line of sight. It also includes relocation of the creek's channel.

The bridge is expected to be completed about April 25, according to Charles Smith, county road commissioner.

Wasson Twirler To Judge Texas Contest

Colorado Springs Youth Goodwill Ambassador Kenneth Jay Burrett, 19 as of today, Wasson High School Jr. and T Bird Band Feature Twirler, left Friday night for El Paso Tex. by plane, sponsored by the Optimist Club.

The Goodwill Ambassador was at the World Twirling Association Contest as chief judge at the National Open Spring Texas Contest, Saturday.

Today he is entered an AAU National Open Contest for his last time.

On Monday he will try out for the Music Scholarship at Texas Western College. The scholarship is one of the largest and he is in the top running. It consists of grades and high school activities.

Ken entered his last WTA Contest in Denver last week placing against girls and boys Sr. Champ Military Dress, Sr. Champ Non Military Dress, Reserve Champ Military Strut, Sr. Reserve Champ Fancy Strut, and Sr. Reserve Champion Solo. Also received the Reserve Grand Champion Award of the entire contest.

He has pushed his awards to 64 trophies and 145 medals to date.

Plans are now being made for the summer tour of the Youth Goodwill Ambassador at this time.

Gen. Duff Will Address Carson NCO Graduates

Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, ARADCOM commander, will address the graduates of Ft. Carson's Noncommissioned Officers Academy Tuesday ceremonies. Gen. Duff is the first off-post speaker for an academy graduation. He commands Army Air Defense Command with headquarters in Colorado Springs.

The ceremonies will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Cheyenne Shadows Service Club at Ft. Carson.

Several men from ARADCOM are among 33 members of the graduating class.

Honor graduate is A1C Billy L. Richard, 5th Division, air liaison communications technician to Lt. Col. Clyde Strain. Richard is the first airman to earn top graduate honors. He had three years in the Army before enlisting in the Air Force 20 months ago.

Adult Classes Have Student Openings

Evening classes for adults operated by the Colorado Springs Public Schools which began earlier this week still have openings for additional students in many courses, according to John L. Cameron, director of adult education. Persons who desire to enroll may do so at the second "class meeting" as indicated below.

Monday: ABC shorthand review, woodworking, bookkeeping, mathematics, Gregg shorthand I and III.

Tuesday: high school refresher, English, conversational Spanish, Typing I and II.

Registration for each of the above classes will be held at 7:00 p.m. on the indicated night at 406 N. Weber St. For additional information call 622-7797.

Overcrowding Noted In Schools of Utah

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Education Association said in a 101-page report today that Utah's schools are plagued by overcrowding, inadequate facilities and a shortage of competent teachers.

It suggests that the state of Utah should be completing an 18-classroom school every week for the next four years.

The report is the result of a study launched by the NEA last summer after the Utah Education Association asked it to impose sanctions against the state as a means of forcing it to provide a better educational system.

Utah's 10,000 school teachers refused for months to sign contracts for the 1963-64 school year.

The NEA report is critical of virtually every aspect of the state's school system and urges "legislation that will ensure prompt improvement of conditions in Utah schools."

50,000-MILE TALK — Sketch shows 50,000-mile circuit which carried the conversation between Col. Erling J. Foss at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., and Lt. Col. Charles L. Bachtel at Army Air Defense Command headquarters, via the SYNCOM II satellite.

(Army Sketch by Brian McGrath.)

Conversation Held Via Satellite Syncom II

COL. ERLING FOSS

COL. CHARLES BACHTEL

A telephone call received at Army Air Defense Command headquarters by Lt. Col. Charles L. Bachtel, ARADCOM's deputy Signal officer, convinced him this week that satellite communication is here to stay.

Col. Bachtel lifted the phone for what he believed to be a routine phone call. The voice at the other end of the line was his ex-boss, Col. Erling J. Foss, former ARADCOM Signal officer, now a student at the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

But instead of coming over the usual 1500-mile circuit, the voice of Foss was coming via SYNCOM II, the world's first synchronous orbit communications satellite. The two men were talking on a 50,000-mile hook-up—covering a distance equal to two times around the world.

Col. Foss was taking part in a demonstration of the Army's Satellite Communications (SATCOM) Agency's new transportable satellite communications terminal, which can reach thousands of miles into space to orbiting or stationary satellites and back again to earth.

The call travelled from Pennsylvania to SYNCOM—positioned in a near stationary orbit 22,300 miles over the Atlantic Ocean near Brazil along the 8 Equator—and then back to earth at Camp Roberts, Calif. Then it was relayed by way of a microwave radio circuit to Camp Davis, Calif., and on to ARADCOM headquarters on a SCAN (Switched Communications Army Network) land-line circuit.

SYNCOM II was launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration July 26, 1963. at its altitude of 22,300 miles all gravitational forces from the earth as well as from celestial bodies are the same, thus leaving the satellite in a stationary position.

Considerable success has already been achieved in overseas communications experiments using the SYNCOM satellite as a relay station for high quality voice, Teletype and facsimile transmissions between continental United States ground stations and the overseas-based shipboard terminal, the U.S.N.S. Kingsport. Current tests now also employ U.S.-based fixed and transportable ground stations at Ft. Dix, N. J., Lakehurst, N. J., and Camp Roberts.

The equipment used by Col. Foss at Carlisle Barracks was designed to communicate with NASA's SYNCOM II and other future satellites.

NASA is speeding preparations for launching SYNCOM III this summer over the Pacific to make possible telecasts of the Olympics in Japan next fall. SYNCOM I was lost when its rocket booster exploded after launch.

The new land-based terminal, known as the Mark IV (X) Transportable Communications Link Terminal, was produced by Hughes Aircraft Co., the same company that developed the SYNCOM satellites. The terminal, still in the experimental stage, consists of a 15-foot, air-inflated parabolic antenna, a control and equipment shelter, and a 15-kilowatt trailermounted generator.

The entire terminal facility, in addition to being ground-transportable, is air-transportable by C-130 Hercules and other transport aircraft. Demonstrations have been conducted for the U.S. STRIKE Command at McDill Air Force Base, Fla.

The ultimate goal of the program is to provide a highly flexible, transportable, satellite communications ground terminal for tactical military use.

Through the precision-positioned synchronous satellite and link with transportable ground terminal stations U.S. military forces could employ continuous worldwide communications in all except polar regions. Such a system would overcome the long stretches of ocean areas which previously preclude use of relays, and the system would provide a long-range communications capability in underdeveloped areas of the world where communication facilities are either primitive or nonexistant.

In addition to a demonstrated potential for continuous high-quality voice and visual transmissions, the satellite communications system holds out the promise of money savings through elimination of unnecessary installations and maintenance of many miles of cable and ground relay and terminal stations required for conventional land-based systems.

Colonel Bachtel was asked whether he was surprised to receive a 50,000-mile call via a satellite.

"Well, yes," he replied. Then he added quickly:

"But considering the work we perform here and the speed with which things move along today, I really shouldn't be surprised, should I?"

Students Will Grapple With UN Problems

Some 226 of Colorado's brightest high school students will grapple with giant problems their elders have failed to solve at the 8th annual CSC Model Nations at Colorado State College April 10-11.

From 27 different high schools in all parts of the state, top students who have spent weeks studying the problems before the UN will converge on CSC for the two day affair.

The Model UN is a copy of the real thing from the parliamentary rules in use to the practice of bloc caucuses, according to Dr. Dean Arnold, CSC historian and director of the affair.

Three big topics will absorb the attention of the delegates who will represent 110 nations. Debate topic one concerns the question of disarmament and denuclearization of the Polish People's Republic, the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic, the German Democratic Republic, the German Democratic Republic, and the German Federal Republic.

The second debate topic is the very topical one of whether member nations who fail to pay their dues to the UN should lose their votes in the General Assembly. This fall the question will be one of the most explosive before the real UN when the Soviet Union's failure to pay for UN operations in the Congo and elsewhere comes under review.

The third topic is a proposal for a permanent UN police force representing several nations with a permanent headquarters staff at the seat of the organization in New York.

Each delegate is required to study carefully the positions of the country he will represent on one or more world issues. He must also understand the views held by other countries on these issues, and be ready to defend and, sometimes, to modify his position in public debate.

Each delegate is expected to deliver a prepared speech at a plenary meeting and in a bloc caucus. He may find it necessary to undertake informal negotiations to rally support.

Officers of this year's Model UN include Clara Giraro, president, Broomfield High School; John Staby, secretary-general, Brush High School; Steve Sharp, executive assistant, Adams City High School.

The event will be conducted in the CSC student ballroom. Registration will be held in the Panel Lounge of the student Union building at the Greeley campus.

Russians Toss Three Faithfuls Out of Party

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda said Saturday former premier Georgi Malenkov; former premier and foreign minister V. M. Molotov, and former first deputy premier Lazar Kaganovich, have been expelled from the Communist party.

Molotov, in particular, was an old-line Stalinist and believed to be a supporter of the Chinese Reds in the current battle between Premier Khrushchev and Peking.

Malenkov and Kaganovich were accused of crimes against the people during the Stalinist era.

AA to Meet in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An international conference of Alcoholics Anonymous will be held in Mexico late this year, an announcement said, bringing delegates from the United States, Canada and Central America.

MAJ. EDWARD FITES

Army Officer Receives Medals At Retirement

Maj. Edward A. Fites, whose retirement from the Army became effective on Mar. 31, was awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Army Commendation Medal for duty at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs, his final assignment.

He was an electronics engineer in the Combat Developments Divison of the G-3 (Operations and Training) Section.

The Oak Leaf Cluster represents a second award of the medal to Major Fites.

Presentation of the award was made by Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, ARADCOM's commanding general.

Maj. Fites completed 24 years of duty, including Marine service during World War II. He was in North Atlantic convoy operations, then saw combat in the Marshall Islands, Guam, and Okinawa campaigns.

He also served four years with the Navy guided missile program, first at the Applied Physics Laboratory of Johns Hopkins University, then with the 1st Provisional Marine Guided Missile Battalion at China Lake, Calif.

He joined the Army in 1957. Among his Army assignments he was an instructor and staff member for three years at the Ordnance Guided missile School, Redstone Arsenal, Ala.

Major Fites came to ARADCOM headquarters in 1962.

He and his family—his wife and four children—will live in Littleton.

He will be with the Denver Research Institute, which is connected with Denver University.

German Measles On the Increase In State

Colorado, as well as other sections of the United States, is continuing to have a marked increase in the number of reported cases of German measles, according to Dr. Cecil S. Mollohan, Chief of the Epidemiology Section of the Colorado State Department of Public Health.

There have been 2,152 cases of rubella, commonly called German measles, reported as of Monday compared to 330 cases at the same time last year.

Dr. Mollohan stated that the number of cases in young adults is unusually high in this outbreak in contrast to the unusual assumption that German measles is a "children's disease." Reports of polyarthritis, or discomfort in several joints, especially of the arms and shoulders is also unusual, but this complaint is of short duration.

The polyarthritis of rubella is not to be confused with chronic arthritis, which is long-lasting or results in deformed joints or the joint inflammation occurring in rheumatic fever.

The number of cases is leveling off in a pleateau and it is anticipated the number of cases reported for the next few weeks will average about 150-200 per week with a gradual decrease in the number of cases, unless new outbreaks occur in areas of the State which have not reported a rise to date.

The State Health Department recommends a physician be called if a member of the family shows a rash beignning on the face and neck with rapid progression to the trunk, arms, legs and feet and a slight fever.

Pregnant women are urged to contact their physician if there has been exposure to a known case or if the above symptoms appear, as an attack of German measles can result in complications in the pregnancy.

Federal Tax Tips

By ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

INVESTMENT TAX CREDIT

A 7 per cent credit against your federal income tax is allowed on the acquisition of certain new and used property (personal), such as machinery, equipment, trucks, etc. The credit is allowed only for the first year that the property is placed in use. The credit should always be claimed because the basis or cost of the property for depreciation purposes must be reduced by the credit even though it is not claimed.

The portion of the cost of the property that qualifies for the investment tax credit depends upon the estimated useful life of the property as used for depreciation purposes. The following schedule sets forth the portion of cost that must be taken into account in computing the tax credit:

Estimated useful life less than 4 years, portion of cost that qualifies none.

Estimated useful life at least 4 years but less than 6 years, portion of cost that qualifies 33 1-3 per cent:

Estimated useful life at least 6 years but less than 8 years, portion of cost that qualifies 66 2-3 per cent.

Estimated useful life 8 years or over, portion of cost that qualifies 100 per cent.

The investment tax credit may not exceed your tax liability and if your tax liability exceeds $25,000.00, the credit may not exceed $25,000.00 plus 25 per cent of your liability over $25,000.00. That portion of the tax credit which is not applied as a credit because of imitations may be carried back three years (but only to years ending after 1961) and carried over five years.

The recapture provisions of the investment tax credit apply when the property is disposed of before the end of its estimated useful life. Your tax for the year of disposal will be increased by the difference between the credit originally allowed and the credit that would have been allowed if your computation had been based on the number of years that you actually owned the property.

For further information on this subject it is suggested that you acquire either "Your Federal Income Tax, 1964 Edition", or "Tax Guide for Small Business", both available at our local office at 521 South Tejon St. at a cost of 40 cents each.

For a quick answer to your tax questions call 636-5171.

STEELE SCHOOL

3219 W. FONTANERO

Living room, dining nook and kitchen are comfortably interconnected, yet divided . . . . The ceiling-suspended cabinets over an open kitchen bar act as a divider from the dining nook, with a handy pass-thru for lighten meal serving. Family bath is convenient to the three bedrooms, and master bedroom has private half bath with extra linen storage. Large bedroom closets, ceiling to floor linen closet and handy broom closet. Hide-a-way guest closet.

Comfort and family unity were designed into this tri-level home plan to provide the best possible use of space. At the garden level is the basic family-social area, with its pleasant living room and perfectly arranged kitchen and dining nook. It is separated by a few steps down from the activities in the recreation room at the lower level — which has its own bath and a fourth bedroom with large closet. The rec room is also accessible from the outside through the garage.

People of Colorado Springs,
Colorado Springs, Colorado

Dear Friends;

It's with pride and enthusiasm that I cordially invite you to visit us in the fast growing "east" Colorado Springs.

Over the past years we have developed a product which we have found appeals to the practical home buyer. We have produced houses of various styles and floor plans and many of which are ready to move into at this time.

We have taken the best in materials and employed the best craftsmen in Colorado Springs to construct these homes. We do not offer any construction, promotion or sales gimics to you the home buyer, however, you'll find us to be realistic in price as well as construction methods and planning.

We feel that you as residence of Colorado Springs owe it to yourself to come and see what's happening to your city. We're sure that you'll be pleased with the growth you will see.

Sincerely,
Nick Scandaliato

Students Will Exhibit Projects At Science Fair

Ten area students will exhibit projects Friday and Saturday at the Colorado-Wyoming Bi-State Science Fair hosted by the National Bureau of Standards in Boulder.

All are winners in regional science fairs in Colorado and Wyoming.

Senior high school students and titles of their exhibits follow: John Files, Wasson High School, "A New Slant on Graphing;" Tom MacIver, Wasson High School, "The Analytic Principles of the Paraboloid of Revolution."

Donald D. Miller, Wasson High School, "Low Velocity Boundary Layer Studies;" Richard Patrick Porreco, Wasson High School, "Variations in the Earth's Magnetic Field."

Students in the junior high division are: Carmen Mary Anaya, St. Joseph's Convent High, "A System Without Numbers;" George F. Edwards, Watson Junior High, Security, "The Principles of a Digital Computer."

Toby Kircher, North Junior High, "Effects of Inorganic Ion on the Heartbeat of a Frog;" Christina Marie Orff, St. Joseph's Convent High, "Number Basis;" Bill Pearce, Cheyenne Mountain High, "Chemicals and Cells;" and Johnie Tamara, West Junior High, "Modified Theodolite."

Projects of the senior high division will be exhibited at the Bureau of Standards Building; those of the junior high division will be exhibited at the Base Line Junior High School.

Two winners will be selected from the senior division to compete in the National-International Science Fair May 6-9 in Baltimore, Md.

In both the junior and senior high events, the exhibit categories are mathematics, biology and physical science. There will be recognition of first, second, third, and honorable mention achievement in each of the categories of the junior and senior divisions.

Exhibits for entry in the National-International Science Fair will be the two judged outstanding in the over-all senior high competition.

There will also be a large number of awards by professional groups for good projects in specialized areas of mathematics, biology, and physics.

The Colorado-Wyoming Science Fair is sponsored by the Colorado Engineering Council, Colorado Dental Association, Colorado Medical Society, Colorado-Wyoming Academy of Science, and the Wyoming Medical Society.

Charles L. Bragaw of the NBS Boulder Laboratories will serve as director for this ninth consecutive Bi-State Fair.

Exhibits will be placed and judged April 10. The Fair will be open to the public from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. April 11.

New Ambassador to Panama Is Appointed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Saturday that the new ambassador to Panama will be Jack Hood Vaughn, director for the Peace Corps in Latin America.

The President announced the selection, which had been forecast in advance, at a news conference a short time after the United States and Panama restored diplomatic relations broken off in January.

ARADCOM CHANGING BOUNDARIES — In a move to equalize the burden of supervisory control over Army Air Defense Command (ARADCOM) missile units in the east half of the nation, ARADCOM will realign boundaries of its 1st and 5th Regions July 1. Shaded area in top map will be ceded by 1st Region, ARADCOM, with headquarters at Ft. Totten, N.Y., to 5th Region, headquarters at Ft. Sheridan, Ill. The 5th Region will gain Army missile defenses made available to the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) throughout the 32nd NORAD Region, including units helping to shield Robins and Turner Air Force Bases in Georgia and the Miami-Homestead AFB and Key West areas of Florida. Involved are Nike Hercules and Hawk missile units under the Army's 53rd Air Defense Artillery Brigade, with headquarters at Montgomery, Ala. Small map of United States shows boundaries of all ARADCOM regions as they will be July 1.

Weekly Sues MST&T Charges Business Loss

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — A Jefferson County weekly newspaper filed a $500,000 lawsuit against Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. here charging loss of business.

The complaint was signed by Richard Hilker, editor and general manager of the Jefferson County Sentinel.

Hilker charged that the telephone company had been contracting purchasers of classified advertisements who have phone numbers listed in his newspaper.

He said that the telephone representative then directs the advertiser to pay business phone rates rather than private or residential rates, or cease advertising in the classified section.

Hilker said this has caused a substantial loss of income.

The telephone company charges $6.20 per month for a residential private line and $17.30 monthly for an unlimited business telephone.

Hilker charged that one of the advertisers contacted was a cleaning woman and another a person who does ironing in her own home.

The Sentinel is seeking $250,000 actual damages, $250,000 exemplary damages and a temporary restraining order barring telephone company agents from contacting classified purchasers pending a court hearing in the case.

ASSIGNED — Capt. Fred H. Olson has been assigned to the G-3 (Operations and Training) Section at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs. He comes here from Ft. Bliss, Tex., where he was attending the Army Air Defense School. Before that, Capt. Olson was stationed in Korea with the G-3 Air Branch of headquarters, Eighth U. S. Army. He, his wife, and their three children are living at 1105 Hallam Ave.

Wasson High School News

By CAROL JENSEN

Eligibility lists of Wasson High School capable to run for a school office were posted last week. These lists include the names of those junior students with the correct grade averages and citizenship marks that enable them to run for office. All students were encouraged to check these lists and see if their choice for candidate at the ward meetings is eligible to run for a cabinet position.

On Monday, April 6, sponsor group meetings will be held to inform the Wasson students about procedures for the ward meetings — nominating and voting procedures. These ward meetings are a part of Wasson's policy of running a democratic election, in that the students are divided into two main wards — the Cardinal and the Silver — according to sponsor groups. The ward names are derived from the school's colors.

Each ward will elect a student for each cabinet position and place this student's name on the ballot. Those students not nominated from the ward meetings can apply for a petition, but only a limited number of petitions are granted. In past years the petition candidate has had to obtain 400 signatures from fellow students before his name is placed on the ballot. Those students signing a petition are required to vote for this candidate.

The school elections will be held around the middle of April, and students will be able to use authentic voting machines. An assembly will be held prior to the elections to introduce the candidates to the student body; each candidate will have prepared a short campaign speech to deliver to the students at this time. The positions to be filled are student body president, vice-president, secretary of morale, secretary of publicity, secretary of records, secretary of social, secretary of courtesy, secretary of safety, and secretary of assemblies.

Shortly after the April elections of student body officers, the school cheerleaders will be elected. The annual cheerleading clinic will start within the next two weeks. This clinic is designed to teach the prospective candidates the school cheers and motions, along with exercises to make them more flexible. Usually the clinic lasts for about a month, with the girls meeting twice a week for two hours. There will also be a cheerleading squad composed of only sophomores for the first time next year; this will augment the A-squad and B-squad cheerleaders.

The annual Inauguration Dance will be held after the April elections, with the purpose of presenting the new school officers. Scott Brown, present secretary of social, is now working on plans for this dance with his social committee. Social committee is also holding decoration meetings for the Junior-Senior Prom, sponsored by the junior class, in May. Plans for the invitations to be addressed to all seniors, as done in previous years, are also being initiated.

Students at Wasson were on a triple assembly schedule last Friday to hear the Wasson band concert. Gus Jackson is Wasson's instrumental music director.

The last shipment of Wasson sweatshirts went on sale last week. This is absolutely the last time that present year students can purchase a sweatshirt until the next school year. These sweatshirts sell for $2 and are sold in the cubbyhole, located by the Hall of Fame.

The spring sports captains have been selected as follows: track co-captains, Jeff Bervin and Dominic Flacco; and baseball co-captains, Ron Nighswonger and Hal Meller.

Applications for selection for positions on the Wasson yearbook, the "Wahian, staff for next year are available for sophomore and junior students from their English teachers.

Seniors had an extended deadline of last week to get their senior announcement orders placed. The students were encouraged to tell their parents of this deadline, if they had not already done so. Senior announcements are used to send to friends or relatives a notice of the student's graduation.

April 6 is the deadline for submitting compositions for the May issue of Wasson's original literary magazine, the "Penman." Students with original stories, prose, or poetry are urged to submit their copy to the suggestion box or to a member of the magazine's staff, for consideration for publication.

Last Friday the movie, "Cimmaron," based on the book by Edna Ferber, was presented in the school auditorium beginning at 7:30. The price was 50 cents and the entire student body was invited to attend.

Two Wasson senior girls have been nominated as candidates for the Pikes Peak Relays track queen. They are Misses Paula Peake and Karen Lind.

LBJ to Toss Out First Ball at League Game

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson will keep tradition and attend the opening game of the American League baseball season April 13 and toss out the first ball.

Through the years this has been a standard presidential procedure, with misses occasionally.

The Washington Senators will play the Los Angeles Angels in the District of Columbia Stadium April 13.

Academy High Drama Club to Present Play

The Air Force Academy High Drama Club will highlight its season with a production of "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" by Anne Coulter Martens Friday at 8 p.m.

The two-act play, a mirth-provoking success of Broadway, was recently made into a hit movie.

Air Academy dramatists consider presentation of the comedy as one of their most ambitious undertakings. Production has been underway since February.

David Arlington, Speech and Drama Club faculty sponsor, is directing the play, assisted by Nighta-Leigh Webb.

Student directors are Sue Kyle and Linda Tudor, stage manager is Bob Lewis, Bruce Clark will handle the lighting, Sherry Kennedy, make-up, and Diane Auser, properties.

Jim Heaberg heads the cast in the role of Eddie's father, a thirtyish widower considered by Eddie to be a prime target for marriage.

Eddie, played by Bobby Tudor, starts all the fun when he sets out to find his Dad a wife.

Others in the cast include Linetta Miller, Ronnie Wright, Idahlyna Fultz, Peggy Campbell, Judy Hargrove, Judy Dunn, Mike Hermonious, John Orton, Dell Hobbs, Maryellen Baird, Deby McCollom, Bruce Raful, and Frank Choy.

Tickets are 75 cents and will be available at the door.
